"Nuvo" and "Frolaset" Corsets Improve Your Figure at the very First Fitting. You can see it in your mirror. Figure improvement is a "sine qua non" of health—and Health usually means beauty.

Beauty, as popularly interpreted, means an erect and perfectly balanced figure, never restricted but always refined. The face is usually the index of youth, health, and beauty, but it is almost impossible to find the artist who does not lay particular emphasis upon the figure when he wishes to convey his ideal of what is most perfect in womankind. This beauty of form is easily attained by wearers of "Nuvo" and "Frolaset" Corsets.

Type 1158. Price 16/11
A splendid model for figures of well-developed and large proportions. Low roomy bust, long hips. Made of extra strong coutil in white and dove. Boned with "SPIRAL UNBREAKABLE" Steels. Three pairs suspenders. Sizes 23 to 36.

WOMAN AND HER HOME.

Hidden Treasures: Relics of the Past.

OFTEN when rummaging through drawers and boxes one comes on unexpected treasures in the shape of ends of old embossed ribbons, a fragment of silk embroidered net, such as was worn in the days of good Queen Victoria, when, as a young matron, she held Court in London town.

Then, perhaps, out of an old sandal-wood box will tumble a frail, but lovely, Indian scarf, sent home as an offering from the East, in the ages when the tea clippers had to come all the way home by the Cape of Good Hope, and the opportunity was seized by far-off relatives to send ivories, silks, and wonderful specimens of Eastern jewellery as remembrances to loved ones at home. There they have lain forgotten, until, perhaps, the family are breaking up their home in Ireland, when lovely unknown treasures emerge from holes and corners to excite the admiration of all who see them.

Moth and Rust.

Alas! too often they show that they have suffered from the long neglect, and that "moth and rust" have done sad damage; even then they should not be cast away as useless. In many cases, on examination, whole pieces will be found worth keeping, and are invaluable just now, when fashion, tired of bead embroideries, now being relegated to the back ground, is in favour of delicate hand-painted, or hand-embroidered nets and gauzes. If such are bought new they are lovely, but most expensive, whereas the old embroideries are equally, if not more, beautiful; and, if carefully trimmed and the bad pieces cut away, will cost the happy possessor nothing but a little trouble.

Never throw away the smallest piece of lace, for, if of a good kind, it can always be used. A small piece of really good wide insertion set in an under-bodice is just what is required when gowns are cut well open in front. A charming way of using medallions of lace, cut from odd bits of old lace or insertion, is to applique them on to net, and use it for making the full bishop's sleeves, so much favoured for tea gowns and afternoon frocks. When a piece of lace is used in this way it should either be buttonholed on the net with a pale-coloured washing silk or with a piece of ribbon flower trimming.

Larger pieces of lace present endless possibilities; inset in the bodice of an evening gown, what distinction is at once achieved, especially if the lace is real, and not merely good imitation. A medallion of bold patterned lace will make the crown of a dainty boudoir cap, with a surround of fine net, while frills of Valencienne finish the edge. Sprigs and separate sprays carefully cut off an old oddment of lace, and appliqué on to fine net, will help to make those fascinating vests, which come to us from Paris, for wear with our spring tailored suits. In much of the newest millinery arriving from Paris lace and tulle are freely used, but here old lace is of little or no use. Bare brims to hats are little seen, the hard, outer line of a brim is softened by the addition of folds of tulle or lace falling over the edge.

Veils.

Veils are much in evidence; they flow loosely, and are often arranged so as to fall gracefully in a long point on the left side. They are black, and are made of good lace or embroidered net. For the loose sleeves of best gowns hand-run net is thought elegant, and anyone possessing such can easily utilise it thus. The old early Victorian lace veils, which were worn with the huge bonnets of that day can now be turned to many up-to-date uses.

These veils were often very lovely affairs, indeed. Limerick lace was frequently used, as was Brussels, and such veils, if in a good state of preservation, should not be cut into pieces. Old Tambour lace, though sometimes very handsome in design, is, of course, by no means of the same value, and such lace will form panels for an evening frock, or will completely renovate an evening gown of last year. Treasure your remnants. Life is too rapid to spend the time or care over things as they used to do in "the idle forties," when time was of no object, and the joys and sorrows of motors and aeroplanes were unknown.

DINNER TABLES.

HINTS ON HOW TO ARRANGE THEM.

THERE are many ways of arranging a successful dinner. One may begin by choosing delicious wines and thinking out dishes that will blend attractively with them; one may concoct a menu that would delight the veriest epicure; but the pleasantest dinner of all is one that finds itself set out amongst charming surroundings.

Flowers are above all things the ideal table decoration, and spring flowers, like spring days and spring hats, seem more wonderful than any others of the year. Glittering glass, the simple, exquisite flowers of the spring, and the pale light of candles make a gracious table setting.

For little informal and family dinners hostesses have dispensed with the conservative broad expanse of white damask, and have substituted runners of old petit-point, fine old lace and Chinese embroidery.

Two very tall glass candlesticks standing on a strip of dark tapestry would be fit companions for a crystal vase filled with pale mauve irises.

Starry primroses, arranged in moss as though they were growing in a flat glass dish, make a simple and charming table arrangement. To make your table look "different" lay on it a piece of Hungarian petit-point in faded greens and greys. Then go out into your garden and gather big sprays of golden pussy-willow and set it loosely in a wide-necked jar. No more uncommon and pleasing centre piece than this could be desired.

For a table where space is limited it is well to consider the possibilities of your dessert fruit. Scarlet apples, golden oranges and purple grapes laid amongst green leaves in a tall crystal fruit stand give a pretty note of colour, and in days when purses are short and flowers are, alas! so expensive, it is well to consider the decorative qualities of such picturesque edibles.

For the woman who has not the happy knack of arranging flowers, statuettes of marble and tiny figurines of Staffordshire ware are a delightful alternative. Grouped attractively they make a charming picture, and have the economical advantage of never fading, as do the loveliest flowers.

ELIZABETH KENT.

"DAYLIGHT MACHINE."

SOMETHING FOR WHICH WE MAY BE THANKFUL.

ON a pleasant, frosty day in January I passed through the glass-panelled doors of a huge shop in a busy English city. The "Sales" were in full swing, and as the people pushed their way from one department to another the scene was bewildering. The assistants, far-famed for their courtesy and their willingness to oblige, looked worried and weary as they tried to cope with the crowd of purchasers, whose politeness did not always match that of the girls who served them.

I struggled towards the wool department and asked for jumper wool of a certain shade, and a large package was produced. "Oh," I said, "I am afraid this is not the shade I want." The girl smiled pleasantly. "Of course," she said, "you must remember, madam, that you are looking at it by artificial light, which always makes a difference." I looked up in surprise. I had not realised that I had stepped from sparkling sunshine into the light of electricity.

Seeing that I still seemed uncertain, the girl made a suggestion. "Shall we take it to the daylight machine?" she said, and stepped from behind the counter, carrying the wool. I followed to an aluminium contrivance, under the light of which she held the wool, and lo! it was of the exact shade that I required! I left the great building, carrying my purchase, and forgot the incident.

Some days later I left that bustling English city and crossed an unexpectedly smooth sea to the land of my heart, where a period of wintry gales and driving rain awaited me. But when the storms were past, and a day dawned of brilliant sunshine, with a promise of future warmth, blue sky with fleecy white clouds, yellow daffodils nodding gently, I stood at the open window with my new wool in my hands.

I looked across the beautiful wooded country, where everything was bathed in sunshine, and my heart was uplifted by the beauty of it all. Then suddenly I thought of a girl whose busy days were spent in the glare of electricity, and I seemed to hear her voice again: "Shall we take it to the daylight machine?"

LATEST FASHION SNAPSHOTS.

THE THREE-PIECE SUIT.

OVER in Paris the three-piece suit has quite dethroned the spring tailleur of other seasons, and, indeed, it has an air of completeness that can never be achieved by a coat and skirt worn with a blouse. Usually these suits are made in fine cloths or serges, the bodice being carried out in silk or crepe in a brilliantly contrasting or else a matching colour.

A fine velours de laine suit appeared at one of the spring openings in the palest shade of silver grey. The cloth formed the skirt and the moujik coat, but the straight, long-sleeved bodice was of silver grey marocain, vividly embroidered in jade and cherry and black. Worn with a grey swathed toque, stabbed by a jade quill, it was an exceedingly smart toilette.

All the newest and most expensive shoes are much lower-heeled than they have been for many seasons. The long, pointed vamp is responsible for this, as it demands an elegant flowing line that is impossible to achieve with ultra high heels.

With the first daffodils fashionable return to their beloved "mag-pie" suits. Black and white is becoming to every woman, whether she be dark or fair, and for chic and smartness the combination is unrivalled. Black tailleurs are worn with chalk white lingerie blouses, white stockings, and white mouflon hats. Coat-frocks of black face cloth appear with white marocain sleeves, which are detachable for cleaning.

The long skirt will sound its death-knell if it is carried to extremes. At one of the very smart shows a sports suit was shown, hugging the ankles like the old-time hobble. If the designer imagined that he could foist such monstrosities on our free-striding, game-playing young women he was greatly mistaken.

The milliner's window is always a delight to see in the first season of the year. Hyacinth and cornflower blue, pale greys and fawns, with here and there touches of petunia and jade, come as a welcome change after the drab blacks and browns. Hats are either very big or very small, and the "turned back from the face" models are, perhaps, most popular. Later we shall have charming affairs entirely composed of organdie wear with our summer gowns.

Handbags are no longer considered accessories, but necessities. Shiny crocodile does duty on all morning and informal occasions, while for smart wear one must have something of beads or tissue or brocade. The Dorothy shape is "out," and instead Miladi tucks her minute hankie and powder puff into a flat little affair that resembles an envelope.

FLORENCE DREW.

TYRONE MURDER CHARGE.

VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY.

The trial of John Hackett, who was charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, Bernard McGaughey, was concluded on Saturday before Lord Justice Andrews at the Tyrone Assizes. The jury found the prisoner not guilty, and he was discharged.

Dr. Edward Thompson said that in his view the man's death was due to violence, and not to burning, as the defence suggested. When the body was found there was a pipe in the dead man's hand. Violence would cause the muscles of the hand to remain contracted; but if death had been due to suffocation or burning the muscles would have relaxed and the pipe would have fallen from the man's hand.

Dr. Abernethy, in cross-examination by Mr. T. J. Campbell, K.C., said that the wound on the dead man's back was post-mortem and due to burning.

Dr. A. H. R. Duncan said that it was impossible to say whether the wounds were caused before or after death. The fracture of the skull might have been caused by a falling beam. It was not a clean fracture, and its appearance was not consistent with having been caused by a hammer.

SENT FOR TRIAL.

IRISHMAN'S ARSENAL IN LIVERPOOL.

Charged with unlawful possession of arms and ammunition, Michael O'Donoghue, aged 28, was on Saturday at Liverpool committed for trial at the Assizes.

For the prosecution it was stated that the accused resided alone in a house in Workfield street, and as the result of a search made there by police there were found in a top bedroom five revolvers, four revolver cleaners, thirty rounds of revolver ammunition, 400 rounds of miniature rifle ammunition, a packet of fifty rounds of similar ammunition, 71 rounds of Browning automatic pistol ammunition, nineteen detonators, and eleven canvas ammunition carriers, designed similar to lifebelts.

When asked for his name, accused retorted: "You're paid to find that out." He subsequently gave his name at the bridewell.

In his possession was found a notebook containing entries respecting big consignments of ammunition, and also a publication which was the official organ of the Irregular forces in Ireland.

SURVEYORS' INSTITUTION.

THE COMPLETION OF LAND PURCHASE.

The Executive Committee of the Irish Branch of the Surveyors' Institution met at their offices, 110 Grafton street, Dublin; Mr. W. H. F. Verschoyle (Chairman) presiding, and there were also present:—Mr. A. H. Lee-Norman (Vice-Chairman), Mr. T. L. Townshend, Mr. J. Graves Clayton, Major C. G. C. Hemphill, Mr. W. H. Hinde, Mr. Charles Dickinson, Rt. Hon. George F. Stewart, Mr. R. H. R. Stewart, Mr. R. E. Maunsell, Mr. T. N. Edgeworth, and Mr. B. J. Newcombe, Secretary. The date of the annual general meeting was fixed for Thursday, 19th April, and the Committee decided on names of members to be submitted for election to fill vacancies.

BOXING.

McTIGUE BEATS SIKI ON POINTS.

A POOR FIGHT.

SCENES AT THE SCALA THEATRE, DUBLIN.

As an exposition of boxing at its best, it cannot be said that Saturday's fight, in which the Irishman Mike McTigue wrested the Light-Heavy-Weight Championship of the World from Battling Siki, came up to expectations. There was an almost total absence of those thrills and exciting incidents one is wont to associate with contests of such importance. Indeed, there was monotonous similarity about the majority of the twenty rounds; one man, Siki, doing all the leading—without, however, inflicting much damage—and the other boxing on the retreat. The black's bustling tactics were in striking contrast to those of his opponent, who, for the most part, met the fierce onslaughts of the burly Senegalese with amazing sang froid, and McTigue's wonderful defence and dexterity in avoiding punishment were object lessons in themselves.

It must be borne in mind that the Irishman was at a disadvantage in the matter of weight, being nearly a stone lighter than Siki, and seven years his senior, and it speaks volumes for his pluck that, subsequently to the 13th round, in which he broke the thumb of his right hand, he fought better and more aggressively than at any previous part of the contest. Although, taking round by round, the writer thought McTigue was in a minority of points at the end, one cannot withhold praise for his magnificent display of ringcraft, generalship and resourcefulness when in a tight corner. When he did "mix" it with Siki he more than held his own, as he demonstrated clearly in the seventeenth and eighteenth rounds, in which he outboxed the Senegalese, who struck one as being no glutton for punishment. The Irishman's clever footwork often left Siki "guessing," and time and again the latter's whirlwind swings were simply beating the air, and very rarely connected, except with the glove of his opponent.

Nevertheless, he had the better of the first half dozen rounds, during which McTigue contented himself with defending. At the tenth meeting, the Irishman steadied his opponent with a fine right to the body, but towards the end of the next round Siki got home a couple of damaging blows to the head, one of which cut his opponent over the eye, and the sound of the gong must have come as a relief to his friends. Subsequently, McTigue improved, despite the injured thumb, and reduced his deficit, but the black gave as much as he got in the last two rounds.

Secretary—Captain J. Corcoran. Official Medical Officers—Dr. P. MacCartan, T.D., M.B., B.Ch., and Dr. G. M. De Vine, M.B., B.Ch. Press Stewards—Mr. Thomas E. Healy, and Mr. T. Millier.

THE CONTEST.

Round 1.—At half-past eight the gong sounded, and immediately the men had taken the centre of the ring. Siki dashed to the attack, only to be cleverly countered by his opponent. A left lead and two hard swings for the body also proved abortive, and then some cautious sparring followed, with Siki still on the offensive, without, however, doing any damage. Later he landed a couple of light jabs; but McTigue was content to act entirely on the defensive. He was obviously weighing up his man and taking no chances.

Round 2.—Siki immediately went for his rival, who defended beautifully; but, nevertheless, the Senegalese landed with the right and left, one on the side of the head and the other to the body. Some clinching ensued, in which Siki was cautioned. Neither man did any harm in the sparring which followed, and near the end of the round Siki essayed several swings, which, however, were very wide of the mark—a tame round.

Round 3.—Siki became busy at once, and, driving the Irishman to the corner, he landed with either hand. McTigue was constantly on the retreat, and Siki got in a glancing blow to the jaw, followed by a right hook. McTigue tried an uppercut, which was blocked by Siki, who, feinting with the left, got home his right to the face as the gong sounded. McTigue's defence was magnificent.

Round 4.—Continuing his aggressive tactics, Siki landed twice on the body and head; but still McTigue was content merely to act on the defensive. Later on in some in-fighting the coloured man got home on the body. So far it was Siki's fight, but the Irishman was meeting his fierce onslaughts with amazing coolness, wonderful skill, faultless ringcraft and resource.

Round 5.—There was little in this round beyond light sparring, with McTigue mostly on the retreat. There was hardly what could be termed a hard knock struck, and nearing the end McTigue dodged a dangerous-looking swing which, had it found its billet, would have ended matters there and then.

Round 6.—Siki went after his man, who cleverly side-stepped him, but eventually McTigue was shaken up by one to the side of the head. Then came the first really effective blow struck by McTigue, who landed a beautiful right to the body, and just as the gong went he only just missed his man with a vicious uppercut.

Round 7.—The black early on got home lightly on the side of the head, and, feinting with his left, he crossed the right; but McTigue cleverly slipped out of the danger zone. The Clare man was worrying his opponent by planting at will gentle taps on the nose, which, however, would scarcely hurt a fly. Towards the end of this round Siki tried a right and left, both of which were cleverly blocked.

Round 8.—Siki opened the round with a right swing, which the other smartly eluded. Going in again, he landed on the body, but there was not much sting behind the blow. Then followed more of the light tapping by McTigue. There was very little fighting in this round.

Round 9.—Siki soon got to close quarters, and landed heavily on the head, following up by rushing his man to the corner, where they went into a clinch, in breaking away from which McTigue swung a hard one to the head. Some close in-fighting supervened, in which Siki dodged a well-meant uppercut, and was then cautioned for using the kidney punch.

Round 10.—Following cautious sparring, Siki tried ineffectively with the right and left in turn. McTigue replied with a couple to the head, the second of which steadied his opponent, and the challenger scored again with a straight left to the head.

Round 11.—There was little done for the first two minutes, but then Siki set about his man and got home hard with the right, which made a gash over the Irishman's left eye. The black supplemented this with two to the body, and was having all the best of matters when the gong sounded.

Round 12.—Siki continued on the aggressive, but clever footwork by McTigue stood the latter in good stead, and he thus avoided punishment. Not to be denied, however, Siki came again and scored smartly at close quarters with half-arm jolts. McTigue steadied him with a right to the body.

Round 13.—There was not much effective work done in this round, although Siki did gather some points. A terrific swing by the coloured boxer, had it found its mark, must have put an end to the fight, but McTigue, on the ropes, ducked it beautifully. He was the personification of coolness, and his footwork and ringcraft were superb.

Round 14.—Siki twice tried with the left, but was short, and, following a sharp rally, McTigue drove his right to the stomach, Siki seeking relief by going into a clinch. Just as the round ended Siki re-opened the cut over the Irishman's eye with a flush hit.

Round 15.—Siki started this round with a right swing which missed its mark, but later he landed twice on the injured optic. McTigue retaliated by sending his right hard to the jaw with steadying effect; but his opponent was quickly attacking again. He, however, rarely succeeded in penetrating the Irishman's remarkable defence.

Round 16.—Dashing in from the bell, Siki sent in a slashing right, which, fortunately for McTigue, glanced off his glove; but Siki going after his man scored twice to the head. McTigue was short with an uppercut, and they went into a clinch.

Round 17.—After a bout of sparring and that tantalising tap, tap, tap from McTigue, Siki got home lightly on the body, and in a brisk rally landed on the face. A wild swing was easily eluded by the Irishman, who drove his right to the head, and he scored again with rights and lefts to the body. "Mac" had decidedly the better of this round.

Round 18.—Resuming, Siki was cleverly countered by McTigue, who was only just short with a left jab, but later he penetrated the black's defence with rights and lefts to the head and body, and after easily avoiding a wild swing went in again to land a good right on the head. This also was McTigue's round.

Round 19.—As usual, Siki lost no time in getting to work. He scored with left and right to the body, and, driving his man to the ropes, sent home two more to the head. A right swing by McTigue was short, and then Siki swung his right to the jaw. McTigue sidestepped out of danger, but the Senegalese was quickly attacking again and finished with the best of the round.

Round 20.—Getting to close quarters at once, McTigue scored with the right on the body, and, after dodging a right swing, got in a couple of stinging uppercuts, to which Siki responded by landing with right and left to the head. The black swung again for the body, but was wide of the mark, and, try hard though he did, failed to get past McTigue's guard again except just towards the end, when he got one home lightly on the Irishman's face.

THE MINOR CONTESTS.

With regard to the minor contests, Eugene Stuber, who is Siki's principal sparring partner, earned the verdict over Tom Ireland, of London, after a hard-fought ten rounds, there being more power behind the Frenchman's punch, which enabled him to wear down his opponent in the last couple of rounds, during which he was all over his rival.

Bandsman Cullen, of the National Army, was outclassed by his more experienced opponent, Johnny Sullivan, of London, against whom he, however, put up a plucky fight.

An interesting bout was that between Young Walsh (Bolsover), a protege of McTigue, and Jim Hall (Sheffield), the latter of whom was outpointed in a splendidly-contested set-to.

SPECIAL 10-ROUND CONTEST.—Eugene Stuber (France) beat Tom Ireland (London) on points.

SPECIAL 10-ROUND CONTEST.—Johnny Sullivan (London) beat Bandsman Cullen (National Army) on points.

SPECIAL 10-ROUND CONTEST.—Young Walsh (Bolsover) beat Jim Hall (Sheffield) on points.

SCENES AT THE FIGHT.

RESULT RECEIVED WITH ENTHUSIASM.

From an uninitiated spectator's point of view, the McTigue-Siki Fight was disappointing. One expected, somehow or other, a finer display of the "manly art" from such famous boxers than that to which they treated their patrons. But, anyhow, it was a memorable battle; and it will furnish all who witnessed it with a topic of discussion for some time. At the end of the twenty rounds the majority of the spectators were surprised when the referee declared McTigue the victor. Throughout the fight there was nothing approaching a knock-out blow given by either of the men, and it was beginning to be regarded as monotonous until, at the seventeenth round, McTigue, who hitherto worked rather on the defensive, put on a spurt. Siki is a slogger, and at times displayed signs of bad temper as he got in some smart left-handers on McTigue's jaw. The black man is a stone heavier and six years younger than the Irishman, all of which was to his advantage in the contest.

McTigue was born in the County Clare on the 26th November, 1892. It was not until he emigrated to the United States that he became a boxer. The fight with Siki is his 117th bout, and of these 35 of his opponents were coloured men. He won in all these latter except three.

Siki is a well-built man, with a hard, round head, like a battering-ram, on which Mike's blows seemed to have little or no effect. He had never had a notable encounter until he met Carpentier in Paris some six months ago, and defeated him.

The scene in the Scala Theatre on Saturday night when McTigue was declared the victor was one of unbounded enthusiasm. The house was well filled, and the stage was converted into a gallery, which also was crowded. The gathering was representative of every class of followers of sport—and others. Crowds began to congregate around Prince's street from seven o'clock onward, all eager to catch a glimpse of the protagonists. At half-past seven the theatre was nearly full; but ticket holders, sure of their seats, dribbled in up to 8 o'clock. Exhibitions of a minor character occupied the attention of the spectators until 8.15, when McTigue and Siki, both in their dressing-gowns, entered the ring.

Before their arrival the report of an explosion, which took place a short distance away, sent a thrill through the spectators. Shortly afterwards one of the managers of the fight announced that an order had been received from the military authorities that the people were not to leave the theatre before 11.30. This announcement, coupled with the report of the explosion, did not, to say the least of it, produce a tranquillising effect. However, as time went on, and the "ring" was the cynosure of all eyes, these sensations were forgotten.

After the few preliminary bouts and before the champions made their appearance in the ring Mr. Jim Harris, who acted in the capacity of master of ceremonies, introduced Georges Carpentier to the audience. The Frenchman, graceful of figure, quiet and modest in appearance, was given a thoroughly enthusiastic reception. He bowed his acknowledgments, and retired to his place on the front seat, where he sat beside the timekeeper and other officials, and watched the contest with imperturbable composure. Mr. Harris told the audience, who were clamouring for "a speech," that Carpentier had come over specially to challenge the winner of the fight. Joe Beckett, the English heavy-weight champion, Frank Moran, and Eddie Egan, also well-known professors of the "art," were brought to the front, and they also, as well as Mr. Tom Webster, the brilliant cartoonist, shared in the ovation.

As the fight is described in detail in another column, it is unnecessary to say any more about it here.

As soon as the Irishman was declared the winner on points the fact was conveyed quickly to the huge crowd that had to be kept back out of Prince's street by barriers and by the police. Cheer after cheer rent the air, while inside the theatre the enthusiasm reached almost ungovernable bounds. Men waved their hats and yelled themselves hoarse. McTigue's admirers invaded the ring, and lifted him upon their shoulders around the limited space. Overcome by the emotion and excitement of the moment, one of the new champion's seconds fell in a faint, and was carried out of the house.

When McTigue was set free from the embarrassing attentions of his admirers he stepped to the front and thanked the audience for the reception they had given him. It was then learned that he had dislocated his thumb during the fight. Early on he sustained a cut over the left eye, but it did not appear to cause him any trouble. On returning to his hotel McTigue was seen by Surgeon McArdle, who attended to his injured hand.

Siki heard the decision against him with a degree of wonderment, and protested, vainly of course, that he should have been declared the victor.

The Press of Great Britain, France, and the United States and Italy was represented, and the scribes, whose business was to describe the fight, could not fail to be satisfied with the accommodation provided for them.

Among the spectators were:—Mr. Hugh Kennedy, Attorney-General; Mr. J. J. Walsh, Postmaster-General; Mr. Joseph McGrath, Minister of Trade and Commerce; Mr. Dan McCarthy, T.D., Chief Government Whip; Mr. Emmet Dalton, Chief Clerk to the Senate; and Colonel Edgeworth Johnstone, an ex-heavy-weight champion of the British Army.

It was nearly half-past eleven when the last man left the theatre, and when the people got outside they had an unpleasant experience, as the vast multitude in O'Connell street had been thrown into a state of wild panic by the firing of revolver shots.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUNNING.

COUNTY DUBLIN SENIOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

CLONLIFFE'S EASY WIN.

The National Athletic and Cycling Association is to be congratulated on the successful results of its efforts to stimulate interest in cross-country running, and it is satisfactory to record that the attractive championship programme put forward has been so well supported by the clubs. On Saturday last the County Dublin Board promoted a nine miles' senior race, which was decided over the Phoenix Park Racecourse, through the kindness of Mr. J. H. H. Peard. A very fair attendance of spectators witnessed the event, and they were rewarded by a very interesting race for individual honours, which, in the end, resulted in a win for H. B. Bingham, the Clonliffe crack.

The consistent running of the Clonliffe Harriers in the various events of the season suggested the likelihood of their scoring another success, but it was hardly expected they would have been able to return such a low score as 29 points, particularly as they were without the help of A. J. Cassidy. In addition to supplying the first man home, they finished their scoring team of six in the first eight, but this fact was due more to the manner in which many of the fancied candidates dropped out of the running than to the levelness of the team. They were a very even lot, nevertheless; and it is noteworthy that 3 mins. 32 secs. covered the six men. In the early stages of the race they took things easily, but by the time half the distance was covered their victory was assured. The Donores were without the services of Harris and Pearson, and the absence of this pair took the heart out of the team. St. James's Gate ran without Ashe, and Brazil's retirement was a surprise, after his running in the Junior. The Dublin City Harriers and the Harp C. and A.C. had a keen fight for second place, the Harps securing the distinction by six points, thanks mainly to Callaghan's forward running. Details:—

INMAN V. PEALL.

On Saturday afternoon, Inman had as his best breaks 122, 115 and 196, and Peall's best breaks were 152, 75 and 122. Interval scores:—Inman, 7,334; Peall, 4,774.

Peall found himself 2,902 points in arrears at the close of the night's session. The ex-Champion was in grand form, scoring 667, against Peall's 325. Breaks—Inman, 147, 168, 171 and 134 (unfinished); Peall, 163 and 83. Closing scores:—Inman, 8,001; Peall, 5,099.

SMITH OUTPOINTS NEWMAN.

The concluding match in the series of seven between Smith and Newman, for £500 a-side, ended at Leicester square, London, on Saturday, in a victory for Smith by 792 points, and he thus won the contest on the total aggregate by 22 points. But Newman secured the stakes of £200 for the highest break, having made 972 in the opening match. At the end of the sixth game there was only a difference of 130 points between them, and the final match was productive of much brilliant play on both sides, the lead changing hands several times. Smith, as the result of a great effort on Friday, led by 376. On Saturday he totalled for the afternoon 667, against 524 by Newman, whose best breaks were 134 and 264. Interval scores:—Smith, 15,334; Newman, 14,615. Playing confidently at night, Smith was always sure of his success, for although Newman made capital breaks of 369 and 165, Smith, with 203, 101 and 162 (unfinished), ran out winner. Final scores:—Smith, 16,000; Newman, 15,208.

FALKINER V. STEVENSON.

This exhibition game at Piccadilly, London, ended on Saturday in a win for Falkiner after an interesting finish by 82 points. Stephenson, starting the final day's play 223 points behind, made a great effort to pull the game round, compiling breaks of 231, 259, 200, and 153 against Falkiner's best of 210 and 229. Final scores:—Falkiner, 12,000; Stevenson, 11,918.

HOCKEY.

SATURDAY'S MATCHES.

ENGLAND WINS TWO INTERNATIONALS.

All our grounds have benefited by the recent dry spell, and the N.E. wind of the past few days put on the finishing touches, so that hard, fast pitches made for better hockey on Saturday. A number of matches were worked off and the programme is now more up-to-date.

England carried off both her Internationals, overwhelming Scotland at Aberdeen 9-1, while the ladies scored their nineteenth win against Ireland on a 3-0 score. In the Mills' Cup, Dublin University and Railway Union abandoned the game as a draw on a three-all score after extra time, and in the Senior Cup final Banbridge were just good enough to dispose of Monkstown by 3-2.

MILLS CUP.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY (3) v. RAILWAY UNION (3).

It is many weeks since the College Park was in such good condition as on Saturday for this postponed tie. As a result, we had a really good game from start to finish, in fact the best game of a heavy day. The one drawback was a slight roughness—the surface—and as a result a certain amount of mis-hitting.

Both teams turned out as listed, and once they had warmed up to the game there was very little in the exchanges. All through it was a case of attack and counter-attack, and neither side able to establish any decided supremacy. Trinity were first away and forced a corner, which was well cleared, and Railway replied, only to find Strong and Livingston sound in defence. The game had been in progress eight minutes before a well-placed shot from a free by Fox reached MacDonagh, who gave Hand little chance with a fast drive. Keeping the pressure going, Aykroyd was only just wide, and then Railway had a spell of attack, in the course of which Heatley saved well from C. Sully, while a short corner was rushed away. For a spell there was little in it and then Gillespie broke away on the wing, and from his centre C. Sully brought the scores level. From the restart Trinity attacked, and a clever individual effort by Evans gave them the lead again. The exchanges continued very even, and up to half-time there was no addition to the score.

The first ten minutes of the second half ran on much the same lines, but Railway were rather more aggressive, and ultimately had their reward when a neat inside movement by the Sully brothers resulted in V. Sully equalising. Fast, open play followed without definite advantage to either side. Both defences were tested in turn and proved equal to the strain, as a result of which the final whistle came with the score still two-all.

Twenty minutes' extra time provided a repetition of the previous play. A home attack early on resulted in Aykroyd scoring with a wonderful shot, and they crossed over with Trinity one goal up. Railway rallied on change of ends, and a partial clearance by Heatley gave Gillespie a chance which he took. This finished the scoring, and the game was abandoned as a draw, to be replayed to-morrow at Park avenue, at 4.15. Teams:—

Dublin University—R. A. Heatley; C. Blair White, T. L. Livingston; M. D. Fox, B. J. Gahan, H. W. Strong; J. M. Eyre, R. S. Evans, W. R. Aykroyd, W. P. MacDonagh, W. E. Acheson.

Railway Union—J. Hand; V. Tomkins, K. Browner; W. Chiddick, E. Williams, J. Ryan; T. Browner, C. Sully, V. Sully, H. Sully, P. Gillespie.

IRISH CUP FINAL.

BANBRIDGE (3) v. MONKSTOWN (2).

Both finalists had had a stiff journey to reach Saturday's game at Claremont road, where the ground was in excellent condition. Played in a real cup-tie spirit the game was very keen all through, and at no stage was there much between them. For a time it was a case of give and take, but ultimately a strong Banbridge attack saw McKeown score after Fenton had saved from Rushbridge. Banbridge attacked again along the left, to be cleverly checked by Peterson, and the following counter-attack wound up when Pearson brought the scores level. From this to half-time there was little in it, but the little there was was in favour of the Northerners, thanks to rather better combination.

Both defences were playing well, and it was midway through the half when a lapse by Peterson allowed M'Williams through to give Banbridge the lead. The pace held good, but there was no further scoring until a penalty corner gave Rowlands a chance, which he took, and they faced the closing stages level on the score—2 all. From the ensuing bully Banbridge got down again, and although checked for a time J. Coburn finally got in a good centre, from which Rushbridge gave them the lead with a well-placed shot. Monkstown now had a spell of attack, and one chance of equalising from a penalty corner, but "sticks" spoiled, and the closing stages ran in favour of the leaders, but without addition to the score. Thus a keen game resulted in the cup going North for the third time in its history, and by the narrow margin of a goal. The winners played the better hockey throughout, and owe their win to the better understanding between halves and forwards in attack. Teams:—

Monkstown—A. Fenton; J. Peterson, G. M. Orr; W. Morrison, D. R. Rowlands (capt.), G. Darcus; A. Pearson, E. Dorrner, Ronald Semmence, R. Leitch Robert Semmence.

Banbridge—J. Hughes; A. Cull, J. Morton; H. C. Cull, J. H. Harvey, R. Simms; J. Coburn, W. N. M'Williams, R. A. Rushbridge, J. M'Keown, N. Coburn.

LADIES' INTERNATIONAL.

ENGLAND (3) v. IRELAND (0).

Pace and finish combined to bring about this result at Park avenue on Saturday in what was the twenty-fourth game of the series, and the winners now lead by 19 wins to Ireland's 3, the remaining games being drawn. Cold and bright, the conditions for the match were perfect, and in consequence the attendance was good when the teams took the field. The customary international ground had been carefully prepared, and played fast and true.

At the start it looked as if Ireland was going to check the run of English victories in recent years, and a good rush put us attacking from the bully-off. The visitors' defence showed up well, and Miss Knott and Miss Scarlett in turn cleared to the centre. Then England had a turn in attack, and forced a corner, from which nothing came. Gradually the visitors asserted themselves, and, making the most of their superior pace subjected the home defence to heavy pressure. The latter held out well for a time, Miss Archdale being responsible for some good clearances. However, a score looked certain, and come it did as the result of ten minutes' play. The movement developed on the right wing, where Miss Northwood got down with a clever dribble, and her final pass to Miss Newell resulted in the last-named opening the score. Thereafter Ireland had rather more of the play, and repeatedly invaded the English territory, but the support of the home middle line to their forwards when attacking was not what it should have been, and in consequence the visitors' defence drove back each attack. The English half line showed very good form, and their accurate passing to the forwards put the side attacking repeatedly. Had they made more use of the wings those dashes would have been more dangerous, but they played mainly to the insides. For a time the home defence withstood these attacks, but ultimately a good combined run wound up by Miss Northwood increasing the lead. Restarting, Ireland had a turn in attack but failed to make any impression on the defence, in which Miss Knott stood out conspicuously, her stopping and clearing being very sound. Shortly before half-time another English attack resulted in Mrs. M'Murtrie scoring the third goal after Miss Olden had saved, and the interval arrived to find Ireland attacking.

Three goals in hand, England went into attack on the restart, and the game ran in their favour. However, the home defence showed great improvement, and both full backs and Miss Olden in goal got through a lot of work. Now and then the Irish forwards broke away, but could never press home their attacks, and Mrs. Maltby was never really tested in goal. If poor in attack the Irish defence rose to the occasion in splendid fashion, and try as they would, the English forwards could not get through. Against a defence any less resolute they must have scored repeatedly, but the half ran its course without addition to the score. Just on time Ireland had a chance of reducing the lead following an individual effort by Miss Wallis, but the final pass went astray, and England ran out good winners as above. Teams:—

IRELAND.

Goal—Miss Olden (Munster).
Backs—Mrs. Charley (Ulster) (capt.), Miss Williams (Munster).

ENGLAND (9) V. SCOTLAND (1).

In the match at Aberdeen on Saturday, England's victory over Scotland by 9 goals to 1 was a great surprise and something of a shock for the Scotsmen, who had previously this season defeated Wales and Ireland. The Englishmen made the pace from the start. They were always the better side, and in the second half had their opponents quite outclassed. Scotland made two changes in their team, G. Wallis (Western) taking the place of D. Innes at right back, and H. Phillips, of Nomads, being outside-left in place of G. J. Pirie, and the changes did not lead to improved combination. Scotland started in great style, and early MacDonald scored a brilliant goal for them, but that proved to be the sum total of their scoring. Then the visitors settled down, and the superiority of their forwards was always evident. Mansergh equalised and then found the net again, while before the interval Morcon increased the visitors' lead to 3-1.

After change of ends the Scotsmen were quite overplayed, and the skill of the English backs prevented them developing any attacks. On the other hand, the representatives of the rose, playing with plenty of confidence, opened up the game with admirable results, and six further goals were obtained, Mansergh and Chilman scoring twice each, and Savelle and Morcon adding further goals.

ULSTER SENIOR LEAGUE.

Lisnagarvey proved vastly superior to Holywood on Saturday, and won by 4 goals to 1 goal. The winners led by 3 goals at the interval, and if they had exerted themselves they might easily have scored more than once in the second half.

South Antrim defeated East Antrim by 2 goals to nil; and Queen's University gained a very meritorious victory over Antrim Town. Antrim were 2 goals up at half time, but they only scored once afterwards, whilst Queen's attacked with such effectiveness that they beat the defence four times.

ENGLAND DEFEATS SCOTLAND.

In the match at Aberdeen on Saturday England's hockey victory over Scotland by 9 goals to 1 was a great surprise, and something of a shock for the Scotsmen, who had previously this season defeated Wales and Ireland.

ENGLISH TEAM V. IRELAND.

After the England v. Scotland match on Saturday the following were selected to represent England against Ireland at Birmingham next Saturday:—G. E. Routley; C. L. Spackman, J. H. Bennett; D. O. Light, H. L. Price, E. Hartley; S. H. Stevenson, S. Saville, T. W. Manergh, C. S. W. Marcon, K. G. Chilman.

The only change is at full-back, where C. L. Spackman comes in for C. P. Starke-Jones.

WEEK-END ACTIVITIES.

CIVIC GUARDS' GOOD SHOW.

(BY PAT'O.)

Yesterday the Civic Guards appeared in Dublin hurling for the first time. They were matched against a strong Grocers' team in the opening tie of the Senior League. It proved a splendid contest, in which the issue was ever in doubt, and the fortunes varied as either end was visited alternately.

The Guards had the services of Martin Hayes, one of Dublin's best backs. The sod was fast, and the weather bright and pleasant. The hurling was at all times open and clean. The Guards had the best of the early exchanges, and scored a point after seven minutes. Grocers settled down to strong work at mid-field. Their captain, John Ryan, filled his usual place on the quarter-line, and his great steadiness stemmed many vigorous rushes.

Grocers now went into attack. Conway, Maher, and Ryan were hurling strongly, and a nice low shot brought Grocers their first score—a goal.

The Guards' backs hurled in finished fashion, lifting and hitting with considerable skill. They had, as extreme, P. Barry, a veteran of Limerick's inter-provincial games. He was not fully trained, however, and missed several chances before getting through for a goal. Some nice passages overhead were now a feature, and Guards sent wide twice. Nearing the half-way stage, Hayes got two frees placed in favourable positions, and, notching two points, gave his side a three points lead at the interval. At half-time the score was:—

Guards—1 goal, 3 points.
Grocers—1 goal.

Some first-rate hurling marked the second half. There were far better passages than those witnessed in the recent All-Ireland final. Playing the ball at all times both teams combined nicely and struck freely. Some excitement followed a stout attack on the Guards' goal. The keeper did very well, indeed; but fast shots got a point and a goal for Grocers in quick succession, giving them the lead. The ball travelled quickly, and Ryan got his forwards in action, but a strong attack was beaten off at the expense of a free close in. Conway hit a low, strong shot, which beat four successive hurleys and found the net.

A strong rally of the Guards followed. Barry dribbled past and doubled cleverly into the net. Only a point behind, the Guards fought strongly for the deciding score, but Ryan and Conway were clever and kept them out. Full time came with Grocers lucky winners by the smallest margin. The Guards will win many matches when they have played longer together. Final scores:—

Grocers—4 goals, 1 point.
Civic Guards—3 goals, 3 points.

University College then lined up against St. Patrick's, Drumcondra, in the Senior Football Championship. The University men were short of the Gardiners, but managed to field a fairly useful team, of which Pierce, Lavin, and Sullivan were best.

The game was a scrappy affair, and fell very flat after the fast hurling match. Neither side displayed much finish. Kearney shot a goal from a free for St. Patrick's early on, but Collegians were soon making things hot for the Drumcondra men. Despite Corr's strong defence, "Nationals" had four point flags raised at the half-hour.

St. Patrick's were unlucky in having a goal (scored early in the second half) disallowed. I happened to be near at hand, and am satisfied it was a legitimate goal, the scorer being just outside the parallelogram. Thenceforward the University dominated the game. Pierce and Co. penetrating the St. Patrick's defence repeatedly. Kearney kicked a point from a free nearing the end. Final scores:—

University College, Dublin—1 goal, 5 points.
St. Patrick's—1 goal, 1 point.

On Saturday, O'Tooles met St. Mary's, Sandyford, in the final of the Elvery Cup. The North City men played cleverly, as usual, and though short a few of their best men won comfortably. Their long punts served them well on the wings, and their attack was more fruitful than that of the speedier, but lighter, team from Sandyford.

A very accomplished side of lady hurlers from Cork visited Dublin during the holiday week-end, and they met a selection from Dublin and Galway Universities at Terenure Park on Saturday afternoon. The visitors played the superior game all the way. At centre-field Miss O'Callaghan was best, and her forwards had greater control of the ball than the opposing twelve. Misses Gamble and Callanan were very prominent, piling up a strong score nearing the end. Final score:—

Cork U.C.—6 goals 1 point.
Dublin and Galway U.C.'s—Nil.

The display yesterday evening was very much better. The Dublin League had a strong selection. The Cork team appeared wearied from their exertions at Terenure Park the previous afternoon. Dublin's methods were more robust, and when the ball moved along the turf they were the longer hitters. From a home offensive Miss Pollard secured and drove home a grand goal, the first score of the match. Cork had hard luck in not registering before the half-way, and when Miss Gill, of Dublin, shot a point through the home League combination were comfortably ahead. Scores at half-time:—

Dublin—1 goal 1 point.
Cork—Nil.

The Munster ladies were very stubbornly pressing home attacks after the resumption. At one period they looked like winning, and kept Dublin pinned to their lines. Overs for Cork resulted. Miss Murphy seemed to have scored—the Dublin keeper throwing the ball out. Cork were destined to defeat, for Miss Gill, who represents the camog game on the Tailteann Council, proved a capable forward. She registered the only score in the second half—a point—following a sharp defence by Misses Murphy and Duggan. Final scores:—

Dublin League—1 goal 2 points.
Cork U.C.—Nil.

Dublin League proved a very steady and safe side, hitting carefully and keeping their goal intact against a very persistent Cork attack in the second half.

Limerick hurlers (All-Ireland Champions) travel to Dublin again on Sunday next. They meet Kilkenny (Leinster Champions) at three o'clock, and I learn they travel at full strength. Kilkenny are very keen on meeting the conquerors of Dublin. The hour is very convenient, and the sod at Croke Park is at the moment better than it has been for many months. I had a conversation with the Kilkenny representative at the Leinster Convention. The present Leinster Champions are a young eager team, with great possibilities.

The initiation of a Saturday League has long been occupying the attention of Dublin Gaels. A new committee has launched the project, and the opening match, on St. Patrick's Day, was a good indication of future success.

Kickhams met Civic Guard footballers in the first tie, and it was only in the last few minutes that the older team triumphed over the newly-formed club. The Guards have ample material. Their backs are sound, and if the wings are weak they can be easily strengthened. Kickhams were short four of their regular team, but they rallied at five minutes to go, Hunt's goal deciding the issue. Guards have all the essentials for developing a fifteen which will take a big place in this year's games.

DEATH OF GEORGE BEAN.

George Bean, who died on Friday from pneumonia, had just entered his sixtieth year. He was born on 7th March, 1864. Starting his career for his native county of Nottinghamshire, he saw little prospect of securing a permanent place in the eleven, and so qualified for Sussex by residence. For Sussex nearly all his best work as a batsman was done. He was brilliant on the off-side. Brighton wickets suited him to perfection. He was at his best in 1891, and at the end of that season he went to Australia with Lord Sheffield's eleven. As things turned out, the tour added nothing to his reputation. He was at the top of his form again for Sussex in 1893, and went on playing with more or less success for several seasons. For many years a member of the M.C.C.'s ground staff at Lord's, he had a most successful benefit in 1921.

RUGBY.

CALCUTTA CUP FOR ENGLAND.

GREAT GAME AT EDINBURGH.

ENGLAND .... 8 POINTS.
SCOTLAND .... 6 POINTS.

Many International Rugby games have had a more dramatic ending than the latest meeting of Scotland and England at Inverleith, but for sustained tension of feeling it is difficult to remember any one to exceed the week-end game by which England beat Scotland by a goal and a try to two tries, or eight points to six, and thus retained the Calcutta Cup. The following were the teams:

Scotland—*D. Drysdale (Heriotonians); *E. H. Liddell (Edinburgh University), *A. L. Gracie (Harlequins) (capt.), *E. McLaren (Royal High School), *A. Browning (Glasgow High School); *S. B. McQueen (Waterloo), *W. E. Bryce (Selkirk); J. M. Bannerman (Glasgow High School), *J. C. Buchanan (Stewartonians), *L. M. Stuart (Glasgow High School), *D. S Davies (Hawick), *J. *Denotes an old International.

There was not a flagging moment throughout. In the early exchanges the Scottish forwards carried the scrums, and three times Davies was subjected to some hard tackling. The forward rushes looked threatening, and Tom Voyce gave away a penalty by being off-side. It was in a line with the posts and near midfield, but Browning contented himself with a long kick to touch. Gracie and Myers each tried to drop a goal—very poor efforts, the ball hardly rising a yard in each case. Kershaw and Davies worked the ball away to Locke, who passed to Smallwood. The wingman beat Browning, and was only half-checked by Drysdale, and he forced his way over for a try, which Luddington failed to convert, twenty-five minutes from the start. Gracie gave McLaren his chance, and the equalising try was registered. Browning had a much easier place-kick than was Luddington's, and sent wide. Three points each at half-time.

Scotland put in some terrific pressure on resuming. For ten minutes England were kept in their own '25, but it was still touch and go. A quarter of an hour from "time," McQueen punted up the field. Gracie followed up at a tearing pace, and with Lowe fumbling, he kicked the ball past Holloway and had another race with the full-back. It was a near thing for a dead line decision, but Gracie got there first, and the try, unconverted by Drysdale, was allowed. England's winning try arrived five minutes later. It illustrated what dangerous opportunists the visitors are. Locke intercepted McQueen's pass to Gracie and got away. Voyce supported him in his usual fashion, and took a pass near Drysdale, the full-back, which gave England the try. Everything depended on the goal kick. It was near the touch line, but Luddington, in a hushed silence, sent the ball sailing between the posts.

England had some close shaves after this. Voyce was the best forward on the field, but Wakefield, Luddington, Sanders, Gardner, and Cove-Smith were all very much in the picture. Davies and Kershaw were not the irresistible pair we have known in the past. Davies often fumbled, and his genius halted, but he was still England's mascot, and has shared in six victories over the Scottish forces.

Scotland cannot blame their forwards for the defeat. They worked together gloriously on traditional lines, even if they could not reproduce the swift handling moves of the English pack. Lawrie, Stuart, Buchanan, and the Newport man, MacPherson, were the pick. Result:—

England—1 goal 1 try (8 points).
Scotland—2 tries (6 points).

LEINSTER CUP TIES.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE AND OLD WESLEY QUALIFY.

The Leinster Senior Cup was advanced a further step on Saturday, when two games in the second round were decided. The matches were between University College and Palmerston and Old Wesley and Clontarf, and both panned out pretty much as expected. The National students beat Palmerston in rather decisive fashion by 1 goal and 5 tries (20 points) to nil, while the Wesleyians overcame Clontarf by 1 dropped goal and 1 try (7 points) to 1 try (3 points). Both games were productive of very poor exhibitions of football, the play, particularly in the Wesley-Clontarf match, being of a very scrambling nature. The weather throughout was fine, if cold, but the attendance only of moderate dimensions.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE (20) v. PALMERSTON (0).

As anticipated from the form during the season, the College found little difficulty in qualifying for the semi-final, defeating Palmerston by 1 goal and 5 tries (20 points) to nil. Both teams, playing as selected, lined out as follows:—

Palmerston—V. E. Kirwan; J. Smith, J. Armstrong, W. H. Jolley, H. Nicholson; F. Purcell, R. D. Stephens; C. M. Hill, W. Hazlett, S. V. Kirwan (capt.), G. E. Ker, G. V. Lochtie, J. Kean, C. E. MacAulay, and T. G. O'Connor.

University College—O'Sullivan; Russell, Hogan, V. Davey, Silke; R. Davy, McGowan; Spain, Godfrey, Brosnan, Glynn, Matthews, Smith, Winters, and McNally.

Referee—Dr. R. de C. Wheeler.

Play in the early stages of the game was of an even nature. Gradually the College forwards, headed by Brosnan, Godfrey, and Matthews, worked into the Palmerston half. Hogan had a good run, but was tackled by Stephens, and then E. Davy had an unsuccessful shot at goal from a penalty. A few minutes later Matthews led a rush of the College forwards to near the Palmerston line, and the latter player capped a clever dribble by scoring a try, which E. Davy converted. Though Kirwan, Jolley, Stephens, and MacAulay were prominent for Palmerston, the Milltown side were left on the defensive, and nearing the interval a capital round of passing by the University backs found Hogan making a good opening for Russell to score a try at the corner, which E. Davy failed to convert.

The second period was altogether in favour of University, and for the greater portion of the time Palmerston were kept on the aggressive. Early in the half an opening by McGowan saw the College backs in motion, and a nice round of passing culminated in Silke bursting over at the corner, but E. Davy's kick did not materialise. The students continued to attack, and from a pass by Brosnan, Silke had a short run before kicking ahead. Godfrey followed up, and getting the ball went over for a try, which Hogan failed to convert. Another score to University College came a little later, when Hogan, cutting through, gave to Russell, who dashed over for another unconverted try. Then just before the finish E. Davy, receiving from a line-out, dodged across, but again the kick at goal failed.

National, as the score implies, were much the superior side, and well worth every one of their twenty points. In every phase of the play they were masters of Palmerston, who gave rather a disappointing display. Sullivan, who deputised for Donovan at full-back for the winners, gave a very fine display, kicking and fielding without blemish. The three-quarters all did well, and had many smart rounds of passing. Hogan, in the centre, was the best of the line, and had a hand in the majority of the scores. V. Davy was also good, but at times inclined to hold on too long. Russell made full use of his chances on the left wing, while Silke, after a poor start, improved in the second half. Both E. Davy and McGowan combined well at half-back, while the pick of the front rank were Matthews, Godfrey, Brosnan, and Spain. V. Kirwan, in the last line of defence for Palmerston, kicked and tackled well. Armstrong and Smith were the best of the second line. Stephens was good at half, while of the forwards Hazlett, S. Kirwan, and Ker were the pick. Result:—

University College—1 goal 5 tries (20 points).
Palmerston—Nil.

OLD WESLEY (7) v. CLONTARF (3).

The attendance was very moderate when the second match was started. It resulted in a very poor exhibition of the game, and Wesley, in winning by a dropped goal and a try to a try, fully deserved their victory. Teams:—

Clontarf—G. S. Nowlan; B. Buckley, J. H. Hopkins, W. L. Freeman, A. Kelly; J. J. Booth, A. E. Dallas; V. H. Bradley, W. Lyons, M. J. McMahon, P. O'Reilly, J. M. Quail, J. Quinn, E. Roche, J. Roche.

Old Wesley—K. Kapp; J. S. Waugh, H. C. Deane, K. M. Harvey, W. A. Latimer; E. W. Massey, T. Holland; R. D. Gray, V. A. Clarke, E. R. Barrett, G. Clegg, D. Alley, A. T. Ford, A. Love, T. B. Williamson.

Referee—Mr. J. H. Miles.

Dallas put Clontarf attacking early on with a kick to the right, and Kelly was only stopped at the corner, and soon after Kapp pulled down the Clontarf winger. Next, from a cross-kick by Dallas, Freeman was just robbed by Latimer, but soon after completed some good work by Kelly on the right, by scoring, but Dallas failed to convert. Soon afterwards Dallas took a penalty kick, but sent wide; while at the other end Clegg made a fine effort with a difficult kick. Old Wesley were attacking when Freeman tried to clear, but mis-kicked, and Clarke scored but Gray failed to convert.

Old Wesley attacked on resuming, Clegg, Barrett, and Clarke dribbling up to the Clontarf line, but Nowlan cleared well. Clontarf next touched down, and Kelly dropped out but Kapp sent them back. Clegg put Old Wesley attacking with a fine kick, and Holland made a fine effort to drop a goal, but sent wide. Old Wesley were attacking for a long period, when Kelly was tackled in the Clontarf line, and from the next scrum Massey sent back smartly, and Holland dropped a smart goal. Old Wesley had the best of it to the finish, but there was no further scoring. Result:—

Old Wesley—1 dropped goal 1 try (7 points).
Clontarf—1 try (3 points).

SCOTLAND V. WALES.

THE PRINCIPALITY DEFEATED.

The Scottish side proved superior at Paisley on Saturday, defeating Wales by 2 goals to nil. The following were the teams:—

Scotland—Harper (Hibernians); Hutton (Aberdeen) and Blair (Cardiff City); McNabb (Liverpool), Cringan (Celtic), and Steele (Huddersfield Town); Ritchie (Hibernians), Cunningham (Glasgow Rangers), Wilson (Middlesbrough), Cairns (Glasgow Rangers), and Morton (Glasgow Rangers).

Wales—Godding (Wrexham); Evans (Southend United) and Russell (Plymouth Argyll); John (Arsenal), Keenor (Cardiff City), and Mathias (Wrexham); Rees Williams (The Wednesday), Ivor Davies (Liverpool Marine), Stanley Davies (West Bromwich Albion), Len Davies (Cardiff City), and Nicholas (Stoke).

About 30,000 spectators watched the game. The ground was in excellent order. Early in the opening period Wilson and Cairns put in some fine work. Cairns, getting the ball, eluded Russell, dribbled on, and passed to Wilson, for the Middlesbrough man to score for Scotland after seven minutes' play. The Welsh defence was severely tested for a further time, and Wilson registered the second goal. Scotland played a man short in the second half, Cringan getting his knee injured, but though the Welsh forwards made great efforts to reduce the Scottish lead they could not get through the defence. Result:—

F.A.I. CUP FINAL.

ALTON'S SUCCESS.

The final of the F.A.I. Cup at Dalymount Park on Saturday was quite in keeping with the importance of the event, a fine holiday crowd patronising the game. The successes of the local side naturally made them favourites, but Alton had carried all before them in the Falls League (Belfast) and defeated Fordsons, of Cork in the semi-final, and they were reckoned a team of more than average capabilities. Notwithstanding all this, however, the game proved disappointing, being lacking in dash and enterprise on the part of both sides, and though Shelbourne were beaten by the only goal scored they were decidedly unlucky. They played the worst game of the season, and paid the penalty. For the greater part they held the advantage, keeping Alton on the defence, but the forwards, hitherto so nippy and reliable, failed completely to put any dash or confidence into their play. In defence there was little to choose between the sides, the backs playing the orthodox game, but here, too, there was a want of cohesion which, undoubtedly, in the case of Shelbourne, was accountable.

The latter's full backs were over anxious, and inclined to mix up matters, as a result of which they quite spoiled the efforts of Walsh in goal, and on several occasions embarrassed him. It was on one of these that the winning goal was scored, the Shelbourne fulls and Foley being more responsible for the score than any brilliance on the part of the Alton attackers. All through the pace was slow and unredeemed by any feature, neither side giving anything like a true exhibition of form.

The Northerners played with the greater confidence, and their forwards with limited chances were infinitely more dangerous near goal than the local lot.

Shelbourne went away with a strong burst at the start, and for many minutes kept Alton hemmed in. Several corner kicks proved unproductive, and the visiting half backs settling down, Brennan opened out the play. It was early apparent that the Shelbourne fulls would have to pull themselves together, and this they did, but the superiority of the Northerners' middle line kept their forwards nicely placed. Only for a time, however, as Shelbourne quickly resumed the attack, and should have scored a couple of times. They failed badly in front of goal repeatedly when easy chances were presented. A penalty awarded half-way through this period was smartly saved by M'Guinness, and with it Shelbourne's chances went.

In the second half Alton played better, and had more of the ball. Their wings swung in good passes, one of which from M'Sherry resulted in the score. The ball came across and swerved, both the Shelbourne fulls and Foley rushed in to clear, while Walsh came out of his goal also, and in the mix up the latter was brought down, and the ball went into the net. Shelbourne worked hard to pull off the game, but failed against a superior defence, an unsatisfactory game ending in Alton's success.

IRISH LEAGUE V. WELSH LEAGUE.

Although the match between the representatives of these Leagues played at the Cliftonville ground, Belfast, on Saturday, could not be ranked as an international fixture, there was a good attendance of spectators. The teams were:—

Irish League—Gough (Queen's Island); Lyttle (Cliftonville) (capt.), Fergie (Queen's Island); Wallace (Linfield), Gowdy (Queen's Island), Addis (Cliftonville); M'Kenzie (Distillery), Brown (Glenavon), Armstrong (Queen's Island), M'Ilreavy (Linfield), and Burns (Glenavon).

Welsh League—Gray (Ebbw Vale); C. Brittain (Cardiff City), Curran (Pontypridd); M'Callum (Swansea), Jenkins (Cardiff City), Martin (Llanelly); Brittain (Newport), Turnbull (Cardiff City), Edmundson (Swansea), Pearson (Llanelly), and James (Pontypridd).

Ireland made an auspicious beginning, Armstrong scoring in the first couple of minutes, after taking a well-placed centre by M'Kenzie. The Welshmen then attacked, and after a vigorous onslaught, Brittain (Newport) drove the ball into the net. Edmundson was prominent for the visitors, showing great dash and initiative, and Gough was tested on more than one occasion. Burns relieved, and sent across to Armstrong, who had a shot at goal, though without success. Shortly afterwards Gray turned a shot by Gowdy, and the visitors then assumed the offensive again, Brittain (Newport) being brought down near the penalty area. The free which was awarded was easily coped with, but Wales scored again before the interval, Turnbull outpacing Fergie and banging the ball past Gough.

Ireland looked like scoring immediately after the resumption, M'Kenzie running through until he got to Brittain (Cardiff), who managed to tip the ball over the line after he had got the worst of an encounter. Off-side prevented James from scoring when he had the goal at his mercy. Play was not very exciting, neither side showing the form which might reasonably have been expected. Gowdy struck the post with a lightning shot, and after Gray had been hotly besieged for fully five minutes without any respite he was beaten by Armstrong. In the closing stages both teams strove hard to get the winning goal, but the defence held firm, and the result was a draw of 2 goals each.

THE PROFESSIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION FOREIGN TELEGRAM.) PARIS, Saturday.

The International Lawn Tennis Federation at its meeting yesterday, discussed the World's Professional Championship, and decided that the winner of the tournament would have to challenge the holder of the title.

FLAT RACING BEGINS TO-DAY.

SPECIAL RAPID REVIEW OF THE PROSPECTS BY OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

IRISH HORSES IN "THE NATIONAL."

LONDON, Monday Morning.

It is to be supposed that the racing season under Jockey Club rules, which begins at Lincoln this afternoon, will be at least as good, if not better, than any of its predecessors. Never in the history of the British Turf has a season begun with so many horses in training. Indeed, it is a fact that there is a superfluity on this side at the present time, and a considerable proportion of them can never hope to earn a farthing towards their maintenance.

There seems no great hope either of a reduction in their numbers, unless the friendly bullet is resorted to, for that extensive Continental market which used to absorb most of the animals not quite good enough to win in this country is still closed on account of the adverse exchanges.

Stallion-owners, too, are this season feeling a draught, for, outside those who own fashionable stallions standing at high fees, very few stud-masters have received the demands for the services of their horses which they expected.

* * *

That is one side of the picture. The other and brighter one is that the popularity of horse-racing in England keeps on increasing by leaps and bounds. The attendances at the jumping meetings of the last month have been record ones at several courses. At Sandown Park on Saturday the concourse was tremendous, and the volume of betting is very large in the aggregate, though the individual wagers are much smaller than in former years. Ever since the war the racing habit has become more deeply implanted among members of the public.

The result, of course, has been that executives are now able to offer far larger prizes, which takes some of the heavy burdens off owners' shoulders. Handicaps worth £1,000 are now an every-day occurrence, even at the smaller Midland and Northern meetings, where in pre-war days the principal prize was seldom worth more than £250.

* * *

The Lincolnshire Handicap and the Grand National, of course, absorb the major part of the attention devoted to this week's events. The Grand National seems to be rapidly narrowing itself down to a comparatively small number of horses. A disquieting report, which, by the way, emanated from Baldoyle, was circulated here on Saturday, to the effect that all was not well with Mr. T. K. Laidlaw's candidate, Fly Mask. It came as a complete surprise to everyone, including Major Doyle, who is to ride him. When I saw him on Friday evening he was very sweet on the horse's chance, and I believe would rather ride him than anything else in the race.

This popular Dublin man, who has this season come right to the top of the amateur riders, and is probably as good as most of the professional jockeys, is not very well at the moment, for he is suffering from a cold and liver complaint, caused by being shaken badly in a fall he had not long ago. He was to have ridden Count Ross at Sandown on Saturday, but stood down. He hopes, however, to be well enough to ride in the National on Friday.

* * *

I am afraid the outlook in regard to Gerald L., in whom Mr. D. O'M. Leahy is interested, is not a bright one. This horse had a chance second to none, for he proved himself this winter to be one of the very best and most consistent 'chasers in training until he pulled up so sore after winning at Hurst Park last Saturday week. When he walked back so feelingly then, so good a judge as Frank Hartigan remarked: "No National for him," and I am afraid such will prove to be the case.

* * *

Major Frank Scott Murray, in whose colours Gerald L. runs in this country, told me yesterday that the horse is to be galloped this morning, and he will then decide whether to run him or not. He is not, I am afraid, very hopeful about the result of the gallop.

In the meantime, the Irish-bred Forewarned, owned by Mr. W. A. Bankier, and trained by Aubrey Hastings, is a good favourite from Arravale. I may say that this horse is sounder than he has ever been, and that Jack Anthony, who will ride him, is very keen on his chance. In the light of the form he has shown this season he is most reasonably weighted with 11st. 5lbs., and remembering how well he ran in the race as a six-year-old, when he was not half the horse he is now, he has an indisputable chance.

Should Jack Anthony win his fourth Grand National on Forewarned, it is likely to be his last race in public, for this popular professional is to be married in the early summer, and his present intention is that this is to be his last season as steeplechase rider.

* * *

The prejudice against Arravale's jockey, Mr. Percy Whitaker, still continues on account of the fact that he is over 50 years old, but to us who remember many fine performances by Mr. Harry Beasley and Mr. W. P. Cullen in their more mature years, the question of age does not seem a drawback when the wonderful condition of fitness in which Mr. Whitaker always keeps himself is borne in mind. My own view is that Arravale, brilliant horse as he is, will not quite stay the distance.

* * *

There are excellent accounts of the slow, but sure, pair, Sergeant Murphy and Taffytus, who, excluding an unlucky accident, are sure to jump the course, and to be running on when the country is strewn with speedier horses who have fallen. That most experienced trainer, George Blackwell, has a great regard for the chance of Sergeant Murphy, who, he says, has never been better in his life.

* * *

The Lincolnshire Handicap presents a very open appearance. One has to go back several years to recall a time when so many horses had been backed by their connections to win large stakes. If this dramatic candidate, Tons of Money, whom the Leamington dealer, McGregor, bought from his Irish breeder for 30 sovs., should happen to win, an immense sum will be taken out of the ring.

It is said that the millionaire speculator, Mr. James White, stands to win well over a hundred thousand pounds by his success. No better trial has ever taken place on the Foxhill Gallops since the late W. T. Robinson and Mr. J. C. Sullivan put Winkfield's Pride through it before he ran away with the Cambridgeshire—at least, that is the story; and there is no doubt that the connections of the horse are immensely confident.

Vivaldi, whom Donoghue is likely to ride, has been heavily backed this week-end, and so has Westmead, while Mr. A. Falcon's Port Royal was the medium of so large a commission that on Saturday night he actually wound up a better favourite than Roman Bachelor. This latter Irish-bred horse, owned by Mr. Nigel Baring, the ex-Master of the Limerick Hounds, has, I think, the chance of his career to win an important handicap.

Like most of the offspring of Bachelor's Double, he has very high action in front, with the result that whenever the ground is hard he jars himself and has to be thrown up. Mr. Gilpin, who had him at Clarehaven, regarded him as one of the best horses he ever trained, but he could hardly ever get him quite fit. He was not nearly fit and was entirely unfancied last year at Goodwood, when he won a brilliant race from Leighon Tor. The gallops owned by Captain Gooch at Ilsley, where he is now trained, have been such as to suit him entirely all the winter, and I understand that he has never been better, and that he did a superb gallop on Friday morning, which completely satisfied everyone connected with him.

Although he has to carry nine stone, it is a reasonable weight, considering his class, and remembering the successes of such famous Irish horses as Clorane and Winkfield's Pride, also carrying high weights in this handicap.

* * *

Roman Bachelor seems a better horse to trust than some of these candidates with no great public form but are supposed to have won private trials. I may add that the trial won by Mr. S. B. Joel's Argo on Saturday was a very good one, and that there is a great deal of confidence in this high-class four-year-old, who could not be trained at all last season.

Mr. Persse is not so keen as he was on his chance of Royal Alarm, and he may do better in the Nottingham Handicap next week.

The racing at Lincoln this afternoon will be rather poor in quality, and speculators who wish to indulge their fancy would be well advised to go cautiously. The Downs in many parts of this country have been very heavy for months past, and few trainers have been able to get their horses fit. Indeed, so far, there have been no two-year-old trials of any consequence, and most trainers are still in entire ignorance of the merits of their youngsters.

Many of them are being sent to Lincoln more for the purpose of being tried in public than with any confidence in their ability to win.

In the opening event, the Brocklesby Trial Stakes, I understand that Maiden's Mirror is fancied. Boscombe is likely to win the Welbeck Three Year-Old Handicap, and Irish Ditch, the first two-year-old to run sired by the great Irish Elegance, is likely to win the Tathwell Auction Plate.

MIDNIGHT WIRE FROM THE COURSE.

BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

LINCOLN, Sunday Night.

The trains from King's Cross brought their usual quantity of regulars to assist in the opening stage of the "flat." Hotel accommodation, like billeting for horses, will not be easily secured. The stands and rails have received plenty of attention, and the drying wind has benefited the course.

Carslake wires to me to say that he is not coming to ride. His touch of influenza has altered preconceived notions.

I find that the track rides much better than had been reported. Fields will be large, the animals from Newmarket under orders numbering a bigger total than customary.

Tabor told me at Sandown Park on Saturday that he was sending GENTLEMAN to run in the Brocklesby Trial Stakes, and the colt is so excellent a spring peformer that I must vote for him to secure the chief honours. Paxton and Lone Farm are fancied.

There are four "tips" in the city to-night for horses engaged in the Trial Plate, the animals in question being Queen's Guild, Bucket, Desmond House, and Dalblaney. Probably by the morning there will be others. BUCKET is my choice.

The Tathwell Auction Plate is left to ENGLAND'S FATE and Beautiful Maid. The former may win.

A sound selection for the Welbeck Handicap is SCALDINO, and the chief sources of danger I take to be Vic's Choice, Portlight, and Pomone.

The Hainton Plate is left to Clashgour and GROOMSPORT. The latter is a most improved colt.

The Canwick Plate may fall to GRECIAN BEND, a representative of Cottrill's powerful establishment.

INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION MEETING.

PARIS, Friday.

A meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation has decided to abolish the world championship titles, and to recognise four national championships for England, France, Australia, and the United States. The rules formulated at the meeting in London, in December and on March 5, were adopted. With reference to the question of the Olympic Games, the Federation left the decision to each country. At the request of the Americans, a committee was appointed to deal with the question of the European zone of the Davis Cup tournament.

LINCOLN.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

One may draw inferences from the support which the various training centres have accorded the fixture that we are likely to experience a succession of large fields here to-day, but that is what one should expect after a winter so favourable for training operations. At the same time, the fact must not be overlooked that on many days since the beginning of January the gallops everywhere were in almost a prohibitive state. Many hurdle racers that we have seen racing lately are little better than physical wrecks through excessive training and racing in the horrible going. The Carholme would have been very holding but for the favourable weather of the last couple of days, a continuance of which should result in most favourable turf on which to run the Lincolnshire Handicap. But it is now a much over-rated meeting, and a reduction to two afternoons—viz., Tuesday and Wednesday—would be generally popular. There was a deal of sunshine here yesterday, and the weather prospects for the opening stage of the meeting are excellent. There will be two special horse-box trains sent from Newmarket this morning, and another from the North to collect intending runners from Malton, Middleham, Beverley, Doncaster, etc. I expect the work to be very heavy. So little is known by outsiders regarding the present form of the horses that a close analysis of the various events might prove mere waste of space. Post bettors may have the best of matters. Selections are as follow:—

Brocklesby Trial—Gentleman or Lady Clara.
Trial Selling—Desmond House.
Tathwell Plate—England's Gate or Stronsay.
Welbeck Handicap—Boscombe.
Hainton Plate—Groomsport.
Canwick Plate—Red Gauntlet.

SANDOWN PARK

(GRAND MILITARY).

SOUTH LODGE'S SHORT HEAD SUCCESS.

NORTH WALTHAM RIDDEN TO VICTORY BY FRENCH JOCKEY.

The weather conditions have much to do with making or marring the success of the Military Meeting, and fortunately for the wind-up it was quite spring-like, with the result that a much larger crowd was present. Until Thursday Sybarite had gone through the season without winning a race, now he scored again in the Open Selling Hurdle. It was a really smart performance, for amongst others he accounted for two much-expected horses in Poise and Warwick, and General De Crespigny did not make a bad deal in giving 200 guineas for the winner.

The United Services Steeplechase was open to riders who are now serving or have served with the forces. As an ex-officer of the 1st Life Guards Mr. Harry Brown was eligible to ride his own horse, Serban. The combination had been regarded as almost unbeatable, and so it proved, for Serban was not seriously troubled to win.

But Loch Allen did not meet with a similar success in the Grand Military 'Chase, for after being out clear he was short-headed by South Lodge, on whom Mr. Filmer Sankey rode a particularly well-judged race.

The well-known French rider, Parfrement, came over to ride North Waltham in the Imperial Cup. It was difficult to see how North Waltham was to beat Dry Toast, amongst others, on recent form, but ridden in the way that suits him in front, he was a clever winner, though it must be noted that Escott, on Flaming Sword, was sadly hampered in the straight by the two loose horses, Glass Idol and Lady Sleipner. Glass Idol was representing J. M. Bell's stable, which won the race last year with Trespasser. He is a somewhat soft horse, and is not to be trusted. Count Ross, who finished second twelve months ago, was expected now to go one better, but could only finish third.

Great interest is taken in the hunters' races at this meeting, and Mr. Sankey scored his second success on Clonhugh in the Tally-Ho Steeplechase. The veteran Colonel George Paynter had a nasty fall on Grenhurst. He was not seriously hurt, but the horse sustained fatal injuries.

I hear that Old Tay Bridge is lame and does not run at Liverpool, whilst alarmist reports were in circulation in the paddock regarding Fly Mask.

BALDOYLE.

SUCCESSFUL HOLIDAY MEETING.

KANOWNA WINS DIRECTORS' PLATE.

TOM CROW'S EASY WIN.

There was naturally a far larger attendance at Baldoyle on Saturday, and, the biting wind of the previous day being not so noticeable, the conditions generally were more favourable. The racing again attained to a nice standard of excellence, but it was by no means a successful day for backers, as only in one instance did a first favourite succeed in catching the judge's eye; and the victory of Kanowna in the Directors' Hurdle Race came as a complete surprise, Lord Lascelles's horse being one of the outside division. As on the previous day, the programme embraced a couple of stakes well worth the winning, the hurdle race being endowed with 400 sovs. and the St. Patrick's Day Steeplechase being of the value of 500 sovs.

Kerry Blue and Speir Bean were the ones entrusted with chief support of the nine runners for the Raheny Plate, and though both ran well, they were easily run out of it in the closing stages of the race by the outsider Front Side. The winner is trained by Mr. R. H. Walker and was ridden by T. Kelly, junior, and the same combination were to the fore again later in the afternoon when Tom Crow won the St. Patrick's Day Steeplechase. This was one of the most interesting races of the day, and, considering it was for maidens, there was an exceptionally small amount of grief. Of the seventeen runners the only one to fall was Not So Bad. Tom Crow held a prominent place throughout, and on Rathcoole retiring from the leading position at the completion of half the journey, his rider sent him to the head of affairs, and going on followed by Mount Etna and Emboss, he was never afterwards seriously troubled. The son of Royal Hackle II. won in very convincing style, and he should do further useful service for his owner, Mr. P. Cullinan, who bred him.

The only consolation for backers during the afternoon came when Trim Gate gained a runaway victory in the Four Year Old Plate, and Mr. Parkinson's stable later brought off a double event when Flying Laddie accounted for the opposition in the Seaside plate. Mr. E. Brophy's gelding was ridden by the apprentice, D. Hannigan, who shaped well in the saddle, and this was his first winning mount. Flying Laddie next runs in the Foxhunters' Plate at Liverpool on Saturday, and will be ridden by Mr. P. Nugent.

The Rathvale stable had strong hopes of also winning the Directors' Hurdle Race with Royal Edgar, whose weight was reduced 5lb. through T. Kelly, junior, being able to claim the apprentice allowance. Doctor's Call, Garrymore, Barcedo, Graystown and Smoke Cloud also came in for a fair share of support in the wagering, but the winner came from outside this batch. Ellen Gibby fell at the second hurdle, and it subsequently transpired that her jockey, J. Lynn, sustained a broken collar bone and concussion. The stable companions Treble Scotch and Desmond Dale were prominent for a long way, but half a mile from the end Kanowna headed both, and, though momentarily threatened with danger from Royal Edgar, Lord Lascelles's horse readily followed up his recent Leopardstown success. D. Ward, who distinguished himself by his riding of Soldier Bill, the winner of the Metropolitan Steeplechase on Friday, was the successful jockey also on this occasion, but though he had a couple of other riding engagements in the subsequent races, he was unable to fulfil them owing to slight indisposition which overcame him after returning to scales. This was only of a temporary nature, however, and before racing had concluded, he was quite himself again. Golden Ashe, ridden by Mr. J. H. Wallace, won the gentlemen riders' race in easy style from eleven others.

GOOD SPORT.

WIMBORNE WINS A FINE FINISH.

There was a large gathering at Greenpark on Saturday for the St. Patrick's Day Meeting. The afternoon was fine and dry, and the sport was of a good standard. A beginning was made with the Greenpark Plate, for which five horses were saddled, and the favourite failed to place the odds laid on him. Six went to the post for the Maiden Plate, which the favourite easily landed at evens. A field of nine contested the Holiday Plate. The well-backed Red City never left the issue in doubt, winning comfortably. Five were weighed out for the St. Patrick's Day Plate, and after a great finish Wimborne got the verdict by a head. Seven took part in the Directors' Plate, which fell to Pride of Kilcash, after Donyland had made practically all the running.

The arrangements for the meeting were excellently carried out, and Mr. J. Cahill, the secretary of the meeting, in discharge of the duties of Clerk of the Course, which he undertook for the first time, was efficient and capable. Details:—

A GREAT WELCOME.

THE DUKE OF YORK AT INVERLEITH.

Saturday was a gala day in Edinburgh, when the Rugby international, which was attended by the Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, attracted thousands of visitors to the Scottish capital from all parts of England and Scotland.

The Duke of York and his fiancée had lunch with the teams and the officials of the Scottish Rugby Union, and before going to the match they visited the works of Messrs. McVitie and Price, where the wedding cake is being made. The Royal party were cheered wherever they went, and there was a tremendous roar of welcome when they arrived at Inverleith. They were accommodated with seats in the centre portion of the stand.

England won the match by eight points to six. A full report appears on page 4.

IS LENIN DEAD?

THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT'S FEARS.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

MOSCOW, Saturday.

Lenin is daily improving, and is regaining the movement of his right arm and leg. The general state of his health is good.

RIGA, Saturday.

News received from Moscow indicates that there is considerable nervousness in the Soviet official quarters at the possibility of the death of Lenin. Continuous discussions are being held between the Soviet leaders as to Lenin's successor. None of the well-known leaders will accept the responsibility. There are rumours that Lenin is already dead, and that his death is being concealed.

It is reported that various anti-Bolshevik organisations in Russia and abroad are planning to use the situation which would arise from Lenin's death for an attempt to overthrow the Soviet Government.

The Fresh Start.

History will give permanent labels to the leading men of what may be called the Lloyd Georgian epoch in British politics. On none of them will it bestow the adjectives "sincere" and "straightforward" more readily than on Mr. Austen Chamberlain. It was Mr. Chamberlain's good faith which, by disarming the secular suspicions of the Irish negotiators, made the decisive contribution to the Anglo-Irish settlement. He has a better right, therefore, than, perhaps, any other Englishman to offer counsel to the Free State in these hours of its sore trial and distress. On the whole, the speech which he made on St. Patrick's Night, to the Irish Club in London, was brave and hopeful, and every Irishman will benefit by taking it to heart. He assured us of the English people's profound and friendly interest in the progress of Irish self-government. He expressed his belief that British credit would be ready to help the Free State out of some, at least, of its financial difficulties. He reminded us that henceforward we must rely altogether upon our own courage and character. Of all these truths, no doubt, we are consciously or sub-consciously aware. They have been urged upon us by many other advisers. Mr. Chamberlain, however, gives us a less trite piece of counsel when he urges us to exorcise our ghosts. "It is better to start afresh and unencumbered by the ghosts of the past—to start generously on our new experience." England has set an excellent example in this respect.

Has the process of ghost-laying made equal progress in the Free State since the Treaty was signed or even since our present Government took office? We believe that among the mass of the people the passions of racial hatred have died away, and that they reciprocate England's desire for international good-will and fellowship. The last British troops marched through the cheering streets of Dublin not as enemies, but as friends. We are less sure that all the ghosts have been exorcised from the minds of some of those who, having taken an active part in the war against England, now find themselves charged with the responsibilities of Irish government. Traces of the ira memor have flashed out of recent speeches and writings by some Ministers whose allegiance to the Treaty is unquestionable. Compare Mr. Chamberlain's speech in London with the address which General Mulcahy delivered on the same day at a review of national troops in Dublin. The Englishman revived no harsh memories and pleaded for a generous amnesty. The Irishman's address was a tribute to the Free State Army and an impassioned expression of faith in the high destinies of Ireland. We endorse the tribute and share the conviction; but we are sorry that General Mulcahy was unable to contemplate the happy future without recalling the unhappy past. He is entitled, of course, to hold that the English have been "invaders," "oppressors," and "robbers" of Ireland in the past; but what boots it now to meditate so strictly a thankless chapter of history which has been closed for ever? Why was it necessary, on St. Patrick's Day, to describe as "outsiders" and "foreigners" a people who are Ireland's partners in the Commonwealth of the British Empire?

We do not write thus in any spirit of hyper-criticism on the one side or of hyper-sensitiveness on the other. We have two good reasons for our hope that all the present rulers of the Free State will agree to lay their ghosts and to forget, in peace, the injuries of war. In the first place, men who refuse to overlook the past seem to claim for themselves a licence which they deny to those who are still in arms against the State. The revival of angry memories will not encourage any Republican to make his submission to the new order of things or to be impressed by the fait accompli of the Anglo-Irish agreement. In the next place, it is an obstacle to the whole-hearted co-operation within the State of all the parties which have accepted that agreement for better or worse. There are many thousands of Southern Irishmen, loyal to the Free State, but not less loyal to the Empire, who also have dreadful memories of the events of the last two years—whose homes have been darkened, whose fortunes have been lost, in the fury of revolution. These memories are not dead, but they are not paraded. A great majority of the men and women who hold them desire honestly to serve their country; and their services are essential if it is to advance and prosper. True statesmanship will be careful to put no unnecessary obstacles in their way. It will ask them "to start generously on their new experience" and will hasten to inspire them by its own example.

The Ruhr Valley.

Lord Robert Cecil, who has just returned from Paris, expressed his views on the Franco-German situation in yesterday's Observer. He disagrees with the French policy in the Ruhr Valley; but, on the other hand, he has a more intimate knowledge of French psychology than the majority of his fellow-countrymen; and, while he cannot approve of the Ruhr adventure, he can understand the motives which have impelled the French to take such drastic steps. Reparations, he says, really have very little to do with the matter. France is thinking mainly about security, and the dread of another invasion haunts the dreams of every Frenchman to-day. For that reason, Lord Robert Cecil asserts, the French people are behind their Government in its German policy. The present situation, he believes, is not likely to improve until Germany makes a firm offer direct to France; and even then the French will not be satisfied unless the Allies consent to the permanent neutralisation of the left bank of the Rhine. Lord Robert Cecil himself favours this project as a step on the path of universal disarmament; but, of course, it would be fatal if "neutralisation" should become an euphemism for a French hegemony. It can be successful if, and when, the League of Nations becomes an effective factor in international affairs. Lord Robert Cecil said that the "neutralisation" policy had been attempted in many parts of Europe and the Near East; but in most cases, we fear, it has had little success. The strongest Power on the scene has been, and in the nature of things always will be, the arbiter of such disputes until the League of Nations is established on a practical footing. It would be obviously unfair, for instance, to entrust any portion of the Rhineland to the League while Germany is prevented from becoming a member of that body. Lord Robert Cecil agrees with this view, and suggests that Germany shall be invited to join the League at the earliest possible moment. He is about to lecture in America, and, if he should succeed in persuading the United States to reconsider its decision of 1919-1920, the problem of Europe would solve itself almost automatically. A League of Nations which should include Germany and America could settle the Ruhr question in a few hours to the satisfaction of France as well as of Britain. Unfortunately, there seems to be very little hope of such a consummation at present, and in the meanwhile Europe must await the result of the Ruhr conflict with the gravest misgivings.

The Ku Klux Klan.

In these days men tread softly both in politics and out of it, or else go to the other extreme and indulge in bluster which is plainly devoid of an adequate background of ability or intent. It is refreshing, therefore, to find a man in public office who says in firm language exactly what he means and announces intentions which he is clearly able and determined to put into effect. Such a man is the Mayor of London, Ontario, a thriving municipality which prides itself on thinking to-day what the rest of Canada thinks to-morrow. Still somewhat smaller in actual population than London on Thames, it is consumed with a whole-souled adherence to the virtues of patriotism, love of order and honest progress which its older namesake has not always emulated. Mayor Wenige has heard that the Ku Klux Klan, the secret order that is advertised as exercising a sort of mild reign of terror over large tracts of the Eastern United States, is coming to Canada and even proposes to invade the decent soil of London, Ont. Now he has spoken, and the Ku Klux Klan cannot pretend to have any doubt what their reception in the premier city of Canada is going to be. "As Mayor of London," says the redoubtable Mr. Wenige, "I will use all the power of my office to rid the city of the verminous missionaries of an order that seeks to terrify citizens who differ from these so-called Knights of Ku Klux Klan in race, colour, religion or ability to succeed. London, like the rest of the British Empire, has been safe for democracy for a long time; but London is not going to be safe for Ku Klux Klan or any other hooded order." The worthy mayor may be congratulated on his determination. Secret societies which do ill deeds by stealth and seek to be a law unto themselves do not, as a rule, embrace the most courageous or most high-minded of the world's citizens; and a little firmness goes a long way to discourage them.

Rugby Football.

Through her defeat of Scotland by the narrow margin of eight points to six, after a hard-fought and intensely exciting match, England becomes virtually the possessor of the Rugby football "Crown." Of the international matches played between England and Scotland the former has won nineteen to the latter's seventeen—a very creditable achievement for Scotland when one considers the disproportion of the population of the two countries. It has often been considered remarkable that the three small countries—Scotland, Ireland and Wales—should have been able for so many years to meet their more populous adversary on level terms. The explanation is that the smaller and less industrially crowded countries have been able to produce, in proportion, more men of the physique and stamina that make great athletes. The recent decline of Irish Rugby is due largely to the fact that, as a post-graduate game, it is confined almost entirely to a few teams in Dublin, Belfast, and Cork. Many schools that formerly played it exclusively, and implanted the seeds of Rugby greatness in prospective giants of the game, have abandoned it. Others retain it and the standard of school Rugby in and about Dublin is very high. Yet if Ireland is to reproduce the great Rugby teams of former days, she must concentrate her athletic skill, science and energy more closely on the game. Scottish schools and Universities play little else, and retain their former prestige. There is no vital urgency for a nation to excel at games or to pursue them until they become a burden, and not a pastime, to the players. Concentration, however, is always a good thing, and excellence is an incentive to effort.

NATIONAL MUSIC.

THEATRE ROYAL CONCERT.

At the Theatre Royal, Dublin, on Saturday afternoon, the Irish Symphony Orchestra (Dr. J. F. Larchet conducting) gave a programme of distinctive Irish works. The concert was very interesting. It began with the overture from "Shamus O'Brien (Stanford), from whom also the noble Irish symphony, No. 1 in D minor, was given.

There were traditional airs, sung in Irish and English, pleasant to hear, if one could not follow them. The intense feeling that lies behind Miss Christina Sheridan's bowing made her fiddle Irish traditional airs intelligible to all. Mr. William Boland sang "Oft in the Stilly Night" and "Believe Me, if All Those Endearing Young Charms" with nice taste and well-maintained poise. His "Bard of Armagh" was less successful, and the arrangement he used of "The Snowy-breasted Pearl" was too long, the fine effect of the first verses waning on repetition. Miss Kitty Fagan made charming studies of "O, Breathe Not His Name" and "Rich and Rare," and Miss Joan Burke sang "Lullaby" with tenderness and charm. "My Dark Rosaleen" was too abruptly varied in tempo, but well delivered as to spirit and tone. Mr. J. C. Doyle's treatment of "Love Thee, Dearest," is always artistic and moving. It was his best song, though "The Ould Lad" (by Hamilton Harty) was picturesque and very touching.

The feature of the programme was Dr. Larchet's new work, "Lament of Youth" — "an old man, lamenting his youth, dreams he is young again." The wistful feeling, the quick recollection, the subsiding to resignation, are all fancifully suggested; but the work moves as a whole, rather than as scenes, and is a little poem in music. It was received enthusiastically, and Dr. Larchet, too, seemed pleased as he acknowledged the recalls.

"Molly on the Shore," the reel which Dr. Larchet treats with such nuances of light and shade, was also received with delight: it is instinct with the sense of motion. The concert closed with an impressive orchestral statement of "The Harp that Once," where the slow beat and massive ensemble had all the dignity and force of a national anthem.

The Duke of Westminster, who in 1899 succeeded his grandfather, the first Duke, celebrates his forty-fourth birthday to-day. By the death of the Duke's only son, Earl Grosvenor, in 1909, his uncle, Lord Arthur Grosvenor, became heir presumptive to the Dukedom, which was conferred in 1874 on the third Marquis of Westminster.

SUPERSTITIONS.

The Origin of Some of Them.

If you were to select a man by chance out of your acquaintance, and to ask that man whether he were superstitious or not, it is more than probable that he would reply that he was nothing of the kind. He would in all likelihood tell you that such things as superstitions were "old women's games," or "mediaeval tricks," and that no sensible person would bother his head with them. But in spite of the stern denial of his speech, he probably pays his respects to, at least, two or three of the "old women's games." Ask him to make a thirteenth at a dinner party; pass the port to him from left to right; see if he will light a third cigarette with one match. No! "Of course, its all nonsense; but still—." There it is. "But still—" we would rather not do it.

The Superstition-Gatherer.

On the other hand, there are some unhappy people to whom superstitions are a terrible burden. As they go through life they gather more and more; each fresh one is believed in with implicit faith, until, at last, their lives are almost directed by them. But what the eye does not see, the heart does not grieve at. Those they know not of do not worry them. Mark Twain wrote the famous "Punch Brothers, Punch!" to warn people to shun the insidious, nerve-destroying lines. To the harried believer I say the same thing. If in the course of this article I mention any superstitions you do not know of, avoid them; do not even read of them!

There are, I think, two fairly definite classes into which the believer may divide his superstitions, those over which he has control and those over which he has none. To take the last first. A man cannot help seeing a single magpie or a black cat; neither does he smash a mirror on purpose. Such happenings are purely involuntary. Unlike the things one must do or not do, they are merely omens of good or bad luck. On the contrary, if you make a boast without touching wood, or if you help a friend to salt, you are "asking for trouble."

Pre-Christian Superstitions.

Most superstitions are probably connected with one or another form of religion; many of them with religions much older than Christianity. It is often very difficult to find the meanings of them, much more so to discover their origin. The breaking of a mirror is an interesting case. Everybody knows that the looking-glass is a comparatively modern product; yet the ill-fortune said to be attached to the breaker of one is, no doubt, connected with the old theory of sympathetic magic. It was held that to tread upon a man's shadow, or to destroy his picture would damage him; hence, if you broke that which contained your own image you did harm to yourself. Wine and playing cards are both "dealt" from right to left; that habit of "following the sun," doubtless, comes from sun-worship.

Salt.

Everybody is aware of the "13" superstition, and of its origin. There are at least two concerning salt, which are not so easy to trace. It is unlucky to spill salt, and if you help your neighbour to salt "you help him to sorrow." As regards the spilling of salt, in Leonardo da Vinci's celebrated fresco of the Last Supper Judas Iscariot is represented upsetting the salt with his elbow. Whether Leonardo thus started the superstition or whether he knew of it and made use of it it is hard to say. I am inclined to think that the latter is the more likely. I am certainly of the opinion, however, that the antidote—throwing the salt over the shoulder—is of much later date. Nowadays we always like to find a means of escape from the evil consequences of unfortunate acts. I am told that if you help a man to salt you will quarrel with him. If that is so, it is more or less on a par with giving a man a weapon.

Evil Spirits and Good Manners.

Many people perform certain rites without realising in the smallest degree that they are rites. For example, some persons will, after lighting a fire, plant a poker against the top bar of the grate, its handle on the ground, its business end pointing away up the chimney. If you ask them why they do it, they will tell you some preposterous rubbish about its "creating a draught." They might just as well perform a step-dance before the fire to create a draught. The reason, though they may not know it, that they put the poker there is that it makes a cross with the bar of the grate, and so keeps the evil spirits away. In polite society it would be considered a breach of good manners to yawn without placing one's hand before one's mouth. Superstition again; our ancestors did it to prevent any evil spirit from entering their mouths!

Some Others.

I do not, of course, pretend to make an exhaustive list of even the well-known, to say nothing of the local, superstitions. Some there are which would appear to be nothing more than commonsense, such as walking under a ladder, though I have heard it suggested that even that may have a sinister connection with a gibbet; others there are whose origin I cannot even guess at. A horse shoe is said to be lucky; a magpie unlucky. I know nothing of horse shoes, but the magpie may be from the Roman bird augury. The new moon seen through glass would seem to be modern, but I imagine it comes from something older than glass. Three candles are, I believe, used at a wake. Three cigarettes lighted by the same match probably come in the same category as the three unlucky candles, though I have been told of two more recent solutions. The first that during the Boer War it was started; it was said that if a match was kept alight long enough to give three lights, time would be given for a sniper to take good aim. The second, that it was started by an enterprising gentleman in the match trade for obvious reasons!

A SONG OF VICTORY.

The following verses are taken from a long poem by Mr. Stephen Gwynn, which appeared in yesterday's Observer. The poem is "in memory of W. H. K. R., killed in action June 7, 1917, and of J. E. R., died March 6, 1918."

Grey head of my comrade,
Gallant and comely,
Who in the wider battle
Marched with the young,
With the young men of Ireland,
Ay, and of Ulster,
To a day of high achievement,
And in a moment of victory
Fell:
You, not unforeknowing,
Not without wrench at heartstrings,
Yet in a jubilant sacrifice
Offered your life.
Was it for nothing, my comrade?
Is there atonement of healing? Is there reward?
Not yet.

Not for you, who loved Ireland
In a lifetime of service without self-seeking,
Not for you the morose,
Sour-visaged enjoyment,
Seeing the men who spurned you spurned in their turn.
Rather, O loyal heart,
It may be your time of purgation,
Idle, powerless, apart,
To look upon Ireland.

But when through travail
And purging of evil humours,
This disfigured, self-loathing,
And desperate land,
From the valley of humiliation
Struggles at last:
When cool air of the mountains,
Sunlight, fresh-running waters,
Wide-sweeping cloud-shadow on meadow,
With birdsong at dawn
Bring back her natural kindness,
Nurse her into serenity,
Renew her peace,
It may be, O comrade, that Ireland
Casting a backward glance on the road she has travelled,
Beyond the descent into victory,
Past the ditches of blood,
Will turn and yearn in her heart for the valour she once rejected,
For the wisdom she cast aside;
Will cry in the face of the world: My faithful, my lovers,
Will cry to her own sick heart:
My faithful, my children,
My lovers who never hurt me,
You also are Ireland.
And it may be that Ireland,
Crying it so, will take courage
To tread on the forward track.

This, O comrade of mine,
This were your recompense.

LONDON LETTER.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

Yesterday was one of the quietest St. Patrick's Days I have known in London. There was plenty of shamrock on sale in the streets, and much of it was sold, but not worn. A long journey through the streets of London revealed very few people adorned with the national emblem. Queen Alexandra's usual gift of shamrock was distributed to the Irish Guards on the parade ground at Caterham, and a consignment was sent out to the men of the battalion now in Constantinople. Things were rather brighter in the evening, and many dinners, concerts and dances were held.

The Dublin Fusiliers.

Yesterday afternoon I saw the film "Through Three Reigns" with pictures showing the visit of Queen Victoria and King Edward with Queen Alexandra to Ireland. Both visits are now, of course, many years old, but the pictures recalled the wonderful wave of sympathy between this country and Ireland that the Royal visits brought forth, particularly that of Queen Victoria. The magnificent work of the Dublin Fusiliers in South Africa helped to bring about that feeling of sympathy. Yesterday an officer of the Dublin Fusiliers drove up to the Cenotaph and placed on the steps a fine cross of shamrock and lilies. Much has happened in the past twenty years, but the heroism of the Dublin Fusiliers will always be a bright spot in the memories of Englishmen and Irishmen alike.

"Listening-In."

The "wireless" concert distributed from the London station last night was composed mainly of Irish items, which were greatly appreciated by the many "listeners-in" who heard them. The transmission was good, and the vocal and instrumental pieces were clearly received. Among the latest of London's "wireless" enthusiasts is the Speaker of the House of Commons, and a number of other prominent people have during the past few days fallen victims to the attractions of "listening-in."

The Ruhr.

Nothing of a tangible character has come to light during the week-end with regard to an offer on the part of Germany to negotiate with France. The situation, so far as actual developments are concerned, is as nebulous as ever; but there is an undercurrent in London and in several Continental capitals of hopefulness that some such movement is approaching. Even in Paris the atmosphere is undergoing a change; for, instead of refusal to discuss any terms of settlement at all, there is now talk of the conditions under which France would consider her frontiers secure. The question of security has ousted the matter of vengeance, and such a change of spirit may well lead to a more reasonable line of thought on the part of the Paris Government. The firmness of French securities and the appreciation in the value of the franc are indications that the Ruhr situation is believed to be nearing a more placid period.

A Neutral Zone.

Some reports speak of the probable willingness of France to accept the idea of a demilitarised Ruhr as a solution. It will fall short of a Rhineland Republic, which was at one time openly spoken of in Paris, but it will give a considerable degree of security to the frontier. International financial interests, which have been mainly responsible for the improvement in the French rate of exchange, believe that the solution will be found in a combination of the suggestions pointing to a neutral zone in the Ruhr, administered by the League of Nations or an International Commission, and a participation by France, and, possibly, by Britain, Belgium, Italy and America, in a scheme for partly controlling certain German industries in return for a loan backed by the countries participating in the industrial control. A large part of the proceeds of the loan would be handed back as payment to the Reparations Commission. Whatever solution is ultimately arrived at, the situation at the moment is assuming a less menacing aspect.

A Labour Offensive.

Tuesday evening will be a most interesting one in the House of Commons, and it will probably be regarded as a land-mark in the history of the Labour movement; for Labour is to make a demonstration in force for the first time. Mr. Snowden will move a resolution declaring that future legislation shall be directed to "the gradual supersession of the Capitalist system." Mr. Snowden, consequently, will challenge the whole capitalistic principle and call for the abolition of private ownership. It is no secret that some of the men on the Labour right view the resolution with dislike, but feel that they must support it in order to carry out the pledges of the Labour Party generally. The extremists mean to force matters, simply because they are anxious to make the moderate Labour men declare themselves.

The National Liberals have tabled an amendment that "The destruction of private ownership in the means of production and distribution would aggravate existing evils and impoverish the people of this country." It is on this amendment that the vote will be taken. It should be carried by an overwhelming majority; for a small majority would be regarded by the Labour Party as a victory. With this resolution of Mr. Snowden's the Labour Party will be pledged to the abolition of private ownership, a capital levy and the nationalisation of mines and railways.

The Irish Arrests.

It is probable that much will be heard about the Irish deportations in the House of Commons during the coming week. All day yesterday negotiations were taking place at the Scottish Office concerning the wish of some of the Scottish Labour members to visit deportees in Dublin. In the course of the evening it was stated that, while every facility would be given to legal advisers to visit the deportees, others would have to submit to the regulations. Consequently any member of Parliament wishing to go to Ireland for the purpose of seeing a deportee must apply to the Free State Government for permits in the capacity of a relative or friend.

The Budget.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, it is understood, has arranged to introduce his first Budget in the House of Commons on Thursday, April 12th, which will be two days after the close of the Easter recess. The present hope is that the House will be able to complete the necessary financial business in time to rise on the Tuesday before Easter.

Housing.

It appeared last Friday as though the housing difficulty had been removed from its uncertainty and that, with the decision to grant a Government subsidy of £6 a year for every new house, the question would enter into a calmer atmosphere. Difficulties, however, have soon begun to show themselves again; for the Lord Mayor of Manchester, to whose efforts are almost entirely due the financial proposals which have been accepted by the Government, now announces that building is to stop in consequence of the increased prices demanded for materials. At the same moment comes the result of the ballot of building trade operatives, who have decided not to accept the terms offered by the master builders.

RUHR PEACE RUMOURS.

GERMANY MUST MAKE FIRST APPROACH.

MEDIATORS NOT WANTED.

OUTRAGES AT COLOGNE, ESSEN AND OBERHAUSSEN.

Our Correspondents in Paris and Berlin report that the prospect of a settlement of the Ruhr problem is brighter. The German Government, despite Dr. Cuno's recent speech, has thrown out peace feelers. M. Poincaré, however, insists that peace cannot come through the intervention of a third Power; the proposals must be sent direct from Berlin to Paris.

A Washington despatch says that the United States will not take any step which might encourage the German resistance. Before Mr. Harding offers his services as mediator he must be satisfied that France will raise no objection.

In the meanwhile, the campaign of outrage in the Rhineland continues. An attempt has been made at Cologne to murder Herr Joseph Smeets, an ardent advocate of a Rhineland Republic, who was sentenced to a term of imprisonment some months ago, but was released by the French. A French soldier was shot dead in Essen on Saturday. At Oberhausen some French troops got out of hand and wrecked the railway station.

TROOPS OUT OF HAND.

OBERHAUSSEN STATION WRECKED.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
OBERHAUSSEN, Sunday.

French troops of an Alpine Chasseurs Battalion have wrecked the station of Oberhaussen.

The French have been in occupation here some six weeks. Last Friday night they were withdrawn, and they have left behind them a scene which, for wanton stupidity and destruction, equals some of the frightfulness perpetrated during the war in Belgium by the Germans.

The most serious damage, from a material point of view, is in the telegraph room. All the instruments have been deliberately smashed with heavy hammers. The telephones have been torn down and their microphones ripped out; the batteries have all been broken, and even the gas globes have been smashed, and the gas pipes bent out of shape.

Everywhere the offices are in a state of wild disorder. I have seen cupboards hacked with axes and all their panels kicked in. Hat stands have been smashed into pieces for no reason whatever save a blind fury of destruction.

The switchboard which connects the light of the whole station is wrecked beyond hope of repair. On the floors were German officers' uniforms that had been slashed with bayonets. The complicated and expensive machine used for issuing tickets in the booking office has been wrecked, so that it is useless.

In the station master's office, a little way up the line, I found the same evidence of stupidity. Bottles of ink had been thrown at the walls, paints and oils had been poured over the tables, and in the machine-shops the destruction includes telephones, windows, and furniture.

Perhaps the most petty and most meaningless damage of all was done in the Customs. All the cases had been broken open, and in trucks still standing on the rails was the furniture of four German families which had been wrecked and the doors smashed off wardrobes and cupboards. Everything was piled in a confused mass, on the top of which was a family portrait and a child's toy.

There had apparently been some sort of wild carnival before the soldiers left. The station has been locked since, and everything will be left exactly as it is until it has been seen by a Commission of Inquiry.

SEPARATIST SHOT.

ATTEMPTED MURDER IN COLOGNE.

COLOGNE, Sunday.

An attempt to murder Herr Joseph Smeets, Editor of Rheinische Republik, and Associate of Dr. Dorten, in the Rhineland Separatist movement, was made here at 8 o'clock last night.

A young man obtained entrance to Herr Smeets's house on the pretext of desiring to obtain an interview with him, and immediately opened fire from an automatic pistol. The first shot missed Herr Smeets, but the second wounded him seriously in the head.

His assailant next fired at a journalist named Trier, whom he missed, but with his fourth shot he killed Herr Smeets's brother-in-law.

The murderer then fled, and gained access to the street by smashing a door. Once in the street he raised cries for the police, and, mingling with the swiftly-growing crowd which had assembled at the report of firearms, made good his escape.

The Public Prosecutor has offered a reward of 1,000,000 marks for the murderer's apprehension. Herr Smeets is in a dangerous condition. Last year he was sentenced to three months' imprisonment for high treason, but the sentence was quashed at the instance of the French authorities.

The motive for the crime is attributed to the present nervous tension in the Rhineland coupled with Herr Smeets's Separatist activities. He is a native of Aix La Chapelle, and is married to a Lorrainer, which may possibly afford a clue to the attack.

"RHINELAND REPUBLIC."

PRESIDENT EBERT READY.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Sunday.

President Ebert's trip to Hamm will have a double purpose, it is said in Berlin political circles. He wishes to be in the closest touch with the Labour leaders, who are providing the backbone of Germany's resistance to the French occupation, and he also wishes to take the necessary steps should a Rhineland Republic be proclaimed on Easter Monday.

While the German Government has no definite information of the proposed Rhineland Republic, the report is widely credited in Germany. It is feared in Berlin that the coup will be attempted on Easter Monday, and will be attended by widespread disturbances and riots.

President Ebert will be accompanied by several Ministers.

FRANCE'S SECURITY

THE FIRST PROBLEM.

Interviewed by the London Correspondent of the Petit Journal, Lord Robert Cecil is reported to have declared that Great Britain attached far too much importance to the French demands of reparations, and not enough importance to her demands regarding security. This, he said, had given rise to the mistrust and to the absolutely unjust suspicion that France contemplated the annexation of German territory.

Lord Robert Cecil said he believed it was possible to arrive at a settlement which would be acceptable to France and Germany, and which England would be ready to endorse. The British Government must act immediately. There apparently could be no question of an exclusively Anglo-French pact, but France might easily obtain a general pact. She could, moreover, demand the permanent demilitarism of the left bank of the Rhine.

This measure would in no way affect German sovereignty. It would not perpetuate the French occupation. For Allied armies there would be substituted an international force. Security must first of all be assured for France. That was the basis of a sound policy of reparation. In regard to the latter problem, it was of capital importance that Germany should make a firm offer of payment without delay. The British and French proposals of January were far from being irreconcilable. It was to the urgent interest of France that she should obtain ready money. The League of Nations must do its utmost to secure the issue of an international loan. The co-operation of America in this connection was almost indispensable.

PEACE FEELERS.

GERMANY ANXIOUS FOR A SETTLEMENT.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Sunday.

From a maze of statements and counter-statements, denials and re-affirmations, the outstanding fact on Berlin's clouded political horizon is that Germany is ready for negotiations toward a final reparation settlement, and the sooner they begin the more the German people will be pleased.

Germany has gained every moral advantage she can from the Ruhr occupation, and the Government is ready to open the negotiations as soon as M. Poincaré announces that the French troops will evacuate the Ruhr after an agreement has been reached, so a leading Socialist informed me to-day.

NO MEDIATION.

BERLIN MUST MAKE FIRST PROPOSALS.

PARIS, Sunday.

It is confidently expected in French Government circles that Germany, faced with the rebuffs encountered in London and Washington, will not long delay direct offers for a settlement.

To-night at the Quai d'Orsay a formal denial is given to the statement published in London that offers have already been communicated to the French Government by the German Chargé d'Affaires here. It is known that the past week has witnessed not one, but several, approaches by different intermediaries on behalf of Germany, and as a result there is now a fairly evident belief that Dr. Cuno is about to face the music.

Last evening a further warning was issued against possible attempts at mediation. France will now consider any offer of the kind, not unfriendly only but even hostile, and will entertain only direct proposals from Germany.

It is observable also that as Germany is believed to be preparing to bargain, French opinion is inclined to insist on stricter conditions. Before negotiations can be opened, say the Government papers, Germany must cease her resistance absolutely. There must be no more appeals to other Powers for intervention, no more feelers advanced by more or less official persons, however sincere these may be, of whatever nationality, and no more sabotage or boycotting or resistance of any sort.

The Ruhr must be restored to the normal conditions which existed there prior to the occupation. Every order issued to officials or to industrialists and taxpayers must be rescinded. There must be no more subsidies to railway men, miners or to other workers, and the threats issued to men willing to co-operate with the occupation authorities must be withdrawn—so say such writers as Bainville and M. Rougon, and this view is vigorously supported by the Temps.

The result of the Brussels Conference is to revive discussion of the pact of security with England. M. M. Jasper and Theunis, who are stated to have at heart such a pact which would include Belgium, no less concerned than France to secure her future safety. It is recognised even in quarters twelve months ago favourable to the pact that conditions are less favourable owing, firstly, to the withdrawal of England from co-operation with her Allies at the beginning of the year, and, secondly, to the fact that the preliminary condition is a settlement on the Rhine.

AMERICA'S ATTITUDE.

WILL NOT ACT WITHOUT FRANCE'S CONSENT

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Sunday.

The visit to Mr. Hughes by Herr Hans Dieckhoff, counsellor to the German Embassy here, has given rise to lively speculation, owing to the growing suspicion that Germany might ask the good offices of the United States in the settlement of the Ruhr problems.

Both Mr. Hughes and Herr Dieckhoff refuse to reveal the subject of their conversations. From other sources, however, it is learned that the local German Embassy has been informed by the Berlin Government that the latter has not made overtures to France in connection with reparations. If the German Government should ask the United States to use its good offices a refusal is confidently predicted, as it appears certain that the United States is determined not to do anything that might possibly be construed by France or other Allied nations as affording encouragement to Germany in her resistance to France.

It is generally believed here that it would be useless for any Government to offer at this stage to mediate unless the French first indicate that such an offer would be acceptable to them. And thus far no such indication has come from Paris.

SOLDIER MURDERED.

FOUR GERMANS ARRESTED.

ESSEN, Sunday.

A French soldier has been shot dead at the railway station. He was working at the central heating plant in a basement when a revolver shot was fired at him from the street through a ventilator.

A French patrol rushed out and arrested three Germans near by. A fourth, who attempted to run away, was fired on and wounded.—(Reuter.)

Another Correspondent says:—The taxi-drivers of Essen, whose stand is opposite the station, have all been arrested, and Essen's ten taxis are now drawn up in forlorn row under a French guard. With the exception of this outrage everything is normal.

This afternoon the townspeople were promenading in crowds in the brilliant sunshine. So far the French have not imposed any penal ties on the town.

AT LOGGERHEADS.

INDIAN ASSEMBLY AND EXECUTIVE.

SUPPLIES REFUSED.

DELHI, Saturday.

In the Legislative Assembly to-day a lively debate ensued on Mr. Iswar Saran's motion, declining the provision of three lakhs of rupees for the Royal Commission on Public Services.

The mover protested against the appointment of a Commission by an outside authority, in face of the unanimous opposition of Indian public opinion.

Sir Ivaswamy Iyer, Leader of the National Party, asked the House not to carry the protest too far. The Government was determined to have the Commission. Therefore it was unwise to precipitate a conflict with the Executive, and force it to restore the grant later.

Mr. Samarth moved a reduction of one rupee in the estimate, as being the best method of signifying disapproval, and, at the same time, avoiding a constitutional conflict, but the House rejected the motion by 16 votes to 15.

Sir Malcolm Harley, in explaining the real position, dwelt on the wide terms of reference of the Commission, which included the examination of the question of the immediate or gradual transference of the present duties of the Imperial service to the Provincial service. The only issue was:—Would the House be wise in refusing the grant, and forcing the hands of the Executive to restore it without realising the effect of such a procedure on the spirit underlying the working of the reforms.

Despite Sir Malcolm Harty's defence, the House, by 46 votes to 45, declined the provision.

The House also passed a one rupee reduction under the heading of "stamps" as a protest against the Government's delay in securing the manufacture of stamps in India.

The Assembly concluded by voting the estimates, but carried out "cuts" to the total of 175 lakhs, of which Sir Basil Blackett announced that the Government had restored 114 lakhs. The deficit has thus become reduced by 62 lakhs to 368 lakhs.—(Reuter.)

NOT A CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT.

"McTIGUE'S VICTORY WILL NOT AFFECT THE TITLE."

There was a wild scene of enthusiasm at La Scala Theatre, Dublin, on Saturday night when Mike McTigue defeated Siki on points in a twenty-round contest, which was nominally for the Heavy Middle-Weight Championship of the World.

The contest lasted the full twenty three-minute rounds, and there were some marked criticisms of the verdict, although many of the English critics and well-known boxers were in agreement with the referee's decision.

The fight was watched by a fairly large audience; but the theatre was by no means full. Several women were present, including Siki's wife, who saw her husband lose from the dress circle.

Mike McTigue was carried from the ring by his seconds (one of whom fainted from sheer excitement when he heard the verdict), after being lifted and hugged by his father, who came up from County Clare to see the fight.

McTigue was on the defensive during most of the early rounds, evidently intending to wear down his opponent, but he rallied towards the end, and got in some very hard hits, in spite of the fact that he broke his right thumb in the thirteenth round. This was afterwards set by Surgeon McArdle at the Shelbourne Hotel.

An Irish Times representative was told by Major Arnold Wilson, the well-known English boxing promoter, that the fight would not affect the championship title, as the men, owing to some oversight, did not weigh in before the contest.

VAST THRONG CHEERS THE RESULT.

Fully ten thousand people, men and women, were in Sackville street awaiting the result of the fight, and when it became known McTigue was the winner the joy of the throng was so great—so spontaneous—that one for the moment forgot the stern realities of life in Ireland to-day. It was a real sporting crowd, aflame with honest excitement, and, very possibly, if the verdict had been in favour of the Senegalese, the crowd would have been just as enthusiastic and just as uproarious. Though, of course, it was good to cheer the triumph of an Irishman.

When McTigue appeared, after emerging from the scene of his victory, thousands pressed forward in their eagerness to catch a closer glimpse of him, and in the resultant crush many women fainted, and some were so unfortunate as to be swept off their feet and trampled on. When Siki was seen leaving the theatre there was a repetition of the rush, though on somewhat a milder scale.

The most thrilling moment for the crowd, however, was at about 11.20 o'clock, when a volley of rifle shots was heard close at hand. If the shots were for the purpose of clearing the thoroughfare, they were prompt in their effect, but unfortunately many people were injured in the stampede, some seriously. Joe Beckett, the English heavy-weight champion, was passing by Middle Abbey street, surrounded by his admirers, at the time the firing took place, and, no doubt, he was duly impressed and thrilled.

Perhaps the gathering, in its size, reminded one most of Republican meetings in the days before the Treaty. Scores of policemen were on duty endeavouring to regulate the crowd, and the troops were also exceedingly active foot patrols and armoured cars being in evidence at all points.

INCENDIARISM.

DONEGAL MANSION BURNED.

Bonnyglen House, a magnificent residence, situated in Inver, six miles from Donegal, was burned by armed men, with its valuable furniture and heirlooms, at three o'clock on Saturday morning. The owner is Mr. W. H. M. Sinclair, British Consul-General, Philadephia.

The caretaker, with his wife and family of five, two of whom are aged four and five, got two minutes to clear out.

The various rooms were sprinkled with petrol and set alight.

The incendiaries, who were in no way disguised, told the caretaker that they were burning the place as a reprisal for the executions of the four men at Drumboe.

The damage is estimated at £50,000.

A large farmhouse, the property of Colonel Pickwood, at Ballyheira, in the Riverstown district of County Cork, was set on fire by armed men on Saturday night. The Cork Fire Brigade was early on the scene, and got the burning under control, but not before extensive damage had been done.

STOLEN GAINSBOROUGHS.

The house of Mr. Henry Cecil Sutton, at Benham Park, near Newbury, Berks, was entered by burglars early on Saturday morning and robbed of two portrait studies by Gainsborough, as well as many other things of value.

The portraits were of a lady and gentleman, and had been in the possession of the family for a great number of years. Not content with the Gainsboroughs, the thieves also took away two small panels (artist unknown), a gold watch, and other articles.

DANCE "PROCLAIMED."

Republicans "proclaimed" a dance which was about to be held in the Banba Hall, Dublin, last night. Two military tenders subsequently arrived, and soldiers entered and searched the building.

BLACKROCK EXPLOSION.

An explosion occurred at Blackrock, County Dublin, shortly before two o'clock this morning. It appeared to have been a powerful land mine, but its exact position could not be located.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE.

ITS MOST URGENT NEEDS.

STATE CONTROL A HINDRANCE.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE THE KEY.

ITALIAN PREMIER'S SPEECH.

ROME, Sunday.

The inauguration here to-day of the second Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, which was an imposing ceremony, was attended by the Premier, Signor Mussolini.

He was surrounded by some of his leading lieutenants, including superior officers of the Fascisti National Militia, with their characteristic uniform and black shirts. Many Ministers, Senators and Deputies, and entire diplomatic body, including Sir Ronald Graham, who had only just returned from London, were also present. The British delegation numbered over 50, and the members occupied a prominent position. Sir Albert Hobson was seated on the platform.

The large and beautiful hall in the Fine Arts Buildings, where the congress is being held, was elaborately decorated, and the flags of all the nations represented were displayed.

Signor Cassin, President of the Union of Italian Chambers of Commerce, recalled that Great Britain was one of the first countries to join the International Chamber, and expressed gratification at the large delegations sent by America, Great Britain, France, and Belgium, which, he said, were the pioneers of the present organisation.

PREMIER'S ADDRESS.

In his address to the delegates, Signor Mussolini said that the leading principles of the Government on the economic situation arising since the war were clear. The State must renounce its economic functions, especially those of a monopolistic character, for which it could not provide, and any Government which desired to uplift its own people from the after-war crisis must give free play to private enterprise, and must forego any measure of State control or State interference, which must eventually prove fatal to the interest and development of the country.

The time had arrived when they must take from the shoulders of the producing forces of the nations the last trace of what was called war harness. They must examine the various economic problems with feelings undisturbed by those passions with which it was necessary to consider them during the war.

The present gathering in Rome was intended to discuss the best means of reviving those great currents of trade which before the war had increased the well-being of the peoples, and brought their standard of life to a higher level.

These were ponderous and exacting problems which often showed influences of a political and a moral sort. In order to solve them it was necessary to be led by the conviction that it was not only the economy of Europe which had to be brought back to its full efficiency, but that there were also other nations and continents which in the near future might be a field of a greater economic activity.

It was significant that America should send so powerful a delegation. America felt that she could not avoid taking an interest in European economic affairs.

There was no doubt, said Signor Mussolini in conclusion, that all the Governments would examine thoroughly, and duly consider, the decisions of the present Congress.

Senor Clementel, President of the International Chamber of Commerce, thanked Italy for the splendid hospitality shown to the delegates.

All speeches were warmly applauded.—(Reuter.)

THE DEPORTATIONS.

REGULATIONS AS TO VISITORS

On inquiry at the Scottish Office the Press Association was informed that every facility would be afforded the legal advisers of the Irish internees to visit them, but other persons—friends and Scottish M.P.'s—would have to be governed by the regulations in force. Details of these regulations are not at present available, but the legal adviser who is acting for the Irish internees is Councillor Rosslyn Mitchell, of Glasgow.

It now remains for such M.P.'s as wish to visit the internees to make application to the Free State Government in the ordinary way as friends or relatives.

PRESIDENT HARDING

TO STAND FOR RE-ELECTION.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
MIAMI, FLORIDA, March 18.

President Harding will be the Republic Party candidate for re-election as President next year, declared Attorney-General Daughtery here to-day, thus officially confirming predictions by various Administration officials.

Daughtery predicts that the 1924 campaign issues will be taxation, law enforcement, and law and order administration of the Department of Justice, the Right of the United States to run itself without interference from other Powers. Daughtery insists that he will not be the manager of the President's re-election campaign.

CORK AND PEACE.

GAELIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION'S HOPES.

At the annual convention of the Cork County Board, Gaelic Athletic Association, Mr. James Meade, Vice-Chairman, presided.

He said that though the Association was non-political and non-sectarian, he could not refrain from mentioning a national subject which they all would like to see settled. Little they thought, at last year's convention, that things would turn out as they have done since last summer. They had hoped that both parties to the present unfortunate conflict would find some means, other than the gun, of settling their differences. It was sad, indeed, to see Irishmen shooting one another—to see father against son, brother against brother, and homes divided, not to speak of the destruction and havoc that had been done all over the country. It was tragic to see all the valuable lives that had been lost. The Central Council, acting on a resolution from the County Board, made an effort, but without result.

He hoped that peace would be soon restored, and that all would work together to build up the country.

Reviewing the work of the Association during the past year, he expressed regret that, owing to the conditions which prevailed, matches had to be postponed again and again.

Officers were appointed for the coming year.

VALUE OF IMPORTED EGGS.

Viscount Wolmer, in Saturday's Parliamentary papers, states that the imports of eggs into the United Kingdom during 1913 amounted to 21,579,950 great hundreds, valued at £11,301,652.

CONDITION OF MR. BEALE.

On inquiry on Saturday it was learned that, although Mr. Beale, who was shot near his home at Cork on Friday night, is not quite out of danger, his progress is as good as can be expected. The wound in the abdomen, which perforated his intestines, is a very grave one.

ANGLO-IRISH TREATY.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN AND THE DEAD PAST.

FREE STATE'S BATTLE.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain attended the St. Patrick's Day dinner at the Irish Club, Charing Cross road, London, on Saturday night.

Mr. J. A. R. Cairns, who presided in the absence of Mr. James White, the President, said that what really appalled him was that the Irish race seemed to have lost its sense of humour and, if he might say so, that was a terrible price to pay even for a Republic. That land, so dear to them, was sitting in dark night, soulless, witless. "I do not hesitate to say," he added, "that a witless Ireland is a worthless Ireland." The hellish thing was that adolescence in Ireland was getting no chance. The outlook seemed to be dark, but this much was clear—that only Ireland could save the Irish soul.

Mr. Chamberlain, who was cordially received, said that he stood there almost an isolated Englishman on what he might call a fragment of Irish soil in the heart of London. In his own country he was at this moment in a somewhat isolated position—(laughter and applause)—and his future was obscure. They had been good enough to invite him there because he was one of the signatories to that great document which they all hoped—and he still hoped—would be a great Treaty of peace, and more than peace—of reconciliation between their people and his own.

Invited in that capacity they would pardon him if he said one word about the men he met at the table on which that Treaty was signed. The Irish representatives and the representatives of Great Britain met in an atmosphere of mutual suspicion not unnatural in all the circumstances of the case. If agreement resulted it was because they on the British side of the table no less than they on the other side became convinced of the good faith of the men with whom they were dealing. (Applause.) It was not their business at that table, when they were seeking peace and reconciliation, to rake up history or go into past misdeeds on one side or the other. They sought peace, and amidst many difficulties they achieved it. (Applause.)

PERFECT LOYALTY.

If peace was made it was because they who represented the British Government could place confidence in the good faith and courage of the men with whom they were dealing.

"I bear testimony to-night, as before," said Mr. Chamberlain, "to the perfect loyalty of Mr. Griffith and General Collins from the moment that they set their hand to the document, which they signed together. Whatever criticisms may be passed by my countrymen on the action of their representatives, I do not believe it is in the power or in the mind of any Englishman to allege that those who effected that Treaty—the dead or the living—have for one moment turned back upon the faith that was in them."

Mr. Chamberlain continued that he was not sure that in making that Treaty the British Government did the Irish people service—he was not sure that it had not its drawbacks. There were, went on Mr. Chamberlain, some questions upon which all Irishmen and all parts of Ireland could agree—that the Chancellor of the Exchequer of the United Kingdom habitually robbed them. (Laughter.) Ireland must unite for itself now, and not against England. Henceforth Ireland must save itself, and could no longer reproach England with the difficulties with which it was confronted, the miseries which it undergoes, or the troubles which it suffers.

"I never supposed," he said, "that the signature of the Treaty could bring immediate peace to Ireland. I frankly admit that more trouble has followed than I contemplated—that greater misery, that a greater rift has ensued than I had thought would be likely, but I abandon no jot or tittle of my hope." They had men of loyalty, courage, and determination who, through a long, difficult, and perilous path, would, he believed, steer their ship to safety. (Applause).

BURYING PAST GHOSTS.

It was not easy for an Englishman to make a speech on Ireland at this moment and be certain that what he said would not increase the difficulty of a difficult situation, that whatever might be his sentiments of friendship and of earnest good-will, his expression of them might not be misunderstood. It was not desirable for any Englishman at this moment to offer advice to Irishmen, who must face their own difficulties, fight their own battles, and work out their own salvation. He was not, therefore, going to tender advice. "If I say anything more," said Mr. Chamberlain, "than I have said it is rather to give a reason for the faith that is in me—that Ireland will work out her own salvation; that she will rise to the greatness of the opportunity that is now hers; that she will see what are the essential conditions of a civilised State; what are the potentialities of the freedom she possesses and the glory of the inheritance which is hers, not alone as Ireland, but as a constituent part and a great maker of the British Empire as we behold it to-day." (Applause.)

It was better, said Mr. Chamberlain, to start afresh and unencumbered by the ghosts of the past—to start generously on their new experience. "I think," he said, amid applause, "we have done that." The case of the Irish Free State was not dissimilar from that of many another national State throughout the world. They heard a great deal a while ago about making the world safe for democracy. Nothing could make democracy safe except democracy itself.

LINCOLN'S QUESTION.

The great Lincoln's question, "Can democracy govern?" was at the present moment being tried in more than one country besides Ireland. Upon the decision Ireland gave the fate of Ireland rested. Democracy was the constitutional expression of the will of the majority.

It had been the misfortune of the Irish people in the past that the Government was a thing divorced from the people. It was not a Government in the sense understood in England; it was an alien Government. But the Government in Ireland to-day was the Irish people's own Government. The tyranny of a minority imposing its will by force on the majority was as great and malevolent as any other form of tyranny. The Free state at this moment was fighting the battle of freedom, not only in Ireland, but of freedom in every democratic nation in the world.

The Free State Government had recognised that it was its duty to the Free State to give such compensation as money could bring to the victims of the disturbance and the outrages which were afflicting Irishmen at this moment. He would say nothing to prevent the Government of the Free State from making all the amends in its power to those people. It was part of the salvation of Ireland that its Government and people should right those wrongs themselves, but if the resources of the Free State and its credit at the moment did not meet the claims it had recognised, and was prepared to recognise, he was sure no citizen of Britain would grudge the use of British credit to assist the Irish Government to discharge the obligations it owed to those people.

Concluding, Mr. Chamberlain said that they had given to Ireland a position co-equal with the great constituent States of the British Empire. Ireland was on her trial, and it was with a great hope that the prayer would be fulfilled that he said God save Ireland. (Applause.)

RUN OVER BY LORRY.

BOY'S DEATH AT BRISTOL.

Laurence Crammond, aged 16, of Brislington, Bristol, died in the Bath Hospital yesterday from shocking injuries sustained in an accident on the Bath to Bristol road, at Saltford, on Saturday night. He was run over by a steam lorry, and his bicycle was smashed to pieces. Violet Morse, also of Brislington, was flung to the side of the road, and lies unconscious in hospital.

The death is announced to-day, at Sydney, of Sir Thomas A. Dibbs, the well-known philanthropist. Sir Thomas was for many years manager of the Commercial Banking Company of Sydney.

CARTHAGE.

TUSKS OF HANNIBAL'S ELEPHANTS FOUND.

SPECIAL CABLE FROM THE EXCAVATOR.

The expedition to Carthage, under Count Bryon de Prorok, the young Harvard archæologist, has begun work amid the famous ruins of the ancient city, and some interesting finds have been made, as the telegram below will show:—

BY COUNT BRYON DE PRÓROK.
CARTHAGE, Saturday.

We have found in the stables, which had already been laid bare, a number of tusks and teeth, evidently of Hannibal's elephants.

To-day we began to open the Punic tombs.

Our other find, so far, is a small treasure of Vandal coins.

Count Prorok has been excavating at Carthage for some time with the French archæologist, Father De Lattre, and has just returned to Africa after a lecture tour in the United States, where he collected enough money to ensure the continuance of his work at Carthage for five years.

He hopes to lay bare in the Temple of Tanit the great altar of the god, where children were sacrificed. There are also the tombs on the hillside, where the treasures of Queen Dido and of Hamilcar have been supposed to be buried.

The excavations, which Count Bryon de Prorok is carrying out with the help of Father De Lattre, are to be more thorough than any previously undertaken. The Count is confident that his work will add much to archæological knowledge.

He also hopes that treasure as rich as that found in Tutankhamen's Tomb will be brought to light. One of the Vandal Kings, Garsine, took back to Carthage after the sack of Rome no fewer than 400 galleys filled with treasure.

The site of the ancient city covers about seven square miles, and parts have been built upon. There is no doubt that considerable treasure must be buried in the ruins which resulted from the burning of the city by Hannibal and Hamilcar in 146 B.C.

The later Roman city became one of the richest in the Empire. It was destroyed in 698 A.D. by the Arabs.

Count de Prorok's work is to include a search for a sunken Carthagenian galley lying in five fathoms of water not far from the site of Carthage, which was believed to have left Athens laden with gold and bronze and marble statuary from the Carthagenian palaces.

The Goddess Tanit, referred to above, was the Phœnician Astarte. The ancient river sanctum of the Temple of Tanit was discovered by two French archæologists.

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

THE DEPORTATIONS.

"THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY SAYS:—

With the appointment of Sir Matthew Wallace, who was a member of the Defence of the Realm (Losses) Commission and also of the War Compensation Court, to be the third member, the Advisory Committee which is to consider the deportations to Ireland is now complete. There were further conferences at the Scottish Office on Saturday concerning the request of certain Scottish Labour members to visit Dublin and to interview any of their constituents who may be interned there. Messrs. Maxton, Wheatley, Buchanan, Stephen and Kirkwood applied for facilities, but they eventually decided not to travel to Ireland, as the Scottish Office was unable to promise that they would be allowed to see any of the deported persons.

Mr. Buchanan accordingly proposes to ask for the adjournment of the House this evening in order to raise the question of "the right of access." He endeavoured to do so last Thursday, but at the Speaker's suggestion agreed to postpone the point until to-day.

POLAND'S FRONTIER.

A DECISION OF THE POWERS.

Commenting editorially upon the recent decisions of the Council of Ambassadors in regard to the Eastern frontiers of Poland, which have provoked hot protests from Lithuania and the Ukraine, The Times remarks:—It is, indeed, quite impossible to congratulate the principal Allied Powers upon their management of these admittedly difficult questions. They have dallied for four years have merely granted formal sanction to results merely granted formal sanction to results achieved by violence. The proper solution of this particular problem was proposed by the League of Nations—namely, that Vilna should be the capital of a Lithuania, federated with Poland.

Neither of the States immediately concerned would at that time accept this solution. But it is not seemly that the same Powers should sanction another which has been achieved by violence. Britain, at any rate, cannot have one policy inside the League and another outside it.

DEVOTION TO CANADA.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR COCKSHUTT'S GUESTS.

It is believed that far-reaching influences will proceed from the fraternisation of representative people of Ontario and Quebec to-day, says The Times Toronto Correspondent in a message dated Saturday. Two hundred of the leading people of the French Province came as the guests of Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt, and were met by an equal number of people from Ontario. The Quebec guests came from Montreal, Quebec, Three Rivers, and other chief centres of that province, while the Ontario guests were as widely distributed over the chief English province.

The whole object of the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario was to make the event fraternal and social. There was no attempt at propaganda, and no sectional flavour in the addresses. All breathed devotion to Canada, and emphasised the necessity of the co-operation of all creeds and classes in order to realise the best destiny for the Dominion. The general view is that the day's event is of the utmost national significance, and Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt has been overwhelmed with congratulations.

AGRICULTURE'S PLIGHT.

THE POSITION OF THE LABOURERS.

The Times, dealing in a leading article with the strike of farm labourers in Norfolk following on the failure of the negotiations on Saturday, observes:—No doubt exists about the facts. The Norfolk labourers are justified in their clamour, and the farmers are not in a position to meet it. The disaster is due to causes about which also there can be no doubt. Agriculture has no means, as other industries sometimes have, of shifting its burdens upon others. While some classes of workers can enforce, or seem to enforce, a standard of comfort, the unhappy farm labourers cannot, nor could they in existing circumstances, however well organised they might be. To arraign the whole social system on their behalf, as the country may expect to hear it arraigned this week in Parliament, will not help them in their immediate need.

There is no practical comfort in the word "Nationalisation." The state of agriculture is, however, a national concern, and the issue was plainly handled by the united deputations which the Prime Minister received on Friday. Mr. Bonar Law's reply to the specific questions which were put to him may seem comfortless, but farmers and farm labourers have at least learned something definite.

SOUTHERN LOYALISTS' CLAIMS.

NEW COMMITTEE'S POWERS.

MR. BONAR LAW'S LETTER.

A letter has been addressed by Mr. Bonar Law's Private Secretary to Mr. J. W. Raymond, honorary director of the Southern Irish Loyalists' Relief Association, in reply to a letter to the Prime Minister, dated 23rd February, in which Mr. Raymond had drawn his attention to the sufferings inflicted on the Southern loyalists in the conflict which has taken place since the approval of the Treaty.

Mr. Raymond stated, on behalf of claimants and sufferers, as a result of the suspension of the law in Ireland, that representations should be made in the right quarter, urging a more speedy settlement of defended decrees, acceleration in the hearing of claims, and an arrangement whereby an extension of the reference should be effected, so as to include the consideration of compensation to those who have suffered by being unable to collect rents or interest, and also in regard to consequential damage. In conclusion, he asked for a definite assurance that the British Government accepted a moral responsibility to redress the wrongs which the suspension of law in the Free State had permitted, failing which the sufferers would be obliged to address their appeal to the country at large.

PREMIER'S REPLY.

The following reply has been sent on behalf of the Prime Minister:—

10 Downing street, London, S.W. 1,
17th March, 1923.

SIR,—I am directed by the Prime Minister to say that your letter of 23rd February has been carefully considered, not only by himself, but also by his colleagues, including the Secretary of State for the Colonies, who is the Minister immediately responsible for relations between this country and the Irish Free State.

The Prime Minister is deeply sensible that numbers of innocent and law-abiding people have sustained heavy losses to their property and grievous outrage to their persons at the hands of forces in rebellion against the Free State, as duly constituted in the terms of the Treaty. In the sufferings of those for whom your Association is constituted to speak His Majesty's Government acknowledges a special concern, but an undertaking to accept liability for damage done by the rebels as a charge on the British Exchequer would be clearly contrary to the principle of the Treaty. In terms of that instrument, as approved by Parliament, this liability must rest on the Government of the Free State, and has been accepted by them. The assessment of compensation for damage consequent on widespread disorders is, from its nature, a lengthy and difficult task, and those who have lost their property are exposed, in the meantime, to serious hardship.

His Majesty's Government freely acknowledge their obligation to relieve this hardship in accordance with the pledges which the Prime Minister gave in October last. I am, therefore, to inform you of the steps already taken to fulfil these pledges, and also of the further steps which the Government have now decided to authorise. A Committee was, as you are aware, established, of which Lord Eustace Percy, M.P., is now Chairman, to deal with Irish distress. Applications for assistance and advice were publicly invited. Up to the 10th March 2,495 such applications were received, in response to which grants amounting to £12,627 and loans to the amount of £10,377 have been made. The Government also announced its willingness to advance money on the security of awards or claims for compensation. 211 applications were made in response to this invitation, and loans have been granted to a gross amount of £49,854.

As a further measure, the Government has decided to transfer wider powers to the Committee, which will be reconstituted under the name of the Irish Grants Committee, and will be authorised to recommend advances on the security of awards or claims in respect of damage done since, as well as before, the truce.

The estimates recently laid before Parliament for 1923-4 include provision for enabling the Committee to exercise these wider powers. But should this provision prove inadequate, the Government will take the necessary steps. Lord Eustace Percy will continue to act as Chairman of the Committee.

His Majesty's Government can only deal with cases actually brought to the notice of the Committee, and it would almost appear that some of the sufferers are not, even now, aware of the help which the Government are anxious to afford. In this respect the Prime Minister is confident that your Association can render material assistance. I am to express the hope, therefore, that the Association will remit to the Irish Grants Committee all the outstanding cases of which they are aware, together with such observations as their investigation has enabled them to make.

In conclusion, I am to add that the Government have authorised the Irish Grants Committee, where claimants are minors, or are, for any other reason, not able to act for themselves, to take steps to secure that their cases are properly presented to the tribunal appointed by the Free State Government to deal with them.

Yours faithfully,
RONALD WATERHOUSE.

DEPORTATIONS.

STATEMENT BY THE HOME SECRETARY.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., has been in communication with the Home Secretary with reference to the Irish deportees, some of whom belong to his own constituency.

Mr. O'Connor has received a letter from the Home Secretary, who draws attention to the fact that every person arrested has been served with a copy of his Order, which states that representations may be made to him with a view to their reference to the Advisory Committee.

TIPPERARY ARRESTS.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

The National Army Headquarters, Portobello Barracks, Dublin, issued the following official report last night:—

"Eighteen irregulars, including some important 'wanted' men, were arrested on the 17th inst. by troops at a dance in Ballyconneil, near Fethard. Four revolvers, a quantity of ammunition, and some documents were found in their possession."

CUSTOMS DECLARATIONS.

An important notice by the Irish Railway Clearing House, Dublin, appears in our advertising columns with reference to forms of declaration of contents which will be necessary under Customs regulations for traffic between the Free State and Great Britain, as well as between the Free State and Northern Ireland, from April 1 of this year. No traffic will be accepted for transit unless accompanied by the requisite forms, and no responsibility will be assumed by railway or shipping companies for any loss or expense incurred by any shipper who fails to comply with the new Customs requirements. It should be noted that the railway and shipping companies will require the forms of declaration to be used for all traffic despatched on and from Monday, March 26.

IRELAND'S NATIONAL FESTIVAL.

CELEBRATIONS AT HOME AND ABROAD.

THE PEOPLE'S DESIRE FOR PEACE.

The National Festival was observed by all classes in Dublin and throughout the twenty-six counties. Work was at a stand-still for the day, and after the Services in the different churches had concluded in the morning, the people gave themselves up to amusements of various kinds.

Celebrations took place all over the world wherever Irishmen congregated. At Constantinople, for instance, the Irish Guards paraded before General Harington and also took part in an impressive religious Service.

THE DAY IN DUBLIN.

NUMEROUS AMUSEMENTS

During the morning in Dublin throngs of people, wearing the shamrock, attended Divine Service in all the churches. In some instances, as at St. Andrew's Church, in Suffolk street, the entire Service was conducted in Irish, while in others sermons were preached in Irish on the life of St. Patrick.

The absence of rain, with plenty of sunshine, made out-of-door conditions in the city very pleasant, and the suburban resorts attracted many visitors. There were many strangers in the city who had come here specially for the Siki-McTigue fight, while hundreds of others from the provinces were attracted by the sporting events which took place during the day.

In addition to the Baldoyle races, there were numerous football and hockey matches, and a National Championship Dog Show was held at Ballsbridge.

In the National Army the day was celebrated by a series of parades at the various barracks. At the Collins Barracks General Mulcahy delivered an address to the troops.

At night the theatres and picture houses did a large business.

At the Port of Dublin, as elsewhere, there was a complete stoppage of work, and incoming steamers had to await the discharge of cargo until this morning. The only outward boat with cargo was the motor schooner Crest, which sailed for Youghal. The ss. Sard, which sailed light for Barrow, left the Liffey at 6 p.m., but put back two hours later. One passenger and goods steamer, the ss. Lady Kerry, arrived from Liverpool, but there were no other passenger steamers for the day, and no outward sailings of this nature took place on Saturday night.

ON THE COAST

Bright weather made St. Patrick's Day most enjoyable for "outing" along the coast, and thousands of people trooped down from the city. Along the shore and on the countryside warm sunshine gilded every view and ensured the enjoyment of the holiday-makers.

IN THE CHURCHES.

SERMONS IN IRISH.

St. Patrick's Day Services were held in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Christ Church Cathedral, and several other Protestant churches, and Mass was celebrated in all the Roman Catholic churches.

In St. Patrick's Cathedral there were three celebrations of Holy Communion in the Lady Chapel, and at the 11 o'clock Service "St. Patrick's Breastplate" was sung to Stewart's setting. The Rev. Canon N. J. D. White, D.D., was the preacher, and the offerings were for the Choir Fund.

"The Breastplate of St. Patrick," to the setting by Stanford, was the anthem at the Service in Christ Church Cathedral. Holy Communion was celebrated in the Lady Chapel at 11 o'clock.

IN THE DAYS OF ST. PATRICK.

For many years past the Church of St. Andrew, Suffolk street, Dublin—the church of the old Irish Parliament—has celebrated each recurring St. Patrick's Day with Services and a sermon in the Irish language, and so it was on Saturday last.

The rector, the Rev. R. Northridge, takes humble pride in the traditions of his church, and in that spirit he invited members of the Free State Government and a number of other leading citizens, including the Governor-General, to take part in the St. Patrick's Day ceremonies. The Governor-General was unable to attend, but he was represented by his private secretary. The Government was also well represented in a large congregation.

The Rev. John Quigley, Rector of Dunganstown, preached the sermon in Irish. He took for his text—"And Paul saw in a vision that night a certain man from Macedonia standing beseeching him, and saying—'Come across to Macedonia and help us'; and when we saw the vision, immediately we were desirous of going to Macedonia, for we understood that it was the Lord that called us to preach the Gospel to them."—Acts xvi., 9-10.

Paul, said the preacher, was not disobedient to the Heavenly vision. He and Luke sailed from Troas, in company with Silas and Timotheus, and when they came to Phillipi they planted there the blessed seed of the Gospel. The Church grew from that seed, and spread westward till she reached the great sea, and across the sea to Britain and Ireland. In the fourth century there were Christians in Munster and in the Southern portion of Leinster. In his (the preacher's) opinion, there was a community of those Christians at Glendalough.

ST. PATRICK'S ARRIVAL.

When Pope Celestine heard of these Christians he sent Palladius to live among them, and to rule over them as bishop. Palladius was not welcomed by the people, and he spent less than a year in this country. Then St. Patrick came, and he, like Palladius, landed at Wicklow, from which he soon took ship for a place in Ulster, where formerly he had spent six years of his life in slavery. He found the inhabitants in the darkness of paganism, and he and his companion set to work successfully to convert them to Christianity. As God had sent Joseph long ago to Egypt, so he sent St. Patrick to Ireland, for Patrick was a man who was necessary for the work that was to be done.

The Irish language, and a knowledge of the mentality and customs of the people, were necessary for him, and that was why God allowed him to be taken, first a captive, from Scotland to Ireland. People said that it was Pope Celestine that sent Patrick to Ireland, but they were not able to prove it. Patrick himself said in a letter that it was God who sent him; he never mentioned Celestine. We ought all to be thankful to God for having sent St. Patrick to Ireland.

"Let us pray to God to-day," said the preacher, "to raise up other men in our midst to save poor Ireland from the pitiful condition into which she has fallen. We have no remedy for her but to place the Holy Scriptures in the hands of the people. They are better by far than any other thing—better than soldiers, better than the Civic Guard, better than the laws of Dail Eireann—for the word of God is quick and powerful and sharper than any two-edged sword."

ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCHES.

In many of the Roman Catholic churches the Services were conducted in Irish. At the Pro-Cathedral solemn High Mass, at which Archbishop Byrne presided, was celebrated. A sermon in Irish on the life and work of St. Patrick was preached by the Rev. T. O'Donnell, Archbishop's House.

After Mass the Archbishop presided at a meeting of the Chapter, at which recent appointments were ratified with ceremony. The ceremonies were brought to a close by the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament by Dr. Byrne.

A sermon in Irish was preached before the students of University College, Dublin, by the Dean of Residence, Rev. J. Ryan, B.A., in University Church, St. Stephen's Green.

At the Church of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, City quay, a sermon in Irish was preached by the Rev. W. McDonnell, C.C. The hymns were rendered by children from the local schools.

FUNCTIONS AT NIGHT.

COMPANIONS OF ST. PATRICK.

The Companions of St. Patrick held their annual St. Patrick's Day banquet in the Shelbourne Hotel, Dublin.

As the Chairman, Sir Thomas C. Macardle, K.B.E., said, they did not on this occasion attempt to make the banquet as big as on previous occasions for several reasons, and many important persons who would have been guests could not come. However, he said, Sir John Irwin, chairman of the committee, was determined about 1924, which was going to be the beginning of everything good in Ireland, would see a wonderful banquet and a wonderful ball, at which every member of the Order and every member of the Senate and the Dail would be present. (Laughter and applause.)

Apologies were received for inability to attend from the President, the Earl of Granard, K.P., who telegraphed: "Hope when next St. Patrick's Day comes round we may be able to enjoy it in a peaceful, prosperous, and contented Ireland"; the Governor-General, the Provost of Trinity College, Dublin; Dr. Coffey, Vice-Chancellor, National University, and Sir Patrick Shortall.

ROOM FOR ANOTHER ST. PATRICK.

Sir John Irwin, in proposing the toast, "The Day We Celebrate," said that the Companionship was formed some sixteen years ago, and they hoped to make the organisation a very popular and democratic body in this country. It was a matter for congratulation to feel that, notwithstanding all the troublous times through which they had passed during the last few years, that organisation had been able to weather the storms and avoid the many rocks and pitfalls that surrounded it and every other organisation of the kind that set out to do some good work for the community at large.

Coming to the immediate matter of the toast, Sir John Irwin said that he was sure they would all agree with him that it would be a great thing if they could find another St. Patrick who would banish the unfortunate dissension and fratricidal strife which was going on at present in Ireland, and which, he was sure, everyone deplored. He was sure that they had al the one feeling uppermost in their minds—anxiety to see their country restored to the peace and prosperity which it was quite capable of enjoying. Mistakes had been made in the past by previous rulers of the country, and mistakes had been made by their own people; but there was one thing that he believed they required as Irishmen, and that was to learn the art of compromise and to practise the doctrine of toleration towards one another. After all, it was quite natural that different men should have different views; but surely they could all agree in matters concerning the common good and the common destiny of their country, to unite as brothers in carrying forward this old country to the peace and prosperity that awaited her.

IRELAND'S WEALTH.

They had plenty of gentlemen at present anxious to exploit Ireland under the promise of millions of money. He thought that they did not require the money of these gentlemen. There was plenty of money in Ireland, and the recuperative power of their people was marvellous. All that they wanted was peace, and the wonderful recuperative power of the country would assert itself. (Applause.)

At the conclusion of Sir John Irwin's speech it was announced that McTigue had won the fight, and the Companions drank McTigue's health, sang "For he's a jolly good fellow" and gave three cheers for the victor.

The Chairman, proposing the toast of "Our Guests," said that there were indications that they would not have to wait until 1924 for the settled Ireland that they all desired.

The Rev. E. McCarthy, responding, said that the Companionship was doing great things, and could do greater things, to show that the cordiality and the hospitality of the Irish still survived.

Surgeon McArdle, who also responded on behalf of the visitors, said that he hoped that the feeling which prevailed there that night would soon prevail also north of the Boyne. When turmoil ceased there would be fraternity in Ireland.

Mr. MacLean, who also responded, said that he felt that the spirit shown there that night would obtain in both the North and the South, and that possibly in 1924 they would be there as a united Ireland.

A pleasant musical programme was provided during the evening, under the direction of Mr. Thomas H. Weaving.

THE MANSION HOUSE.

RECEPTION AND CEILIDHE.

In the Round Room of the Mansion House on Saturday night a reception and ceilidhe, organised by the Executive Council of Cumann na Saoirse, was held in aid of the Wounded Soldiers' Fund. There was a large attendance, the guests being received by Mrs. R. Mulcahy, Mrs. Wyse Power, and Mrs. E. Blythe.

In addition to many of the general public, there were present members of the legal and medical professions, Army officers, and representatives of the various State departments.

The music was supplied by Sheridan's band, and Captain M. Doyle (Portobello) acted as master of ceremonies.

Professor MacNeill said that they had met there with the feeling that they were going to make the country great among the nations of the world. The power that they had sought had now come to them, and he hoped that they would use it to carry out the purpose that they had in view. They intended to be faithful to that purpose, and intended, with the help of God, to carry it into effect.

Among those present were:—

President Cosgrave, General Mulcahy, Adjutant-General and Mrs. O'Sullivan, the Quartermaster-General, Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, Minister for Foreign Affairs; the Speaker of Dail Eireann, General Owen O'Duffy, Commissioner of the Civic Guard; Major J. P. McMahon, Curragh Camp; Mrs. Costelloe, Senator Mrs. Wyse Power, Mrs. J. J. Reddin, Mrs. R. Mulcahy and Mrs. P. CITY OF CORK.

RELIGIOUS CELEBRATIONS.

The Feast of St. Patrick was observed fittingly in Cork. No public procession took place, but there were many evidences of the honour paid by people of all classes to Ireland's Patron Saint. All the Masses in the city were largely attended.

At noon Solemn High Mass was sung at the Cathedral, in presence of a large congregation. Seats were reserved for members of the Cork Corporation, and the Deputy Lord Mayor, the City High Sheriff, and many of the members and officials of the Council were present.

Rev. Father McNamara, Limerick, of the Redemptorist Order, who is at present conducting a retreat at the Cathedral, preached in Irish on the life of St. Patrick.

DEPUTATION TO DR. COHALAN.

At the conclusion of the Mass the members of the Corporation attended at the Presbytery to pay their respects to the Bishop.

The Deputy Lord Mayor, addressing Dr. Cohalan, said that since last St. Patrick's Day many things had occurred which had impeded to a considerable extent the progress of municipal work, but nevertheless he was glad to be in a position to say that they had made much satisfactory progress in works of utility for their city. Many of the large business establishments, which were destroyed in the dark days that they had passed through, were in course of reconstruction, and when the next festival of their patron saint came round they hoped that they would be completed, and prove an ornament to the city, as well as an important development in its commercial life. It was only right to add that they had been liberally helped by the Government in the carrying out of these schemes that they hoped to have completed during the present year. There were other important schemes also engaging the attention of the Corporation, which they hoped to carry out as expeditiously as possible. They asked his lordship's blessing on the work in which they were engaged for the benefit of the city, and his prayers that the efforts which were now being made to establish peace in their distracted country might be successful. (Applause.)

THE RESTORATION OF PEACE.

Dr. Cohalan, in reply, gave the Council a hearty welcome, and said that he was much obliged to them for coming to pay a traditional visit. He supposed that he might congratulate the Deputy Lord Mayor on his statement as to the progress that the Municipal Council had made during the year, notwithstanding the troubles of the times. He heartily joined with them in hoping for an immediate restoration of peace, and he wished the Municipal Council a very successful year. He trusted that when they met again they would have peace, and that their record would be a good one for the people of the city, not merely by the rebuilding of the grand old establishments in Patrick street, but also what he took a much greater interest in, the building of good houses for the poor and the very poor. (Applause.)

Sir John Scott thanked his lordship for his kind and appropriate words. He added—Sir, we believe that you have the interests of all creeds and classes, the interests of all the community at heart, and that your desire is to maintain good feeling and cordial relations between all classes in Cork.

His lordship thanked Sir John Scott for his remarks, and said that he regretted very much, indeed, what had occurred to Mr. Beale on Friday night. He tendered sympathy to the family, one of whom, Mr. H. H. Beale, a former member of the Corporation, he had acted with on the Committee of Management of the South Infirmary.

SERVICE FOR THE MILITARY.

Ten o'clock Mass at the Cathedral was for the military at Cork Barracks, and was celebrated by the Rev. Dr. Scannell, Military Chaplain. There were about 600 officers and men present, including the G.O.C. and his Staff. During Mass the soldiers sang hymns, and were accompanied by the military bands. At the consecration the bugles were sounded and arms presented.

After Mass the Bishop, who was accompanied by Canon O'Sullivan, Administrator, took the salute in Shandon street.

The 9 o'clock Mass at the Cathedral, which was celebrated by Canon O'Sullivan, was attended by large numbers of members of the Discharged and Demobilised Soldiers' and Sailors' Federation, who were accompanied by their band.

The Chairman said that in the absence of the clerk the Council had power to appoint one of its members to discharge the duties, and they had done so.

Mr. Egan agreed to allow the accounts of the late Urban Council to be audited, but said that he would decline to give up the books.

Mr. Hoban, rate collector, said that he would submit his books, but not to the Council as it was now constituted.

HOISTING THE FLAG.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY IN THE ARMY.

GENERAL MULCAHY'S ADDRESS.

A march-past of thousands of troops was watched by the Commander-in-Chief, General Mulcahy, at the Curragh on Saturday. Earlier in the day he reviewed the troops at Collins Barracks, Dublin, where the ceremony also took place of blessing and hoisting the Colour. The Commander-in-Chief addressed the men at both parades.

From what one saw of him on Saturday, the National soldier of to-day represents, as regards general military fitness, a very marked improvement on the men of six, or even three, months ago. His bearing on parade was smart and soldierly. There was nothing loose or irregular about the manner in which he obeyed the words of command given by an equally alert officer. There was no evidence of confusion, and the battalion movements were well balanced and smartly executed.

The Commander-in-Chief entered the main square of the Collins Barracks at about one o'clock, accompanied by General Sean M. Mahon, Chief of Staff; Lieutenant-General J. O'Sullivan, Adjutant-General; Lieutenant-General Sean O Muirthville, Quartermaster-General; Major-General W. R. E. Murphy, Director of Operations; Major-General Diarmuid O'Hegarty; Major-General Price, and Colonel Higgins, Adjutant of Dublin square of the Collins Barracks at about 1 o'clock, accompanied by General Sean M. Mahon, Chief of Staff; Lieutenant-General J. O'Sullivan, Adjutant-General; Lieutenant-General Sean O Muirthuille, Q.M.G.; Major General W. R. E. Murphy; Director of Operations; Major-General Diarmuid O'Hegarty; Major-General Quinn, Major General Price, and Colonel Higgins, Adjutant of Dublin Command. They were received by Major-General Daniel Hogan, O.C. Dublin Command.

THE PARADE.

One thousand men, comprising the 13th Infantry Battalion, gave the general salute. Having inspected the men, General Mulcahy proceeded to the saluting base. Then, to the music of the regimental fife and drum, and brass bands, the troops reformed and marched past the saluting base. The different movements were carried out with precision, and as the men swung past the dais with "eyes right!" the scene was a striking one.

The troops reformed into files of fours and marched out of the main square to the front of the barracks, overlooking the tram line. A tricolour flag was blessed by Father Pigott, C.F., in the presence of the assembled troops, who had been drawn up in hollow square formation. As General Mulcahy ran up the flag to the pinnacle, the order to "present arms" was given. Simultaneously trumpeters sounded the "salute," and civilians stood with heads uncovered.

Addressing the troops present, first in Irish and then in English, General Mulcahy said their minds went back to other St. Patrick's Days, but to some of them only two stood out prominently in their minds. One was St. Patrick's Day of last year, when, with one small home for their Army at Beggar's Bush Barracks, they were building up from the manhood of the country a force of young Irishmen to be the soldiers of Ireland, but in building up that force they never thought that it would have to face the work and trials and difficulties that they had to face so severely ever since.

The other St. Patrick's Day was that of 1916, when the young Irish Volunteers that then composed the Irish Army, then scarcely three years old, paraded in College Green, and fixed whatever small number of bayonets they had there, and showed the invading forces that had set themselves upon this country that if their numbers were small there were enough Irishmen in the country who were prepared to set aside their ordinary cares and responsibilities, personal and home ties, the ordinary natural work in the lives of men, and face as soldiers those from outside who were oppressors and invaders in their country, the robbers of the goods and material riches to which Irishmen alone had the right.

HOPE IN THE FUTURE.

"We are standing here to-day," said the Commander-in-Chief, "with strength and solidarity, without bitterness, and without losing our big ideals and our hope for the country in the face of the terribly bitter wrongs and oppression that our country has had to meet during the past twelve months." They stood there as soldiers of Ireland, but only so because they were citizens of Ireland—in arms because the necessity of their country called them to arms. Their country was full of richness, happiness, and contentment for the Irish people, if they but devoted themselves to its service.

Referring to "the poor, misguided people, who pride themselves that they have carried into our country and against our people the rule of the torch and can as weapons of liberating them," General Mulcahy said that they read in the hopeless, despairing letters written by those people about others who had died miserable despondent deaths in that campaign; that they knew how to die like soldiers, and that they had "a glorious soldier's death."

SOLDIER AND CITIZEN.

"We see no glory in the death of a soldier," declared General Mulcahy, "unless he is standing as a soldier because he is a citizen. We see no glory in the use of arms except to preserve those things that have to be preserved for us as citizens, leading quiet, holy, and industrious lives in our own country. And in serving her in arms let us not lose sight of the fact that arms are only things that we have had to take in hand to-day to preserve our country, and it is a source of pride to us to take up those arms, simply because of the dangers and responsibilities that go with them, and the using of them denotes that we have stepped to the highest pinnacle of true citizenship."

Outside people, looking at the Irish Army that day, said they saw in it a great improvement in discipline, that the men kept themselves smart, kept their faces clean, and that in all a wonderful change had come about: "...ell," said General Mulcahy, "we simply tell these people that they know nothing of what they are talking about. They attribute the fact that we are more disciplined, and that the men carry themselves better as soldiers to things outside Ireland and outside the Irish nation, and we are quite satisfied they know nothing whatever of what they talk about. The discipline and order and comradeship that have developed so wonderfully amongst us in our work here are things that are fundamental and ever present in the Irish character, and are things that only wanted the sweeping of the outsider and foreigner out of the country to let them grow and grow unimpeded."

Continuing, General Mulcahy said that they should not lose sight of the ideals and aspirations which had brought them to that position—their desire to make the country a country worth living in. It had been said by foreign critics that the genius of Ireland was for destruction, and not for construction. The last five or ten years in Ireland, with the fruitful blossoming of their work, had given the lie to all those critics, and had shown that Irish genius was constructive, and that it was oppression that prevented the country following on the great constructive lines that they were at present following. They could now show by their work that they were a simple, straight-going, constructive-minded people. Each individual could do his or her share in the work, and if they did that they could make the country a country worth living in and one to be proud of.

G.H.Q. CEREMONY.

The ceremony of blessing and hoisting the flag took place at Parkgate street, Dublin, the former British Military Headquarters, about noon. In the presence of the officers of the Higher Command and 57th Infantry Battalion, General Mulcahy hoisted the flag, which had been blessed by Father Piggott. Parkgate street, it is stated, is to be the new G.H.Q. of the Free State Army.

KEHOE BARRACKS.

A grand parade of the troops in Kehoe Barracks took place in the morning. The troops presented a very smart appearance, under Captain S. Byrne, as they attended Mass in the barrack church.

At 12 noon the beautiful new flag was blessed by the Chaplain, Rev. R. J. Casey, C.F., and was hoisted by Colonel McDonnell, while the buglers sounded the general salute and the regimental band played the Soldier's Song and other airs. The officers taking part in the parade and ceremony were:—Colonel McDonnell, Commandant Saurin, Commandant V. Byrne, O.C. First Battalion; Commandant J. Curley, O.C. 55th Battalion; Captain Donnelly.

THE CURRAGH REVIEW.

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF'S ADDRESS.

Later in the afternoon the Commander-in-Chief drove to the Curragh, where he reviewed three battalions. They consisted of the Cadet Officers' Battalion, under Colonel Byrne; 29th Infantry Battalion, under Commandant Stevenson; and a Reserve Battalion, under Commandant Moriarty. The troops had been drawn up in close column of companies on the open plain before the camp. Crowds had gathered on the outskirts to view the parade. Enclosing the parade ground, in the form of a square, stretched a line of armed military police, nearly a mile long.

Accompanied by General M'Mahon, the Chief of Staff; Lt.-Gen. O Muirthuille, and Lt.-Gen. Gearoid O Sullivan, the Commander-in-Chief advanced towards the assembled troops. The regimental bands greeted his arrival with the strains of "Let Erin Remember," and the three battalions gave the salute. Having inspected the ranks, General Mulcahy returned to the saluting base, where he was joined by the Camp Commandant, Commandant O'Brien.

As the three battalions advanced in review formation towards the saluting base, led by Major-General MacMahon, General Officer Commanding the Curragh, they presented an impressive sight. The afternoon had become clearer now, and thousands of bayonets glittered in the sun as the evenly-dressed ranks came towards the dais. They halted immediately in front of the saluting base, from which the Commander-in-Chief addressed them.

A SUBJECT FOR MEDITATION.

Though hundreds of years had passed since Patrick came with his message to Ireland, said General Mulcahy, the present was the first St. Patrick's Day on which the Curragh of Kildare was in the hands of the Irish Army. It was one of those things that one wanted not so much to speak about as to meditate on. With the example of the men of 1916 before them they could face the future, knowing that with the greater opportunities that they would have and the greater number of men that they would have to learn courage from, they could bravely face the much greater work that lay before them in making the country the type of country that they had dreamed so long about.

They saw their own flag flying there that day; a flag that they could not come there and see and then go way and forget—a flag that came out of the fires of Easter Week. Looking at that flag and learning its lesson of faith and courage, there was no difficulty or danger that they could not take their country safely over. Short as had been the time, as it were, that they had been in possession of their country, they had lost very, very big leaders, but those leaders had taught them well, and had driven their lesson deeply home. They had lost big leaders in 1916, but they taught their lesson so well that a group of practically unknown young men were able to join hands and come together to continue the great work. Since they came into possession they had lost men like Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, and any other country in the world in such circumstances might well have been crushed and broken, but to those men around them they taught well the lesson of their lives.

"And just as there were unknown in 1917 and 1918, who by solid hard work and great belief did the work that has been done in the past five years, so we know that among you men have there one man more or less unknown to-day who, joining their hands and putting the work of their heads together, will do work that will not be less magnificent than the work done during the five years which have passed."

APPALLING DIFFICULTIES.

With a young Army and in a young country, the Commander-in-Chief went on, they had found themselves in the midst of appalling difficulties, but they did not let these disappointments interfere with their high ideals for their country and their great hope for it, going calmly on with the work of building up their brains and their mentality—their own personal selves. They were going calmly on with that work, "the work of the day," undeterred by any danger or difficulty—preparing for the work that might come to them to-morrow, or the work that might come the day after.

He wanted to congratulate Major-General MacMahon and to pay a most heartfelt tribute to him for the work that he had done at the Curragh since he came there; also to those officers who had worked so loyally by him. He wanted to tell the officers generally that he was very proud of them and "that the work I have seen them do, even if from afar, renews the spirit of life in all of us. We see in that solid, steadfast, successful work, the first and most fruitful hope in our country."

General Mulcahy returned to Dublin some hours later with his party.

SOUTHERN COMMAND.

PARADE IN CORK.

A considerable number of troops in the Southern Command participated in the blessing and hoisting of the National flag at the Cork Barracks. The salute was taken by the G.O.C., Major-General David Reynolds, who was accompanied by officers of his staff. The special feature of the occasion was the presentation to the troops of the Southern area of a tricolour of Irish poplin, bearing the Sacred Heart, embroidered in plush and gold. This flag was a tribute of affection and regard to the Very Rev. Dr. Scannell, Chaplain to the Forces, and came from La Societe des Oeuvres de Sacre Cœur, Lyons.

Major-General Reynolds and his staff took up a position at the saluting base, facing the troops, who had been drawn up on the parade ground. Arms were presented, and at noon, on the receipt of a wireless message from the headquarters in Dublin, intimating that the Colour was being hoisted by the Commander-in-Chief, the flag was hoisted to the top of the standard. The fine band of the 10th Battalion rendered appropriate selections of music.

The troops, who were under the command of Commandant Kingston, then marched past.

CRICKET.

M.C.C. FINISH TOUR WELL.

ADELAIDE, March 17.

The M.C.C. team to-day wound up their Australian tour with a spirited display of batting against South Australia, which, however, failed to bring them victory, as when stumps were drawn they had 20 runs to make with six wickets in hand. Continuing their first innings with the score at 350 for 9 wickets, the Englishmen were quickly disposed of for 372, an addition of 16, which left them 135 in arrears. South Australia, in a bright display of batting, then scored 204 for 4, at which total they declared the innings closed, leaving the Englishman 338 to get to win. The M.C.C. opening pair, Hill-Wood and Chapman, set to work in determined fashion. Hill-Wood was bowled for 41, but Chapman went on to score an undefeated 134 by delightful cricket. He was at the wicket two hours and twenty minutes, and did not give the semblance of a chance. Among his hits were three sixes and twelve fours. Lowry made 45, and Wilson was in partnership with Chapman when time was called with the board showing 248 for 4 wickets.

The weather was beautifully fine, and 5,000 people watched the game.

With the exception of Colonel Hartley, who is returning to New Zealand, and C. H. Gibson, who is going to the Argentine, the team will sail for England on the Orient liner Ormonde on Monday next.

MOTOR CYCLING.

CARLOW AND BACK TRIAL.

The Dublin and District Motor Cycle Club ran off an open trial on St. Patrick's Day to Carlow and back. With dry roads and fine weather, the event did not prove as strenuous as the trials of the club usually are, but the fact that few of the twenty-four starters failed to check at the finish indicated that the route was not quite as easy as it appeared to be on paper. The competitors were sent away from Rathfarnham by Mr. S. L. Hutchinson at the customary one minute intervals from 10 o'clock, and following the military road over the Featherbed and Glencree, they reached Sallygap. Thence, via Kilbride, they joined the main Blessington road, and following it by Baltinglass, reached the turning point, where a two hours' interval was allowed for luncheon. The return journey was by the main road through Castledermott, Ballitore, Kilcullen, and Naas to the finishing point at Inchicore Bridge, where the following survivors completed the course of one hundred and eight miles:—J. A. Carvill, 3½ h.p. B.S.A.; T. V. Murphy, 2¾ h.p. Coventry Eagle; T. F. Slevin, 3½ h.p. James; G. Bewley, 4 h.p. Norton and sidecar; L. A. W. Orr, 3 h.p. Matchless; A. Breslan, 4 h.p. Triumph; S. SPECIAL CONSTABLES AMBUSHED.

A Donaghmore, Co. Tyrone, Special Constabulary patrol was ambushed at Mullaghmore, a mile from Dungannon, early on Sunday morning. Fire was opened by the attackers, who were concealed behind the ruins of a house fifty yards from the roadside.

The patrol had no cover, but, throwing themselves flat on the road, they replied vigorously, the exchanges lasting for some time. The firing attracted large forces of Special Constables from Dungannon and Castlecaulfield, but the attackers had retreated before they arrived. There were no police casualties. Four arrests were made at daybreak, but after investigation all the men were released. This is the second police ambush within a week. An exhaustive search continued throughout Sunday for suspects.

LAND MINE EXPLOSION

PILLAR PICTURE HOUSE DAMAGED.

VICTIMS OF SHOOTING IN THE STREETS.

The explosion of a land mine in Henry place, behind the Pillar Picture House, Dublin, at 7.30 on Saturday night, gave the impression that an attempt had been made to blow up the La Scala Theatre.

Two heavy exit doors leading to Henry place from the Pillar Picture House, were torn from their hinges and shattered, the members of the orchestra were thrown from their seats, and a 'cello was smashed, while portions of the fibrous plaster ceiling fell to the ground.

Windows were broken in several houses, and the door of the Royal Bank in Upper Sackville street, was damaged.

The screen on which the films were being shown was undamaged, and a five-reel piece was continued during the height of the excitement caused by the explosion.

Barrie Duffy, a boy aged a year and a half, who was in his mother's arms, received scalp wounds from broken glass, and was treated at Jervis street Hospital.

When the explosion took place, people in the vicinity ran for shelter, but after a little while they resumed their positions on the streets.

Military forces and Criminal Investigation men arrived, but failed to capture the miscreants.

It is supposed that the object of the outrage was to interfere with an electric cable connected with La Scala Theatre.

SHOOTING IN THE STREETS.

Major-General Ennis and Detective Officer W. Egan, of Oriel House, were wounded as the result of revolver shots fired by two men in the vicinity of Gardiner's place, Dublin, late on Saturday night. One was shot in both ankles, and the other in the leg. They were taken to St. Bricin's Hospital for treatment, and are reported to be progressing favourably. The men who fired the shots escaped by way of North Great George's street.

At 11.30 on Saturday night, when James Sikes, of 1 Harcourt street, Dublin, was walking along Westmoreland street, he heard a couple of shots and felt a stinging pain in his chin. He was treated in Jervis Street Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from the effects of a bullet wound.

BELFAST ARMS DUMP.

BIG SEIZURE OF MATERIAL.

During a search by police in Belfast the following were discovered in an entry at the rear of Library street—One 18-pounder shell, two Martini rifles (complete), a box of brass screws for bombs, a telephone set, a package of white powder, a bundle of fuse and two coils, a bottle of liquid, a stick of dynamite, two bandoliers, 79 rounds of blasting powder, a bag for holding gas masks, a cotton bandolier, 17 ammunition clips, 5 springs for Mills bombs, a strike detonator (Mills bomb), a revolver holster (R.I.C. pattern), a small box of detonators (bombs), a bundle of electric fuse, 105 rounds of Mauser ammunition, 21 rounds of .303 rifle ammunition, 18 Mills bombs (not detonated), a nose-piece of a service rifle, a wooden butt for a Parabellum pistol, a leather bag for holding Maxim-gun belts, 6 rounds revolver ammunition (mixed).

On Saturday afternoon the police made another extensive seizure in the Cullingtree road district. The house No. 33 was surrounded, and a large quantity of war-like material was discovered in a cement tank, eight feet by six, constructed under the tiles in the yard. The seizure consisted of 41 Mills bombs, 80 entrenching tools, a quantity of rifle parts, 70 rounds of mixed ammunition, a quantity of incendiary bomb parts, 23 Army oil tins, a tin of gunpowder, rifle bayonets, and gun cover. No person was found on the premises.

SHOT IN A MOTOR CAR.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN DUBLIN.

Charles Cooper, of the Civil Defence Force, was accidentally shot in Merrion square district, Dublin, in the early hours of Saturday morning by a soldier, one of a party which was searching a car in which Cooper had driven into the city from the country. He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, where he died.

Another member of the Civil Defence Force got a slight flesh wound in the forearm, but his injuries did not necessitate hospital treatment.

It is said that the car was moving off after the identity of the occupants had been established, when a soldier accidentally discharged his rifle, the bullet passing through the car.

An inquest will be held to-day.

CYCLING ACCIDENT.

CORK SENATOR SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Senator A. R. McMullen, a director of the Great Southern and Western Railway and ex-President of the Cork Incorporated Chamber of Commerce and Shipping, met with a serious accident when cycling near his home at Ballincollig on Friday evening.

It is stated that Senator McMullen got a nasty fall. He was found lying unconscious on the road. He was removed as speedily as possible to his residence, where it was seen that, in addition to a bad cut on the head, he had sustained severe injuries to one of his arms. He was attended by Dr. Harding, Ballincollig, and by Dr. Pearson, Cork. His condition is serious.

SMALL BOAT MISSING.

FEARED LOSS OF TWO LIVES.

Grave fears are entertained at Largs for the safety of Mr. John Dunn, of Knock Castle, and his tutor, Mr. A. Roy Johnstone, who set out on Friday afternoon in a small boat from moorings for a yacht in the Firth of Clyde.

A strong east wind was blowing, and it is thought that the boat, with its heavy tackle, may have been swamped.

Two oars have been found near Kilchattan Bay. Coast searches and trawling operations near the scene of the proposed moorings have been without avail. The services of a diver have been requisitioned.

OIL DISCOVERY.

VENEZUELAN WELL'S VAST DAILY OUTPUT.

NEW ORLEANS, Sunday.

A telegram received by the Venezuelan Consul here reports the discovery at Larca, near Maracaibo, in Venezuela, of an oil well yielding 120,000 barrels daily.

This is stated to be the biggest yield of any oil well in the world.—(Reuter.)

THE DEPORTATIONS.

"WORK BADLY HAMPERED."

Miss Mary MacSwiney addressed a meeting in Sackville street, Dublin, yesterday, and referred to the recent deportations from England. The Free State Government, she said, was acting in collusion with England and under English laws, more particularly under the Restoration of Order Act, which they had at one time declared to be illegal. They were stated as having struck a blow at Republican activities in England. England likewise rejoiced.

Owing to the arrest of these people the work was badly hampered, but it would not stop so long as there were others ready and willing to take up the fight for the Republic. The teaching of Republicanism and the distribution of munitions would be resumed.

The Republican movement would not benefit by exaggeration, and they did not want any, even from their friends. It was not true to say that there were no female attendants in Mountjoy Jail; but it was true that girls had been brought up from Cork by boat, with no female attendants on board.

Miss MacSwiney created amusement by stating that she recognised among the crowd men who had been "shadowing" her lately. If they thought that she was going to lead them to important people in the movement, they were mistaken.

THE CALCUTTA SWEEP.

OPPOSITION VENTURE IN LIVERPOOL.

Liverpool is organising a huge sweepstake on the Derby. This is the direct result of the sudden fall in popularity of the Calcutta "Sweep," consequent on the drastic restrictions imposed by the Calcutta Turf Club.

One of these is reservation of the right to strike out any number, because of the huge traffic that has gone on in bogus tickets. It is stated that thousands of regular patrons are standing out this year.

The Liverpool "Calcutta Sweep" is being organised by a committee of Cotton Exchange men. One hundred thousand numbers will be issued at 10s. each, and it is expected that the first prize will be £25,000 in cash.

CAPE'S BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

PRINCE ARTHUR OF CONNAUGHT'S SPEECH.

CAPE TOWN, March 16.

Prince Arthur of Connaught, the Governor-General, to-day opened the new Cape Technical College here, which has been erected at a cost of £150,000.

In his speech His Royal Highness emphasised the fact that South Africa was about to embark on a period of prosperity, and said that the College was being launched on a brilliant career. (Cheers.)

Continuing, Prince Arthur said that there were great projects ahead for the electrification of railways, wireless construction, and other scientific schemes. Many experts would be required, and he felt confident that the students would not fail to seize their opportunities.—(Reuter.)

LATE LORD CHOLMONDELEY.

"Accidental death, due to a clot of blood on the lungs," was the verdict at the inquest at Cholmondeley Castle on Saturday on the Marquis of Cholmondeley.

The nurse who attended the Marquis after his accident in the hunting field said that he made good progress towards recovery until last Thursday night, when he exclaimed, suddenly: "Oh, I do feel ill. I can scarcely breathe." He died twenty minutes later.

On the proposal of the Premier, the Grand Council adopted the resolution proposing that the Fascisti should celebrate the fourth anniversary of the foundation of the movement by renewing their solemn pledge to serve the interests of their country.—(Reuter.)

KING AND LABOUR.

THE BUCKINGHAM PALACE DINNER.

Speaking at Garston, Liverpool, last night, Mr. J. H. Thomas said that unnecessary attention had been given to the controversy regarding certain Labour leaders, including himself, having dined with Their Majesties at Buckingham Palace.

If Mr. Ramsay Macdonald had been ignored as Leader of the Opposition, it would have meant that the Labour Party had been deliberately flouted, and the King would have been accused by the same critics of "bida" against the Labour Party.

He would like to know when they as a party had ever declared themselves for a Republican Constitution. On the constitutional aspect he would accept the verdict of the electors of Derby. On the personal issue his own union would be the judge of his conduct, and he absolutely and emphatically refused to accept either the censorship or the guidance of others.

RELIGIOUS PROCESSION.

BIG GATHERING IN KINGSTOWN.

A remarkable procession took place on Sunday afternoon at Kingstown, in which about 1,000 persons took part, for the purpose of "manifesting publicly their loyalty and obedience to the Hierarchy of Ireland," and, also, "to commemorate the Golden Jubilee of the Consecration of Ireland to the Sacred Heart." The procession took half an hour to pass a given point, and all along the two-mile route through the principal streets was witnessed by crowds of spectators, who included people of all denominations.

The procession started at St. Michael's Church, passed through Lower George's street, Clarence street, the sea front, Longford terrace, Upper George's street, and back to the church, where the Act of Consecration was recited by the Very Rev. Canon Murphy, P.P., in the presence of the exposed Host. Most of those in the procession wore favours of the Papal colours. A number of trade, labour, and temperance organisations were represented, and there were two bands—the band of Carriglea House School and the Legion of Irish ex-Servicemen's band. The banner of the Sacred Heart and the Papal flag were borne in the procession. All business houses and shops on the line of route were closed during the passing of the procession.

NEW ISSUES.

ILLINGWORTH, MORRIS, AND COMPANY'S DEBENTURES.

Messrs. Ostrer Bros., of 4 Broad street place, London, E.C. 2, will receive applications through Barclay's Bank for £1,000,000 5 p.c. 1st mortgage debenture stock at 98½ p.c., repayable out of 1 p.c. cumulative sinking fund, commencing 1925, applied to purchases under par, drawings at 105 in 1928-33, 102 in 1933-38, and thereafter at par, while the company also can repay the whole issue on similar terms after 1928. Capital, £1,500,000; £1,253,635 issued. The company is an amalgamation of well-known Yorkshire worsted spinning concerns, previously known as Amalgamated Textiles. The company does not depend upon export for any substantial part of its profit. Recently two new businesses have been acquired, and for this purpose the present issue is made in order to provide balance of purchase money, additional working capital, and also to pay off £600,000 8 p.c. notes at present outstanding. New debentures have a first charge on assets, valued at £2,630,241, giving surplus of £2,148,091 over all liabilities, and after including present issue, but without allowing anything for goodwill. Profits are shown since 1915, and after providing for depreciation, E.P.D., and directors' fees, but before charging loan interest, etc., have ranged between £180,368 for 1921-22 and £674,991 for 1919-20. The present issue has been purchased by the issuing house at 94½, but latter pay underwriting commission, 1½ p.c., plus all expenses. The new debentures may be regarded as a well-secured industrial holding in a soundly-managed and progressive business, current trading prospects being good. The list of applications will be closed on or before Wednesday next, and applicants should use the form attached to the prospectus on page 11.

EAST ASIATIC RUBBER ESTATES.

This new rubber company is making an offer of 6,000,000 shares of 2s. each, the capitalisation working out at slightly less than £57 per planted acre. The applications will be received by the Westminster Bank and branches. The company has been formed to acquire, work, and develop certain rubber estate in Kedah, Trengganu, and Johore, Malaya. The estates comprise a total area of 11,489 acres and a planted area of 10,654 acres, and are known as Padang Meiha Estate, situated in Kodah; Kretay Estate, situated in Trengganu; and Timor and Adda Estates, which are situated in Johore. The respective areas are distributed as follows—Padang Meiha, 4,744 acres, 4,147 planted; Kretay, 4,513 acres, 4,429 planted; Timor 1,589 acres, 1,565 planted; Adda, 643 acres, 613 planted. The total purchase consideration payable in cash by the company to the various vendors is £832,700, or £50 per planted acre. No addition has been made to the purchase price payable to the present owners, and there being no intermediate vendor, no promotion profit is being paid. All the estates will be taken over as on and from the 1st April, 1923, as from which date all crops and outgoings will be for the account of this company. After providing for the purchase consideration and the payment of all preliminary expenses, the proceeds of the issue should, in the opinion of the directors, provide sufficient working capital, having regard to the fact that such a large portion of the area which is being acquired by the company is already in bearing. 700,000 of the shares now offered have been underwritten in consideration of a total over-riding and underwriting commission of 5 per cent., and 5,300,000 shares have already been applied for. The reports of the experts on the plantations are given in the full prospectus, and these reports should be examined by intending subscribers. The subscription list will open to-day and close on or before Thursday next, and applicants should use the form attached to the prospectus on page 11.

Tranquillity

Rest is Nature's law of recuperation.

When any of the bodily functions break down, rest and repose are essential to recuperation. It is Nature's way of restoring and renewing normal health and strength.

At some time or other the need for digestive rest comes to everyone. It may be during the strain of student, professional, business or social life; during illness or convalescence; or when just "out of sorts." At such times, Benger's Food, which is distinguished from all other foods by its ease of digestion, is almost an essential to complete recovery.

BENGER'S Food

is a rich fund of nourishment in itself, is always made with fresh pure cows' milk, which it modifies with scientific exactness to the digestive powers of the individual.

Thus, whilst supplying abundantly all the food elements needed for repairing and rebuilding the bodily functions, it gives the digestive organs the partial rest and tranquillity which is the most potent factor in winning back vigorous health.

Sanatogen

How Sanatogen Restores your Health and Energy

Like the elixir which Iseult gave to Tristan in the legend is the effect of Sanatogen on those exhausted by severe illness—especially nervous illness.

Nerve-sufferers complain of Insomnia, increasing lassitude of mind and body, and, as they get worse, of failing memory, lack of concentration, intense depression and morbid thoughts.

Sanatogen by feeding and strengthening the whole nervous system, soothes the nerves, removes depression and all the other morbid symptoms and restores the sufferer to a perfectly normal condition. Similarly, it rapidly improves the blood, and by nourishing the body, quickly re-creates strength and the ability to withstand fatigue.

The Physician Extraordinary to the late King Edward VII., writes:—"I have used Sanatogen for years in my practice with excellent results, notably in cases of reconvalescence when it was desirable to build up the strength, stimulate the bodily functions, and improve the circulation of the blood."

Professor Tobold, M.D., writes:—"My experience shows that patients suffering from nervous exhaustion after Influenza, or from Neurasthenia, by using Sanatogen in a comparatively short time regain strength and vitality."

Begin at once to regain your health and nerve energy by the regular use of Sanatogen. Buy a tin at your chemist's to-day—from 2/3 to 10/9. The results will amply repay you for the 2½d. per dose that Sanatogen costs you.

BRITISH FARMING.

DEPLORABLE PROSPECT FOR WORKERS.

MR. BONAR LAW'S REPLY.

An official report was issued on Saturday of a deputation representing the National Farmers' Union, the National Union of Agricultural Workers, and the Agricultural Section of the Workers' Union that waited on Mr. Bonar Law at 11 Downing street on Friday in reference to the state of agriculture in Great Britain.

Mr. R. B. Walker, in stating the case for the agricultural workers, said that since the cancelling of the Agriculture Act and the abolition of the Wages Board agriculture had been dependent upon local conciliation committees as the means of adjusting differences upon wages, etc., in the industry. These had been in operation for some eighteen months and had produced various agreements. It had been evident, however, for some time that the further they had proceeded the more difficult had become their task. At the present moment there were, in fact, only agreements in thirteen districts out of sixty-five, and, these being for a short period, it was doubtful if they would be continued. It would, therefore, be impossible to avoid a complete breakdown of the machinery.

WORSE THAN PRE-WAR DAYS.

Briefly, the facts were that offers of wages now made by the employers were such as the workers could not live upon, as low as 20s. 10d. per week, or 5d. per hour, being the terms offered. This meant, having regard to the present cost of living, a much lower standard than that which obtained in pre-war days, and which, by general consent, constituted nothing short of a scandal in rural life. With the best will in the world to use the machinery of conciliation to its fullest extent, it must be obvious that they could not give their sanction and support to a condition of things which takes the agricultural labourers back to a position so much worse than that which had been so severely criticised in the past.

A DEPLORABLE PROSPECT.

Mr. E. R. Robbins, of the Farmers' Union, referred to the wages position in Norfolk. "The prospect before the worker is indeed deplorable," he said; "but, on the other hand, it is almost impossible to exaggerate the gravity of the position in which very many of those whom we represent are placed.

"As events are moving, the position to-day in Norfolk will to-morrow be the position throughout the whole of England and Wales, wherever the farmer depends to any considerable extent upon arable farming."

PRIME MINISTER'S REPLY.

Mr. Bonar Law, in reply, said that the Government quite realised the serious position of agriculture. "What you seem to ask is that something should be done by the Government to prevent the fall in the production of food-stuffs. It seems to me that that is only possible in one of two ways—either by a big subsidy, the extent of which no one can foresee, or by Protection. As regards the subsidy, you know that that was tried and that it was found impracticable. As regards Protection, I think you know as well as I do that the public is not ready for that, and you could not get a majority for it. That also seems to be shut out.

"But with regard to your larger questions, I do not see what can be done or what you could expect the Government to do. You come to me and say the position is very bad, and you ask the Government to put it right. We should be only too glad if we were able to do so: we realise the position in which your industry is placed; but I do not see any practical scheme by which that can be done."

NO REMEDY IN SIGHT.

Answering a question, Mr. Bonar Law said—"It comes to this: Is the industry to be self-supporting or is it not? And you have to bear in mind after all, that what agriculture is suffering now is a direct result of the war. I think that the agricultural industry is in a worse position than almost any other industry; but they have all suffered. But the question is: Is agriculture to be self-supporting or to be supported by the State? I think the latter is impossible.

"I would like, if I could, to make you realise that if there were any way we would like to help you, but it seems to me that agriculture must live on an economic basis.

"You do not need to say anything to make me realise how serious the position is," he added, "but I do not see any remedy."

DEATH OF MR. H. PALMER.

Mr. W. Howard Palmer, chairman of the firm of Huntley and Palmers, Ltd., died on Saturday, after a long illness.

Mr. Palmer, who was born in 1865, was the third son of Mr. Samuel Palmer, the second of the three famous brothers who founded the well-known Reading firm in conjunction with their cousin, Mr. Thomas Huntley. Mr. Howard Palmer was educated at Highgate School, after which he studied finance in Brussels, and commerce with Messrs. Joseph Travers and Sons, Ltd., of London, as a preparation for the career which lay before him at the Reading factory. There he threw himself with energy in the family undertaking, and in 1906 he succeeded his cousin, the Right Hon. George William Palmer, as chairman of the company.

"SOMEONE HAS BLUNDERED."

The Press Association circulates the following letter it has received from Mr. Charles Diamond, dated from Cannes:—

"From a cablegram received here, I learn that it is reported in the Press that I am one of those arrested for aiding in running arms to the Irish Republican forces. To the best of my knowledge and belief, I have not been arrested and deported to Ireland. Several witnesses confirm this view. On the contrary, I am here on French soil and quite free, like the Irish Free State, which I uphold. The report is, therefore, news to me.

"As a newspaper man, I am unwilling to impugn the accuracy of the Press, and so shall be glad to learn if there is any new evidence to prove that I am really a prisoner. Failing this, I shall be compelled to believe that someone has blundered."

PLATFORM & STAGE.

DUBLIN PROGRAMMES.

At the Gaiety Theatre "The Sign on the Door" will be performed. It has had a ten months' "season" at the Playhouse, London, where it was a great success. The play was written by Channing Pollock, an American dramatist, and prior to its London production it ran for fourteen months in New York. The chief artists are Messrs. Malcolm Tearle and Norman B. Cannon and Miss Hilda Esty Marsh.

The variety programme at the Theatre Royal will include Nixon Grey, comedian; Joe Wilbur, who presents the Hawaiian Sextette in a native scene, "On the Beach at Waikiki"; Jerry and Company, Rorke and Bray, Ethel Loftus, and Rosie Lloyd.

Stewart Morton will appear at the Tivoli Theatre with Maisie Wood, and will give coon character studies. Other artists engaged are Fannie Furber; Ellis Barrieton, chorus vocalist; the Three Morrellys, gymnasts; Dean Cadona, comedian; Lily Raymond, character comedienne, and Weynen and Co., acrobats.

Performances will be given in the Abbey Theatre on Monday, March 26, at 2.30 and 8 o'clock, of "The Queen's Enemies," which Lord Dunsany is personally supervising; "Broken Glass," by Ronald Pertwee, for the first time in Dublin, and "How He Lied to Her Husband," by George Bernard Shaw. The casts of the three plays include Lady de Courcy Wheeler, the Hon. Mrs. Gordon Campbell, Lady Hanson, Mrs. Hill Tulloch, Miss Cicely Perry; Messrs. Donough Bryan, J. Hand, G. Phipps, T. McGreevy, S. A. Racen, and Ralph Brereton Barry.

The company that has been appearing at the Olympia (Empire) Theatre last week has been re-engaged, and will perform the farcical romance, "The Duke of Killiecrankie," by Robert Marshall, as produced at the Criterion Theatre, London. The romantic story provides an amusing theme, and ample scope for the abilities of this company is taken full advantage of.

"Trust Your Wife" is the chief picture to be shown at the Carlton Cinema to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday. Katherine MacDonald is the leading "star." For the remaining three days "The Fast Mail" will be shown. It has a good plot.

At the Princess Cinema, Rathmines, to-day's chief picture is "What's a Wife Worth," and there are comedies, interest films, and the Pathé Gazette. On Thursday Constance Talmadge will be shown in "A Virtuous Vamp."

The directors of the Celebrity Concerts are completing arrangements for the season 1923-1924, when such artists as Kreisler, Cortot, Backhaus, Mischa Elman, Dame Clara Butt, Kennerly Rumford, Ysaye, Rosina Buckman, Maurice D'Oisly, Phyllis Lett, Peter Dawson, and others whose names will be announced later will perform.

BELFAST METHODISTS.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER TO SIR SAMUEL KELLY, C.B.E.

Sir Samuel Kelly, C.B.E., Belfast, was entertained to a complimentary dinner on the 16th inst. in Thompson's Restaurant, Belfast, by members of the Methodist Church, in recognition of the honour of Knighthood recently conferred upon him by the King.

Mr. G. H. Fulton presided, and after the loyal toast, proposed the health of "Our Guest," being supported by the Rev. W. H. Smyth, M.A.; Rev. R. Lee Cole, B.D., and Mr. S. T. Mercier, J.P., all of whom referred to his munificence towards Methodist objects, as well as to his outstanding commercial activities, which are so helpful to the development of Northern and Southern Ireland.

Sir Samuel, replying, thanked his friends for their appreciation of his services, and suggested that Belfast Methodists should form a General Council for the extension of their work in the city.

THIEF'S SANCTUARY.

TAXIS TO POLICE COURT TO EVADE CAPTURE.

Because he was being followed in another taxi by the police, Charles Roberts, a young man, had himself driven to Marylebone Police Court on Saturday, made his way to the jailers' quarters, and said: "I've knocked off a couple of bags, and they are chasing me." He carried an attaché case and a suit case.

Roberts was subsequently brought before the magistrate, Mr. Chancellor, and charged with stealing the bags, value £10, the property of Mr. F. Rylands, of Cheltenham, at Paddington Station. He was remanded.

THE LACE TRADE.

PETITION TO PARLIAMENT FOR PROTECTION.

Preparations were completed in Nottingham on Saturday for the presentation to Parliament to-morrow of the huge petition, containing over 71,000 signatures, asking that protection may be afforded under the Safeguarding Industries Act to the lace trade, which, it is stated, is being ruined by foreign imports, particularly from France.

The Board of Trade has previously rejected two applications for a similar purpose, but it is being urged that without some measure of help the lace industry is doomed to partial annihilation, there having been for a long time thousands of operatives and auxiliary women workers out of employment in Nottingham district or engaged only upon restricted time.

The argument advanced is that, protection having been granted under the Act to the fabric, glove and gas mantle industries, the lace trade has a much stronger claim to assistance.

THE BELGENLAND.

NEW GIANT LINER LEAVES BELFAST FOR ANTWERP.

The Belgenland, a palatial passenger liner of 27,000 tons, left the port of Belfast on Saturday after being extensively reconditioned and overhauled by Harland and Wolff, Ltd., for Antwerp, from which port she will sail on her maiden voyage as a passenger liner for New York.

The Belgenland, which is classed 100 A1 at Lloyd's, is 697' x 78' x 49', and will be one of the largest vessels trading between Antwerp and New York. The passenger accommodation has been arranged on a luxurious scale, provision having been made for nearly 500 first and 1,000 second-class passengers, and over 1,000 third-class passengers. In the ship's deck arrangement are two unusual features. One is an observation promenade forward of the main deck-houses, across the promenade deck, as on a private yacht, and the other a glass enclosure of the main promenade deck, with bulwarks low enough to permit of passengers looking out upon the sea while reclining in their deck-chairs.

Captain John Bradshaw has been appointed Commander of the Belgenland. During the war he commanded the Red Star liner Lapland on seventy-four voyages across the Atlantic with troops and munitions.

THE RED CROSS.

REVIEW OF THE WORK DONE IN 1922.

A meeting of the Joint Committee of the British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John was held at the offices, 40 Merrion square, Dublin, on the 13th inst. The following were present:—Sir John Lumsden, K.B.E. (in the chair); the Lord Chief Justice of Ireland, Lady Shaw, the Right Hon. Jonathan Hogg, D.L. (Hon. Treasurer); Messrs. D. R. Pack Beresford, O.B.E., D.L.; John Good, D.L.; E. A. Trouton, C.B.E.; Walter Sexton, C.B.E.; William Geoghegan, M.B.E., D.L.; A. J. Connor, M.B.E.; and the Misses E. F. Blandford and M. R. Scott, Joint Secretaries.

Apologies were received from the Countess of Bandon, Lady Talbot de Malahide, D.B.E.; Lady Arnott, D.B.E.; Lady Everard, and Mr. Edward White.

Grants of £100 to the Ex-Service Pensioners' Clinic, 51 Lower Mount street, and £200 to the Irish Hospitals Supply Dépôt, were sanctioned.

A statement of receipts and expenditure for the year ended 31st December, 1922, was presented and considered satisfactory.

The Chairman's report of the work done by the Joint Committee and its Sub-Committees during 1922 was adopted. The following were the chief points:—

The Red Cross Emergency Help Committee.—The Committee was primarily established for the temporary assistance of the ex-service men suffering from sickness or disablement attributable to, or aggravated by, service in the European War. 689 cases were assisted in 1922, grants or loans to the amount of £3,514 being made. This fund was administered through five sub-committees, and invaluable and constant service was given by Red Cross workers and ladies connected with the work of the Pensions Committees in Dublin since their establishment. The benefit of this assistance to us has been inestimable, theirs being expert knowledge acquired after long experience.

Limbless Department.—This department uses the balance of the Duke of Connaught's Hospital funds for the benefit of limbless men. 46 grants and 10 loans, amounting to £191 8s. 6d., were made during the year.

Disabled Ex-Service Men's Hostel, 110 St. Stephen's Green.—The hostel was founded in 1919 to accommodate ex-service men from the country undergoing treatment or awaiting special medical boards, a capitation grant being paid by the Ministry of Pensions. The Joint Committee, finding that the hostel was being run at a loss, as the capitation grants did not cover the costs and the house was not kept full, decided to close the hostel from the 1st October, 1922. During the nine months to 30th September, 1922, 93 men were housed, a total of 409 since its establishment in 1919.

Orthopædic Clinics (No. 1, St. Stephen's Green; No. 2, 51 Lower Mount street).—No. 1, at 110 St. Stephen's Green, was opened in February, 1920, closed in October, 1922. Officers' treatments, 2,054; men's treatments, 26,085. No. 2, 51 Lower Mount street, was opened in May, 1920. Officers, 442 treatments; men, 30,120 treatments. Dressing Department—3,926 dressings done for old unhealed wounds, ulcers, broken down scars, etc. Total number of treatments at No. 1 and No. 2 Clinics since their inception in 1920, 281,344.

Provincial Orthopædic Clinics are established at Waterford, Kilkenny, Mullingar, and at these over 20,000 treatments were given during the year.

Irish Hospitals Supply Dépôt.—40,197 dressings were supplied to civilian hospitals during the early months of 1922. It was then decided to devote the remaining resources of the dépôt to the District Nurses' Association (under Q.V.J.I.) Orthopædic Clinic, 51 Lower Mount street, and St. John Ambulance Brigade, and very large quantities of bandages and dressings were supplied to these various activities. During the trouble in June and July, 1922, 4,139 dressings were made by emergency workers in the workrooms.

The V.A.D. Club at 24 Molesworth street continues its useful work, and has a membership of 330. 16,518 meals were served during the year.

St. John Ambulance Brigade.—The work of the Brigade has been carried on assiduously during the past year. There is no need to comment on the work done by this organisation during the Dublin fighting, June-July, last year. 765 cases have been treated at the huts in Foster place and O'Connell street. It is hoped to establish a third hut shortly at the North Wall. 305 patients have been carried in the motor ambulance; and in the Invalid Requisites Department, Welfare and Baby Clothing Department a great deal of excellent work has been accomplished. First aid and home nursing classes have been regularly held at headquarters. Ambulance divisions are established at Messrs. Arthur Guinness, Son and Co.; Messrs. W. and R. Jacob and Co., Messrs. Power and Son, and Messrs. Morgan Mooney, and the first Railway Division has been formed at the Broadstone Station by the employés of the Midland Great Western Railway.

The British Red Cross Society (Dublin Branch) has been chiefly occupied with work for ex-service men of the great war and their families, amongst its activities being the visiting of ex-service pensioner patients in the Dublin hospitals, and supplying them with smokes, fruit, and papers. In addition, a very large supply of comforts and games was sent by the London Joint Council for distribution at Christmas. During the year 319 children of ex-service men were clothed, and this entailed the making of 1,396 articles of clothing by the Red Cross work party. The motor ambulance carries cases in the County Dublin, and within a radius of thirty miles from headquarters, at a charge of 1s. 3d. per mile, very poor cases being carried free. The service was availed of by 241 patients, the mileage travelled being approximately 1,535.

THE DOG SHOW IN DUBLIN.

500 MORE EXHIBITS THAN LAST YEAR.

IRISH BLUE TERRIERS NOT UP TO STANDARD.

The Irish Kennel Club scored another fine success with their Championship Show at Ballsbridge on Saturday, when over eleven hundred exhibits were benched, compared to some six hundred odd which were on show last year.

From an early hour the various rings were surrounded by large numbers of visitors, and the judges did not complete their laborious task until the evening had far advanced. Taking them all round, the exhibits reached a remarkably high standard, but in a few instances there was a falling off in quality compared to last year, particularly in the Irish Blue Terriers, which, however, numerically were the strongest section in the show.

The Red Irish Terriers made a capital exhibit, but it was noticed that here the bitches took the honours in point of quality and substance. Airedales were very strongly represented, and a section that was greatly admired was the Alsatian Wolfhounds, while Sealyhams, Bulldogs, Setters, Cairn Terriers, Fox Terriers and the smaller varieties, such as Yorkshires, Poms, and Pekingese were benched in force, and claimed their due share of attention from those interested in these breeds.

ROWING.

BOAT RACE PRACTICE.

The feature of Saturday's training of the University crews at Putney was a full course trial by the Light Blues. Oxford had had their trial on Friday, covering the distance in 20 mins. 45 secs., but on Saturday, with conditions slightly more favourable, the Light Blues rowed from Putney to Mortlake in 20 mins. 16 secs. It was a fine performance, and greatly encouraged both crew and those associated with them. The water was rather choppy at the start, but Cambridge got away smartly from the stake boat against a London eight. Rowing 37 to the first minute, which enabled them to gain a length on the scratch crew, they reached the mile post in 4 mins. 37 secs., as against 4 mins. 44 secs. by Oxford. Then they were paced by another crew to Harrods, and reached Hammersmith Bridge in 8 mins. 15 secs., against Oxford's 8 mins. 26 secs. A strong Leander crew joined them at Chiswick, and the slips were passed in 12 mins. 40 secs., compared with 12 mins. 59 secs. by their rivals, and at Barnes' Bridge their time was 17 mins. 10 secs., as against 17 mins. 24 secs. by the Dark Blues. They kept their length well, and rowed with fine dash from the Bridge to the winning post, which they reached in great style, and little distressed. The result of the trial and the form has been to strengthen opinion in favour of Cambridge.

The Dark Blues were afloat twice on Saturday, but their work was uneventful, consisting of little more than spells of paddling and short bursts of rowing.

The following letter has been received from Mr. T. H. Morris, D.L., J.P., the Chairman of Illingworth, Morris, and Company, Limited:—

To Messrs. OSTRER BROS., 4 Broad Street Place, London, E.C.2.

GENTLEMEN,

Illingworth, Morris, and Company, Ltd., constitutes an amalgamation of the well-known Yorkshire Worsted Spinning Companies; Daniel Illingworth and Sons, Ltd.; Wm. Morris and Sons, Ltd., and John H. Beaver, Ltd., and is also acquiring G. H. Leather, Ltd., and John Robertshaw and Co., whose Mills produce high-grade worsted yarns, for which there is a steady demand. Except for a short period at the height of the post-war slump in commodity values, they have been fully employed at full output for many years.

The Company does not depend upon export for any substantial part of its profit.

The policy of the Board is to secure the economic, financial, and commercial advantages of amalgamation without interference with the mill organisations, which have resulted in the present valuable goodwill and the high reputation of the Company's products.

The acquisition of the businesses of Messrs. Leather and Robertshaw, in addition to adding substantially to the Company's profit-earning power, distinctly strengthens its position in the trade.

The Company relies for its profits upon spinning and follows a conservative policy in regard to stocks, as may be seen from the comparative ease with which it has passed through the unprecedented slump in trade.

Since the amalgamation an output has been attained higher than the previous highest combined output of the amalgamated companies in any one year.

With reference to the £1,000,000 First Mortgage Debenture Stock which you are purchasing, the net proceeds of the sale of this Stock will be used to pay off the existing £600,000 Eight per Cent. Seven-Year Notes, to pay the balance of the purchase-money for G. H. Leather, Ltd., and John Robertshaw and Co., to reduce bank loan and to provide additional working capital.

The assets to be comprised in the specific charge contained in the Trust Deed have been valued by Messrs. J. W. Ackroyd and Sons, of Bradford, as at March, 1923.

On this basis and on the basis of the last audited Balance Sheet of each of the subsidiaries, the total assets, including the balance of the proceeds of sale of Debenture Stock after redemption of the Notes and payment of the balance of the purchase-money of G. H. Leather, Ltd., and John Robertshaw and Co., and including at cost other investments of Illingworth, Morris, and Co., Ltd., are as follows:—

Assets as valued by Messrs. J. W. Ackroyd and Sons	£1,281,457
Book Debts and Debit Balances, Stock-in-Trade, Investments, etc., and the Balance of the proceeds of this sale	1,348,784
		£2,630,241
And the total liabilities amount to		482,150
Giving a surplus of assets over liabilities of		£2,148,091

The annexed Certificate by the Company's Auditors shows the profits of the combined concerns for the seven years from 1915 to 1922.

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) T. H. MORRIS.

15th March, 1923.

On the above figures, nothing has been included in respect of the valuable goodwill of the Company or its subsidiaries.

Auditors' Certificate referred to in the Chairman's letter:—

Bradford, 12th March, 1923.

To the Directors of ILLINGWORTH, MORRIS and CO., LTD., London, E.C.3.

We have examined the accounts as certified by their respective Auditors of the undermentioned businesses—viz.: Daniel Illingworth and Sons (including A. and H. Illingworth, Ltd.), for the seven years and nine months ending 30th September, 1922; John H. Beaver, Ltd., for the seven years and nine months ending 30th September, 1922; Wm. Morris and Sons, Ltd., for the seven years and six months ending 30th September, 1922; G. H. Leather, Ltd., for the seven years and six months ending 18th September, 1922; John Robertshaw and Company for the seven years and six months ending 31st August, 1922; and find that the profits, after providing for Depreciation, Excess Profits Duty, Directors' Fees and Managers' Bonus, but before charging interest on Capital, Income Tax, Corporation Profits Tax, or Bank Interest, interest on Loans and Reserve Fund, were as follows:—

1915/1916	£194,039
1916/1917	£247,905
1917/1918	£191,687
*1918/1919	£208,970
1919/1920	£674,991
*1920/1921	£343,229†
1921/1922	£180,368†
6 months, 1922	£143,425†	or at the rate of
	£286,850	per annum.

* Includes fifteen months' profits in the case of John H. Beaver, Ltd., and Daniel Illingworth and Sons, Ltd., respectively.

† During these years depreciation has been charged on the basis of higher capital values.

Owing to broken periods in the various accounts we are not able to give a uniform comparison in the above statement of profits.

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) BUTTERFIELD and HARTMAN
(Chartered Accountants).

The price payable by Messrs. Ostrer Bros. to the Company for the whole of the Issue of Debenture Stock is 94½ per cent. They are paying an Underwriting Commission of 1½ per cent. with an Over-riding Commission of ½ per cent. and all the expenses of this offer.

Applications for purchase of the Stock should be made upon the accompanying form in multiples of £50 through any of the appointed Banks.

Messrs. Ostrer Bros. will procure that all Debenture Stock applied for and accepted hereunder will be allotted direct to the applicants or their nominees by Illingworth, Morris and Company, Limited, and the names of the applicants or their nominees, after payment of the full purchase price of the Stock, will be entered in the Company's Register as holders of fully-paid Debenture Stock.

Certificates for the fully-paid Debenture Stock will be delivered by the 31st July, 1923, by Illingworth, Morris and Company, Limited, in exchange for Allotment Letters duly receipted for the amounts payable in respect of the Debenture Stock.

If an application be accepted for less than the amount applied for, the balance of deposit will be credited towards the amount due on acceptance and any surplus will be returned. Interest at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum will be chargeable on overdue instalments.

Non-payment of the balance of the purchase money in accordance with the terms of this offer will render the amount already paid liable to forfeiture and any allotment liable to cancellation.

A brokerage of ¼ per cent. will be paid on applications (other than by or in relief of underwriting) through bankers, brokers, or other accredited agents.

Special consideration will be given to applications from Shareholders in the Company.

The Ordinary Shares of the Company are quoted.

The draft of the Trust Deed (subject of revision), the Memoranda and Articles of Association of the Company and of the subsidiary companies, the original letter from the Chairman and the Auditors' Certificate, the valuation by Messrs. J. W. Ackroyd and Sons, and the Agreement between the Company and Messrs. Ostrer Bros. for the purchase of the Stock, may be seen at the offices of the Solicitors for the Offer during business hours while the application list remains open.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

PLENTY OF CREDIT AND RATES LOWER.

Fairly brisk conditions prevailed on Saturday in the Money market, and as the result of the recent dividend disbursements plenty of credit was available for current requirements. At the outset 2 p.c. was charged for loans until Monday, but later on no difficulty was experienced in securing accommodation down to 1½ p.c. No special movements of cash took place, though the market had a fair amount of new Treasury bills to pay for. Weekly money went on at 1½ p.c. for renewals, but in the expectation of stringency next week 2 p.c. was charged for fresh accommodation.

Bank Rate (discount) changed July 13, 1922, 3%.

60 days (fine)	2⅛-⅜	Trade	3	3¼%
3 months	2⅛-⅜	"	3	3½%
4 months	2⅛-⅜	"	3	3½%
6 months	2⅜-½	"	3	3¾%
Loans to brokers day-to-day			2	1½%
" for a week			2	1½%
Deposit allowance Banks at call				1%
" Discount houses, at call				1½%
" at notice				1¼%

No actual change occurred in the bill market, but the tendency weakened on Friday's Treasury bill tenders and the decline in the "tap" rate on additional bills from 2¼ to 1⅞ p.c. The new bills were freely offered at 2 p.c., while a fair number of last week's bills were done at 2 to 2⅛ p.c. For commercial paper 2⅜ to 2⅞ p.c. was quoted for six months' date, and 2⅛-¼ p.c. for shorter periods.

Silver was firmer on Eastern buying. Cash at 32⅛d. and forward at 32¼d. both rose ⅛d.

Very little was doing in the foreign exchanges, and the tendency was more favourable. The following are closing quotations:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mazawattee Tea Company has made further progress during the past year. Profits have increased by about £4,000, the results of the past three years being:—

1922	£70,860
1921	£66,863
1920	£58,259

The dividend is unchanged at 15 per cent., and £5,000 is again placed to the reserve fund, but the carry-forward is higher at £36,363. It is to be noted that the latter figure is equivalent to 30 per cent. on the issued Ordinary capital, which comprises 350,000 shares of the unusual denomination of 6/8 each.

Textile shares have been inclined to droop, and there has been a lot of profit-taking in Bradford Dyers, which are looking cheap again on prospects. Reports of a strike amongst the workers have caused Jute Industries shares to come to market. Tobacco shares have been well bought again, although there is no confirmation to the rumour that the Imperial Company is negotiating for the French monopoly. A yield of nearly 5½ per cent. net is still to be obtained on these and B.A.T. shares, equal to about 7½ per cent. gross with income tax at 5/- in the £.

DUBLIN WEEKLY TRADE REPORT.

There is very little change of importance or general interest to report in trade or commerce. Markets follow a fairly steady routine on about previous basis of values. The industrial output in most branches is not maintaining the increased and expanding dimensions anticipated a month or so ago. Our usual shipping returns for Port of Dublin for week ending the 16th are as follow:—

EXPORTS OF PORTER.

Messrs. A. Guinness, Son and Co.'s shipments of porter from Dublin, as returned by the Customs daily shipping lists for the past week, were:—

ULSTER LINEN INDUSTRY.

A DECREASED EXPORT.

OUTLOOK MORE PROMISING.

(FROM OUR BELFAST CORRESPONDENT.)

There are several factors operating in the Irish linen industry at the moment which promise a better output than that experienced last month. Merchants, in particular, are finding that business is encouraging, and that the steady flow of orders, even if they are for small lots, is being well maintained, while the "quick delivery" stipulation points to small stocks held in the various markets, and is also a matter which will ultimately benefit the spinners, who have been severely pressed during the past month by Belgian competition, owing to lower exchange rate. The Belgian spinners have had a satisfactory "run of business," and it would appear as if they had been practically booked up for some time ahead. Therefore, it is not surprising that their quotations are rising, and that they cannot guarantee quick delivery. Local spinners are now finding more business, and they are disposed to congratulate themselves that they are not stampeded into accepting lower and unremunerative prices. Merchants are finding that the home trade is being well maintained, and that the cotton prices now prevailing in many classes of goods is directing attention to the linen equivalent. The Dominion markets continue to be a steadily-increasing source of support for the industry, while better reports are coming from the United States, where dress linen and other varieties of goods are selling well notwithstanding the Belgian rates.

EXPORT RETURNS.

Although there were fewer working days in February, it must be admitted that the exports were not so satisfactory as the previous month. The total value of the linen goods exported during February was £925,865, compared with £1,081,270 in January, £1,041,428 in February last year, and £754,645 in February, 1921. The total square yards of linen piece goods of all kinds exported is, perhaps, a better guide in an era of changing values. They amounted to 6,792,600 square yards, valued at £566,448, compared with 8,050,700 square yards in January, valued at £686,756. The United States took last month piece goods totalling 3,951,300 square yards, valued at £302,586, against 5,029,900 square yards, valued at £470,546, in 1922. The value of the exports per square yard is, roughly, 18d. per square yard this year, as against 22d. per square yard last year. There was a fall in the exports of linen piece goods to Australia this month, only 548,200 square yards, valued at £45,451, being exported; these figures are almost the same as for February last year. Canada took 528,800 square yards, valued at £36,992, figures which are considerably better than for the same month last year, but a little less than the January exports, which amounted to 590,300 yards, valued at £42,333. Argentine shows an improvement with 197,900 square yards, valued at £18,747, and exceeds the taking of Brazil, which were 148,400 square yards, valued at £18,923. Continental markets make a poor show, France taking practically one-eighth of the quantity exported last year during the same month. Cuba shows a slight improvement on January, with 90,800 square yards, valued at £12,768; last February the figures were 7,500 square yards, valued at £1,659. The Argentine also shows better figures than for January, with 197,900 square yards, valued at £18,747. The value of the handkerchiefs exported during February show an increase of nearly £2,000, the figures being £36,820. Damask table linens, not in the piece, to the value of £144,792, finished thread valued at £71,737, and other linen manufactures to the value of £106,070, were exported last month. The imports of linen goods are given as 404,056 square yards, valued at £28,017.

There has been an increase of nearly 50 per cent. in the amount of flax imported.

During February 2,096 tons of flax were imported, valued at £253,721, of which 1,335 tons, valued at £182,194, were from Belgium. The tow imports were 430 tons, valued at £31,981. Flax and hemp yarn imports were 50 per cent. larger than during January, the figures being 695 tons, valued at £102,508; these figures are nearly double those of February last year. The exports of flax and hemp yarns were 209 tons, valued at £61,032.

Flax prices in Northern Ireland have shown a slightly downward tendency in some markets, and now range about 1s. lower from 13s. to 17s. per stone; but, on the whole, the price is being well maitained, and it is understood that farmers are being encouraged to plant a larger acreage during the coming season. This is necessary if there is any great expansion in the demand for linen goods, a possibility which is not at all remote in view of the trend of raw cotton prices.

PENDING ISSUE.

MID. COUNTIES ELECTRIC SUPPLY CO., LTD.

Further particulars are now available regarding the above issue. It will consist of 750,000 6 per cent. Cum. Pref. Shares of £1 each, and the prospectus will appear on Wednesday. This company has been making steady progress. The net profits for the year ending December, 1922, were £91,249, as compared with £60,298 for the preceding year. We understand that considerable developments are in hand, which should materially increase future profits. The proceeds of the new issue will be used for the redemption of £393,980 7½ per cent. Deb. Stock outstanding, the payment of the cash portion of the purchase price of the Spondon Generating Station, and for the general capital purposes of the company.

SOUTH AFRICAN WIRELESS.

CAPE TOWN, March 16.

Several alterations have been made in the Wireless Bill by the Select Committee which is considering the matter. The capital of the South African Wireless Company has been fixed at £500,000, which may be increased or reduced with the consent of the Government. The Marconi Company will take four-fifths of the capital, and the South African public the remainder.

Owing to the difficulty of obtaining a site, the receiving station may be within range of gunfire from the coast, but the transmitting station must be out of range. Provision is made for a new agreement insuring the right of the South African Wireless Company to use all patent rights in the present and future, owned or controlled by the Marconi Company, free of any payment.—(Reuter).

PROSPECTUS.

This Company has been formed for the purposes expressed in its Memorandum of Association, and particularly to acquire, work, and develop certain Rubber Estates in Kedah, Trengganu, and Johore, Malaya.

The Estates comprise a total area of 11,489 acres and a planted area of 10,654 acres, and are known as Padang Meiha Estate, situated in Kedah; Kretay Estate, situated in Trengganu, and Timor and Adda Estates, which are situated in Johore.

The respective areas are distributed as follows:—

	Acreage.	Planted.	Annual Quit Rent.
Padang Meiha	4,744 Acres	4,147 Acres	$3,752.50
Kretay	4,513 Acres	4,429 Acres	$4,513.50
Timor	1,589 Acres	1,565 Acres	$3,973.80
Adda	643 Acres	613 Acres	$1,608.90

SITUATION AND GRANTS.

Padang Meiha Estate is situated on the Baling-Kulim road, six miles from Padang Serai, South Kedah; 12 miles from Kreh Railway Station, in Province Wellesley, and 18 miles from Kulim, and is held under provisional grants from the Kedah Government in perpetuity.

Kretay is situated on the Kretay River, in the south of the State of Trengganu, and is held under various concessions or grants for a term of 99 years, which have been recognised officially by the High Commissioner in Singapore and the British Adviser in Trengganu.

Timor and Adda Estates are situated in South Johore, 12 and 8 miles respectively north of Johore Bahru, and both adjoin the well-known Mount Austin and Tebrau Rubber Estates. They are held under direct grants from the Johore Government in perpetuity.

REPORTS.

Independent reports on the Estates were obtained in January, 1923, on behalf of the Equatorial Rubber Trust, Limited, by well-known experts, Padang Meiha having been inspected and reported upon by Mr. Percy Mitford (Manager of Bertam Consolidated Rubber Company, Limited), and Kretay, Timor, and Adda by Mr. C. W. Bradburne (late Manager of Tebrau Rubber Estates, Limited).

Extracts from these reports accompany this Prospectus, but the originals are open to inspection by intending subscribers. The statements in this Prospectus with regard to the Estates are based mainly on these reports, and also on information supplied by or on behalf of the Vendors.

ACREAGE.—The following table specifies the total planted area on each of the Estates, and the area occupied by buildings, reserve, and other land. It also shows the respective dates of planting, and that the total planted area is 10,654 acres:—

Date of Planting.	Padang Meiha. Acres.	Kretay. Acres.	Timor. Acres.	Adda. Acres.	Total Acres.
1905-07	—	—	—	150	150
1908	—	—	—	451	451
1911	291	305	—	—	596
1912	—	871	1,565	—	2,436
1916	—	567	—	12	579
1917	2,850	682	—	—	3,532
1918	1,006	902	—	—	1,908
1919	—	865	—	—	865
1920	—	137	—	—	137
Total Planted Area	4,147	4,329	1,565	613	10,654
Buildings, Reserve, Swamp, and Waste Land	597	184	24	30	835
	4,744	4,513	1,589	643	11,489

CROPS AND EXPORT ALLOWANCE.—The estimated outputs for the next five years from each estate are shown in the following table:—

Year.	Padang. Lbs.	Kretay. Lbs.	Timor. Lbs.	Adda. Lbs.	Total Lbs.
1923-4	230,000	784,750	469,500	122,600	1,606,850
1924-5	580,000	1,101,750	547,750	153,250	2,382,750
1925-6	790,000	1,488,850	586,875	168,575	3,034,300
1926-7	1,080,000	1,675,550	626,000	183,900	3,565,450
1927-8	1,388,000	1,831,375	665,125	183,900	4,068,400
Totals	4,068,000	6,882,275	2,895,250	812,225	14,657,750

The actual exports allowed from 1st November, 1922, to 31st October, 1923, and in respect of which licences have been or will be granted (under the rules and conditions now in force) amount to 1,398,288 lbs.

The licences may be altered quarterly according to the variations in market prices, and will be subject to increase from time to time as further areas reach maturity.

In view of the fact that the estimated output is in excess of the total exportable allowance, the Directors intend to rest the trees on the Adda Estate in the meantime.

ESTIMATED COST OF PRODUCTION AND PROFITS.—On the basis of the estimated costs and estimated outputs, as stated in the accompanying extracts, and taking the selling price of rubber during the period of 55 cents (say 1/3½) per lb. f.o.b., the following profits should be obtained:—

1923-4.	1924-5.	1925-6.	1926-7.	1927-8.
£53,285	£82,910	£112,469	£138,464	£164,309

Each additional 1d. per lb. in selling price on the estimated crops would increase the above profits as follows:—

1923-4.	1924-5.	1925-6.	1926-7.	1927-8.
£6,695	£9,928	£12,643	£14,856	£16,952

VALUATIONS.—The Estates are valued by Mr. Percy Mitford and Mr. C. W. Bradburne as follows:—

Padang Meiha	£232,070
Kretay, $2,726,212 (at $8.5—£1)	£320,730
Timor, $955,431 (at $8.5—£1)	£112,404
Adda, $232,786 (at $8.5—£1)	£27,387
Making a total valuation of	£692,591

PURCHASE PRICE.—The total purchase consideration payable in cash by the Company to the various vendors, as set out below, is £532,700, or £50 per planted acre, and it will be seen that this is substantially less than the total valuation.

No addition has been made to the purchase price payable to the present owners, and there being no intermediate vendor no promotion profit is being paid.

All the Estates will be taken over as on and from the 1st April, 1923, as from which date all crops and outgoings will be for the account of this Company.

WORKING CAPITAL.—After providing for the purchase consideration and the payment of all preliminary expenses, the proceeds of this issue should, in the opinion of the directors, provide sufficient working capital, having regard to the fact that such a large portion of the area which is being acquired by the Company is already in bearing.

The following information is given in accordance with Section (81) Sub-Section (1) of the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908:—

(1). A copy of the Company's Memorandum of Association and the names, addresses, and descriptions of the signatories, and the number of shares subscribed for by them, respectively, will be found on the last page of the Prospectus and forms part of it.

(2). By the Articles of Association of the Company the qualification of a director shall be the holding of shares of the Company of the nominal value of £250.

(3). The Articles of Association of the Company contain the following provisions as to remuneration of directors:—

"103—The directors other than any managing director shall be entitled to appropriate and apply as their remuneration an amount at such rate as, after deducting the income tax payable thereon, shall be equivalent to a rate of £200 per annum for each director other than the Chairman, and £250 per annum for the Chairman, calculated in each case from the date of such director's appointment. The directors shall also be entitled by way of further remuneration in each year, after £10 per cent. has been paid in respect of such year upon the Ordinary Shares of the Company for the time being issued to so appropriate and apply for division between themselves in such proportions as the directors may determine, and failing determination, equally, a sum equal to 5 per cent. of the net profits of the Company for such year as shown in the Company's profit and loss account for such year, but such further remuneration shall not exceed in the aggregate in any one year the sum of £2,000 without the consent of the Company in general meeting. In the event of a director retiring, or for any other cause vacating his office before the end of any year, his remuneration shall be deemed to have accrued up to the date on which his office as a director shall have been so vacated. The directors may in their discretion pay out of the funds of the Company any travelling or other expenses, of any director or directors whilst engaged on the business of the Company, or in attending meetings of directors or committee meetings or other meetings of the Company. The Company in general meeting may from time to time, and at any time, increase the remuneration by this Article provided.

104—If any director shall go or reside abroad on the Company's business, or otherwise perform services, whether of a temporary or continuing nature for which, in the opinion of the Board, his ordinary remuneration as a director under the last preceding Article may be inadequate, the Board may arrange with such director for such special remuneration for the said services either by way of salary, commission, or the payment of a stated sum of money or otherwise as they shall think fit, such special remuneration to be of such amount and to be payable during any period or periods, and to be in addition to any remuneration to which such director would be entitled under the provisions of the last preceding Article or otherwise as the directors in their absolute discretion think fit.

135—The remuneration of a Managing Director shall be determined by the Board, and may be by way of salary or commission or participation in the profits, or by any or all of those modes, and shall, if so determined by the Board, be in addition to his share of remuneration payable to the Board or to the Managing Director as one of the Board."

(4). The preliminary expenses, all of which are payable by the Company, are estimated at £12,000, in addition to the underwriting and over-riding commission and brokerage, and the costs of and stamp duties on the transfer of the properties, which are also payable by the Company.

(5). No sum is payable by the Company for goodwill.

(6). The following Contracts have been entered into:—

(a) Dated the 14th March, 1923, and made between Padang Meiha Rubber Company, Limited, a company incorporated in the Straits Settlements, and having its registered office in Singapore, Straits Settlements, of the one part, and this Company of the other part, for the Sale of the Padang Meiha Estate at the price of £200,000.

(b) Dated the 14th March, 1923, between Timor Rubber Estates, Limited, a company incorporated in the Straits Settlements, and having its registered office in Singapore, Straits Settlements, of the one part, and this Company of the other part, for the Sale of the Timor Estate, at the price of £93,500.

(c) Dated the 14th March, 1923, between Adda Rubber Estates, Limited, a company incorporated in the Straits Settlements, and having its registered office in Singapore, Straits Settlements, of the one part, and this Company of the other part, for the Sale of the Adda Estate, at the price of £33,200.

(d) Dated the 14th March, 1923, between Aktieselskabet Det Ost-Asiatiske Industrieg Plantage Kompagni, being a company incorporated in Denmark, and having its registered office at 2 Holbergsgade, Copenhagen, of the one part, and this Company of the other part, for the Sale of the Kretay Estate, for the sum of £206,000.

Under all the above-mentioned Contracts this Company undertakes to pay all preliminary expenses.

(e) Dated 15th March, 1923, made between this Company, of the one part, and the Equatorial Rubber Trust, Ltd., having its registered office at 8 Fenchurch street, London, E.C., of the other part, being an agreement guaranteeing the subscription of 700,000 of the Shares now offered for subscription in consideration of an underwriting commission of 4 per cent. and an over-riding commission of 1 per cent., which is payable by this Company. The Trust has entered into various sub-underwriting contracts to which this Company is not a party.

(7). The Directors are interested as follows:—Alastair Patrick Hadow and Patrick Gow are both Directors of Equatorial Rubber Trust, Limited, and each holds therein 1,000 shares, such Trust having an issued capital of 624,157 shares of £1 each. Alastair Patrick Hadow has sub-underwritten 10,000 shares, and Patrick Gow has sub-underwritten 90,000 shares of the above-mentioned 700,000 shares, and each will accordingly be entitled to the underwriting commission thereon.

The minimum subscription upon which the Directors may proceed to allotment has been fixed by the Articles of Association at seven shares of 2/- each, to be issued upon the terms that the whole amount thereof shall be payable in cash, but 700,000 of the shares now offered have been underwritten, and 5,300,000 shares have already been applied for as stated.

Copies of the Memorandum and Articles of Association, of the above-mentioned Contracts, and of the Reports referred to, can be seen by intending subscribers at the Offices of the Company at any time while the Subscription List is open.

Application will be made to the Committee of the London Stock Exchange for permission to deal in the shares of the Company.

A brokerage of 1¼ per cent. will be paid by the Company on shares applied for and allotted upon applications (other than applications made in relief or in respect of underwriting) bearing the stamp of brokers, bankers, and approved agents.

Applications for Shares should be made on the Form accompanying this Prospectus, and sent to the Company's Bankers, together with a remittance for the amount of the deposit.

Where no allotment is made the deposit will be returned in full, and where the number of shares allotted is less than the number applied for, so much as is necessary of the balance will be applied towards the amount due on allotment, and any balance remaining will be returned.

Failure to pay the amount of balance due on allotment and/or one month after allotment on the shares allotted will render the shares and previous payments liable to forfeiture.

Prospectuses and forms of application for shares can be obtained from the Bankers, Brokers, and Solicitors, and at the Registered Offices of the Company.
